Taft and Douglas Disagree on Ways To End Red Tide

New Hampshire Plans Impeachment Vote

Wakefield, N. H., May 22 (AP)—This community of 1,286 residents will vote in a special town meeting tonight on the question:

"Should Harry Truman be impeached?"

The unusual meeting is the result of a petition bearing 50 signatures presented to selectmen last month. Only 10 petitioners are required to call such a meeting. There are 820 names on the town's checklist.

A town official said yesterday, "the situation is red hot and there's been quite a discussion going on ever since the petition was circulated."

Taft Sees Far East as Vital, While Douglas Is for Europe

Arden, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—Senators Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and Paul H. Douglas (D.-Ill.) signified basic agreement last night on the government's broad policy of combatting communism but voiced sharp disagreement over the proper means to achieve that end.

The two senators—mentioned as possible rival presidential candidates in 1952—spoke from the same platform at the opening session of the American Assembly, a gathering sponsored by Columbia University.

The Far East, said Taft, should be of primary importance because American troops are actually fighting there.

Europe, said Douglas, was of "vital importance" because of population and industrial factors. But he said the administration was ready to aid the Chinese people against their Red masters.

Air and sea power, Taft said, should be given priority in American armament plans.

But dominant air power, Douglas replied, has been unable to destroy Communist armies in Korea.

Could Spell Ruin

The U. S., Taft warned, has reached the limit of its defense spending and further expansion can spell national ruin.

Douglas agreed that the U. S. has approached its economic capacity, but he said the present margin of safety was "sufficient" although not tremendous.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Columbia president now on leave as Atlantic Pact Treaty commander, conceived the assembly before which the senators spoke as a means of clarifying vital issues for the public.

The assembly will meet all this week in roundtable discussions at a 96-room mansion on a mountain top near Arden. Presidential adviser W. Averell Harriman gave the mansion to Columbia as a permanent home for the assembly.

Views English Threats

Taft said the United States has risked war "over and over again" in Europe but would not take the same chance in Asia.

English threats to use troops in Iran to protect oil fields, Taft added, also pose the danger of World War 3.

He added that "we have to recognize" that American policy against communism "involves a constant danger that Russia may begin a third world war."

However, Taft said, he did not think the Russians "intend to do so, because I believe that they do not desire to risk destruction of communism by war when they believe that they can ultimately conquer the world without war."

And yet, Taft added, "the administration refuses to fight (the Korean) war with all the means at its command, on the theory that we might invite Russia to start a third world war."

Taft said he agreed that a limited number of American troops sent to Europe is justified to assure western Europe that America will share the dangers of fighting communism.

Would Lose People, Steel

Douglas said that if Russia overruns western Europe, America would lose 250,000,000 people of those countries and the steel they produce.

He said this would give Russia an "overwhelming" population advantage and bring her industrial production up to an "approximate" equal with ours.

Air and sea power, he said, would not by themselves prevent Russian occupation of western Europe.

Europeans want "to feel that we will fight by their side" and "not merely stand in the rear" if they are attacked, Douglas said.

He added that Europe's anti-Communist nations are contributing "proportionately as much as we" in manpower and expenditures towards common defense.

However, Douglas said that the administration is not neglecting Asia. He pointed to the American effort in Korea and support of the Chinese Nationalists but he declared:

"It seems to me wise not to take the extreme steps General MacArthur and his supporters advocate."

Lewis W. Douglas, former ambassador to Great Britain and chairman of the assembly's national policy board, summarized the discussion.

He said there appeared to be a wide area of agreement between the two senators on principle, but large disagreements of degree.

National Grange Master Predicts Buying Power Will Outstrip Supplies in Nation

Committee Divides

Part of Membership Is to Review Defense Production Act

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Herschel D. Newsom, master of the National Grange, predicted today that the government's present program of price controls will force rationing of meat before very long.

He said a recent rollback in cattle and meat prices will increase consumer buying power to the extent that there will not be enough meat to go around.

As a consequence, he said, consumers closest to areas of production and slaughter will be able to get more than their share, with consumers distant from those areas going without.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle has contended there is no evidence which would indicate any early need for rationing of meat.

Newsom made his forecast in connection with a luncheon sponsored by five major farm organizations for newsmen. All five issued statements expressing opposition to various phases of the government's stabilization program as it affects agriculture.

Are Dut to Testify

Representatives of the Grange were due, too, to testify before the House Banking Committee, along with cattle industry spokesmen, on extension of the Defense Production Act, due to expire June 30. The act provides the authority for wage and price controls.

The Senate Banking Committee, occupied with the same subject, turned today to the problems of holding down rents and making it tougher to buy a home. It took up an administration request for extension and tightening the rent control law and another for authority to extend credit curbs, now applicable only on new home purchases, to resale of older buildings.

Working against time, the committee divided forces. Part of its

Mass Rallies Are Called By Moslems

Demonstration Is Aimed at Britain and U. S., Trade Unionists to Hold Session

Will Delay Force

British Say They Will Use Arms Only as Last Resort

Tehran, Iran, May 22 (AP)—Iran's Moslem religious leaders and her Communist underground—both sworn to drive foreign oil interests out of their land—called mass rallies today to fan growing resentment against Britain and the United States.

The Moslems, who threaten holy war if the British resist nationalization of their giant Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, called a demonstration to "express hatred against interferences which violate our independence." The rally also is aimed against America taking any hand.

The underground Tudeh (Communist) Party, which opposes Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's electoral reforms and accuses him of dallying on oil nationalization, has summoned a meeting of trade unionists this morning. This also is expected to develop into a blast against Britain and the U. S.

Anti-British and anti-American sentiment grew in both press and Parliament following last night's diplomatic protest in which Iran's Nationalistic government accused the U. S. of interference in its internal affairs by siding with the British in the critical oil dispute.

Gives Formal Protest

Iran's Foreign Minister Bagher Kazemi handed to U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady a formal protest against the State Department's declaration of last Friday, which the Iranians view as a support of the British.

The American statement had said the U. S. would "strongly oppose" arbitrary Iranian action to cancel the Anglo-Iranian concession by nationalizing Iran's oil resources.

An air of crisis hung over Iran's capital, increased by unconfirmed reports that Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi had told Mossadegh that nationalistic unrest was endangering the country.

Thus far the drive to kick the British Oil Company out of Iran has been inspired mostly by nationalistic elements led by the premier.. But the Tudeh party, which has been outlawed since an attempt to assassinate the Shah in 1949, has become more active under the cloak of various front organizations.

A few moderate voices have been raised in warning against the danger of Iran's northern neighbor — Russia — but they have scarcely been heard in the loud clamor against Britain and the

Bradley Says Hopes Held for Peace, if Red Drive Can Be Stopped

Allies Push Forward in West Korea

Big Guns Assist

Eighth Army Officer Says Reds Are Hurt by Artillery

Tokyo, May 22 (AP) — Allied troops advanced in western Korea today, probed an ominous Chinese buildup on the east-central front, and fought to stem a Red sweep in the east.

Infantry troops waged see-saw battles in the eastern mountains 25 miles south of Parallel 38. Communist troops were trying to expand a wedge driven in South Korean lines near Soksa.

Front line reports said South Koreans were forced to adjust their lines for 25 miles eastward to the Sea of Japan. All dispatches referring to this action were heavily censored.

This fighting was on the eastern flank of the heroic U. S. Second Division which hacked four Chinese corps to pieces in a Red offensive started last Wednesday.

Second Division patrols probed northward Tuesday into a new force of 130,000 Chinese reported massing north of their lines for a new strike.

Showdown Battle

AP Correspondent William C. Barnard said the new Allied aggressiveness and the enemy buildup indicated a showdown battle.

While Reds streamed toward the east central front, they withdrew for the second successive day along the west-central and western fronts.

The Communists put up only light resistance to the United Nations advance, AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported from U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters. Allied troops pushed ahead two miles and more Tuesday morning.

An Eighth Army officer said the withdrawals were being made by small Communist contingents. He added:

"These small groups usually go to an assembly point where they congregate and move northward again in large numbers."

Reds were reported withdrawing across the Imjin river northwest of Seoul. Pursuing South Koreans marched through Munsan for the second straight day. Some units reached as far as 25 miles northeast of Seoul.

Push to Hongchon

British, American and Korean forces pushed up to the Hongchon and Pukan rivers southeast of Changgong, 25 miles northeast of Seoul.

American units crossed the Hongchon southeast of Kapyong. Red artillery center 32 miles northeast of Seoul. The Red bridgehead across the rivers virtually had disappeared.

An Eighth Army officer said the Reds were withdrawing to escape American artillery fire, a major factor in the destruction of an estimated 60,000 of their comrades in five days on the central front.

South Koreans made a fighting advance of a few hundred yards in the center, south of Chunchon. Red-held Chunchon is 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

U. S. Second Division troops fought sharp skirmishes as they stabbed out from Hangye on the east-central front to test the strength of new Chinese masses gathering in front of them.

Assault Is Smashed

One Chinese probing assault was smashed before it began. The on-rushing Chinese tripped allied flares. The entire area blazed into light, exposing two Chinese battalions.

Americans laid down "a solid wall of artillery and boxed the enemy in and then shellacked them," an Eighth Army officer said.

Second Division patrols checking the results of artillery barrages and night bombing found one small valley littered with Chinese dead. Survivors were in a dazed condition. All were well clothed, equipped with extra socks and even extra shoes for a long campaign.

Maj. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner proudly announced his Second Division had broken the back of the Chinese offensive and could do it

Decoration Given First Jet Ace for Fight with 'MIGs'

Captain Jabara Feels Stiff and Sore After His Experience Over Korea

Tokyo, May 22 (AP)—They pinned the Distinguished Service Cross on the world's first jet ace today. The medal, second only to the Medal of Honor, brought joy to the aching body of Capt. James Jabara of Wichita, Kas.

Jabara hasn't played football for nine years, but he said he felt as if he'd been through 60 minutes of the "big game."

He's still stiff and sore from Sunday's air battle in which he destroyed two Russian-type MIG-15 jets to run his score to six.

"My back muscles are awfully sore," he said. "In fact, I can hardly sit down, my fanny is so sore. The maneuvering required to match the evasive tactics of the MIGs pulls and strains you all over, even though the fight lasts only five minutes."

Things have happened fast to Jabara—no slow poke himself.

Sunday he became a jet ace.

700 Miles, One Hour

Monday he was relieved of combat duty and ordered to Japan as an instructor. (He made the 700 mile hop in one hour.)

Today, before a group of senior air force officers, he was decorated for dauntless courage in attacking numerically superior formations of Communist aircraft.

All this in a fight he shouldn't have been in, according to Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, public information officer of the Far Eastern Air Forces.

"Jabara won't tell you this," Nuckols said, "but when he reached the combat area and tried to drop his wing tanks, one wouldn't shake loose. That made his aircraft unbalanced and difficult to manage. He had to use two hands on the control stick. He should have returned to base immediately."

Jabara only smiled. He had waited since April 22, when he downed jet No. 4, for his chance at the ace-maker, (No. 5) and wouldn't be denied.

The 27-year old double ace—he was credited with nine and one-half air victories over Europe in World War 2—was graduated from high school in Wichita in May, 1942. He enlisted as an air cadet the same day.

Difference in Combat

He had this to say about the difference between air combat in Korea and Europe:

"There's a lot of difference—as much as night and day—because (1) of the great speeds today, up to 700 miles an hour; (2) the short time for firing, even when you're on the enemy's tail; and (3) it's very difficult to identify friend from foe in a split second since both the (F-86) Sabre jets and the MIGs have swept back wings and you can't see as well at 45,000 feet as you can at 10,000."

The MIGs have many advantages over us (1) they are only 30 to 50 miles from their base so

Says Plan Dropped When MacArthur Issued His Ultimatum

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley said today the U. S. military high command hopes a Korean peace can be negotiated if United Nations troops "bump off" the present Communist offensive.

Testifying at Senate hearings, Bradley said that military men had hoped in March that some peace move could be made. He added:

"We still hope that we will be in a position to again propose something through the United Nations which would end up in negotiations and cessation of hostilities."

Bradley said the March truce effort had to be abandoned when Gen. Douglas MacArthur served what Secretary of Defense Marshall described as an "ultimatum" on the Chinese commander in the field.

This was a MacArthur proposal for a cease-fire which carried also an implication the war might be widened if the Chinese commander did not accept it.

President Truman has said he made up his mind to dismiss MacArthur from the Far Eastern commands because of this move.

Keyed To Peace

Bradley made it plain that Korean strategy has been keyed for weeks now to the hope peace negotiations might follow if the

Adonis Might Get First Prison Term; 18 Months Likely

Judge Will Accept State Attorney General's View; Parsons Refuses Discussion

Hackensack, N. J., May 22 (AP)—Joe Adonis, listed by the Kefauver Committee as one of the nation's kingpin racketeers, today appeared headed for the first prison term of his long career.

But the big question here was: How long a sentence will the dapper gambler receive?

He could get a maximum sentence of up to 18 years, but unconfirmed courthouse opinion was that a term of from 18 months to three years was more likely.

Adonis, who with four henchmen yesterday pleaded no defense to gambling charges, was free in high bail awaiting sentence next Monday.

He and the co-defendants threw themselves on the mercy of the court instead of standing trial on charges of operating $1,000,000 North Jersey dice games which drew plush patrons from New York.

The maximum sentence facing the immaculately dressed Adonis and his lieutenants is 18 years in prison or fines of $18,000 each.

Entered Before Wallace

The pleas were entered before Superior Court Judge J. Wallace Leyden, who said he would accept a sentence recommendation from Attorney General Theodore D. Parsons.

A series of conferences preceded the entering of pleas, but Deputy Attorney General Nelson F. Stamler said, "you can say that the state made no deal whatsoever."

Parsons would not discuss what

Town of Gardiner Resident Reports Matter to State Police

A hazel-eyed, brown-haired baby girl, five or six months old and in apparent good health, was found on her front lawn by Mrs. Gertrude Lawler in the town of Gardiner about 8 a. m. Monday, state police reported today.

The baby, crying, was wrapped in a wet pink and blue blanket. Mrs. Lawler discovered it when she went out to get the milk from her porch.

The fact that the blanket and the clothing were wet indicated that the baby was abandoned at the Lawler place, which is on the road between Libertyville and Tuthill, sometime during the night.

Taken to Physician

Mrs. Lawler took the baby to Dr. Virgil DeWitt of New Paltz, who ordered it taken to Kingston Hospital for observation.

State police were notified, and troopers of the Highland station are conducting an investigation in an attempt to learn the identity of the parents who abandoned the baby girl.

The girl, white, was well dressed with yellow jumper jacket, overalls, a blue bonnet and white booties, troopers said.

The Lawler home is about eight miles north of Wallkill, where on September 29, 1950, the body of a still-born girl in a paper carton was discovered by two Wallkill boys, aged 13 and 14. As far as could be ascertained this morning, that case has not been solved. No criminal charges of such a nature have been handled by the Ulster county district attorney's office since long prior to that date.

Woman Is Given $50,000 Verdict in Death of Husband

$100,000 Action Brought Against Two Men for Accident in April, 1950

Helen M. Hughson of Big Indian was awarded a $50,000 verdict in Supreme court Monday afternoon in an action for $100,000 brought against Leandro Lopez, Sr., and Leandro Lopez, Jr., for the death of her husband, Roy Hughson. Mr. Hughson, 39, was fatally injured while walking along the Onteora Trail with his wife in April, 1950. He died on April 26, in Margaretville Hospital.

Hughson was struck down by a car as he was walking along the highway at Big Indian. There was no defense to the action so far as liability was concerned and the case went to the jury solely on the question as to the amount of damages. Liability was admitted by the defendants.

N. LeVan Haver appeared for the plaintiff and Cook & Cook were attorneys for the defendants.

Mrs. Hughson testified her husband was employed by the New York Central Railroad and earned about $3,000 a year. His doctor's bill amounted to $350. Beside his wife one small child also survived.

Jury Selected

A jury was selected to try No. 189, Jessie Campbell against Harry Snyder, a negligence action. Philip Korn of Kerhonkson with Cashin & Ewig of counsel appear for plaintiff and Cook & Cook appear for defendant.

To date Justice Bookstein has disposed of 65 cases which appeared on the calendar. This in-

Wilbur Combs, 55, of Berlin, Rensselaer county, who was found on Pine Grove avenue early today with a bullet wound in his chest, was reported in "good condition" at Kingston Hospital later today.

A police report at 5:05 a. m., noted a call from Charles Bailey, 154 Spring street, driver for Jones Dairy, who said "he had just found a man lying on Pine Grove avenue . . . who wants an ambulance and who claims that he has just shot himself."

Officers Earl Schoonmaker and Kenneth Stratton were dispatched to the scene, a W. N. Conner ambulance was called, and the man was taken to the hospital.

Child, 3, Sustains Broken Right Leg In Traffic Mishap

Leslie Carol Eck, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Eck, of 25 Charlotte Place West, suffered a broken right leg and other injuries in a traffic mishap on Elmendorf street yesterday.

The child, who also suffered a bruise over the right eye and other possible injuries, police said, was reported in "apparently good" condition at the hospital today. The leg fracture, the report said, was above the knee.

The police report at 5:55 p. m., said that Clarence Bonestell, of 102 Hasbrouck avenue, driving a sedan owned by Warren E. Powell, of 129 Cedar street, reported that he was headed west on Elmendorf street and "had just passed Belvedere street, when a small child ran from the north curb of Elmendorf street into the right rear fender of the car."

The child was thrown to the pavement and was picked up by the operator of the car and taken to the office of Dr. C. B. Van Gaasbeek for examination, after which she was taken to Kingston Hospital.

Mrs. Harry Canright, of 56 Elmendorf street, the child's grandmother with whom she was staying at the time, said today that only a moment before the mishap they had been together in the yard, and the youngster apparently had left the yard as she answered the telephone.

Merchants Cannot Be Forced To Respect Price Minimums

Washington, May 22 (AP)—A merchant who wants to cut prices has the backing of the Supreme Court unless he has signed an agreement not to sell at cut rates.

Dealers cannot be compelled to respect price minimums set under state fair trade laws if they have not voluntarily agreed to do so, the highest tribunal decided yesterday.

Lawyers who asked the court to give such a decision said millions of buyers in the 45 states with fair trade laws would be saved large sums by being permitted to buy "in a free competitive market."

The effect of the decision, they said, is to cripple or kill the state fair trade laws. Such laws permit the fixing of minimum retail prices by agreements between manufacturers and merchants. Vermont, Texas, Missouri and the District of Columbia have no fair trade laws.

The 45 state fair trade laws say that minimums fixed by such agreements apply to all retailers in the states—even those who would not sign.

The court's opinion, by Justice Douglas, said non-signing merchants can't be "dragged in by the heels and compelled to submit to price fixing." Distributors who want to hold up prices, Douglas added, cannot have the right to use both an agreement and a "club" to force non-signers into line.

Woman Is Given $50,000 Verdict in Death of Husband

$100,000 Action Brought Against Two Men for Accident in April, 1950

Helen M. Hughson of Big Indian was awarded a $50,000 verdict in Supreme court Monday afternoon in an action for $100,000 brought against Leandro Lopez, Sr., and Leandro Lopez, Jr., for the death of her husband, Roy Hughson. Mr. Hughson, 39, was fatally injured while walking along the Onteora Trail with his wife in April, 1950. He died on April 26, in Margaretville Hospital.

Hughson was struck down by a car as he was walking along the highway at Big Indian. There was no defense to the action so far as liability was concerned and the case went to the jury solely on the question as to the amount of damages. Liability was admitted by the defendants.

N. LeVan Haver appeared for the plaintiff and Cook & Cook were attorneys for the defendants.

Mrs. Hughson testified her husband was employed by the New York Central Railroad and earned about $3,000 a year. His doctor's bill amounted to $350. Beside his wife one small child also survived.

Jury Selected

A jury was selected to try No. 189, Jessie Campbell against Harry Snyder, a negligence action. Philip Korn of Kerhonkson with Cashin & Ewig of counsel appear for plaintiff and Cook & Cook appear for defendant.

Mass Rallies Are Called By Moslems

Demonstration Is Aimed at Britain and U. S., Trade Unionists to Hold Session

Will Delay Force

British Say They Will Use Arms Only as Last Resort

Tehran, Iran, May 22 (AP)—Iran's Moslem religious leaders and her Communist underground—both sworn to drive foreign oil interests out of their land—called mass rallies today to fan growing resentment against Britain and the United States.

The Moslems, who threaten holy war if the British resist nationalization of their giant Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, called a demonstration to "express hatred against interferences which violate our independence." The rally also is aimed against America taking any hand.

The underground Tudeh (Communist) Party, which opposes Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's electoral reforms and accuses him of dallying on oil nationalization, has summoned a meeting of trade unionists this morning. This also is expected to develop into a blast against Britain and the U. S.

Anti-British and anti-American sentiment grew in both press and Parliament following last night's diplomatic protest in which Iran's Nationalistic government accused the U. S. of interference in its internal affairs by siding with the British in the critical oil dispute.

Gives Formal Protest

Iran's Foreign Minister Bagher Kazemi handed to U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady a formal protest against the State Department's declaration of last Friday, which the Iranians view as a support of the British.

The American statement had said the U. S. would "strongly oppose" arbitrary Iranian action to cancel the Anglo-Iranian concession by nationalizing Iran's oil resources.

An air of crisis hung over Iran's capital, increased by unconfirmed reports that Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi had told Mossadegh that nationalistic unrest was endangering the country.

Thus far the drive to kick the British Oil Company out of Iran has been inspired mostly by nationalistic elements led by the premier. But the Tudeh party, which has been outlawed since an attempt to assassinate the Shah in 1949, has become more active under the cloak of various front organizations.

A few moderate voices have been raised in warning against the danger of Iran's northern neighbor — Russia — but they have scarcely been heard in the loud clamor against Britain and the

Decoration Given First Jet Ace for Fight with 'MIGs'

Captain Jabara Feels Stiff and Sore After His Experience Over Korea

Tokyo, May 22 (AP)—They pinned the Distinguished Service Cross on the world's first jet ace today. The medal, second only to the Medal of Honor, brought joy to the aching body of Capt. James Jabara of Wichita, Kas.

Jabara hasn't played football for nine years, but he said he felt as if he'd been through 60 minutes of the "big game."

He's still stiff and sore from Sunday's air battle in which he destroyed two Russian-type MIG-15 jets to run his score to six.

"My back muscles are awfully sore," he said. "In fact, I can hardly sit down, my fanny is so sore. The maneuvering required to match the evasive tactics of the MIGs pulls and strains you all over, even though the fight lasts only five minutes."

Things have happened fast to Jabara—no slow poke himself.

Sunday he became a jet ace.

700 Miles, One Hour

Monday he was relieved of combat duty and ordered to Japan as an instructor. (He made the 700 mile hop in one hour.)

Today, before a group of senior air force officers, he was decorated for dauntless courage in attacking numerically superior formations of Communist aircraft.

All this in a fight he shouldn't have been in, according to Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, public information officer of the Far Eastern Air Forces.

"Jabara won't tell you this," Nuckols said, "but when he reached the combat area and tried to drop his wing tanks, one wouldn't shake loose. That made his aircraft unbalanced and difficult to manage. He had to use two hands on the control stick. He should have returned to base immediately."

Jabara only smiled. He had waited since April 22, when he downed jet No. 4, for his chance at the ace-maker, (No. 5) and wouldn't be denied.

The 27-year old double ace—he was credited with nine and one-half air victories over Europe in World War 2—was graduated from high school in Wichita in May, 1942. He enlisted as an air cadet the same day.

Difference in Combat

He had this to say about the difference between air combat in Korea and Europe:

"There's a lot of difference—as much as night and day—because (1) of the great speeds today, up to 700 miles an hour; (2) the short time for firing, even when you're on the enemy's tail; and (3) it's very difficult to identify friend from foe in a split second since both the (F-86) Sabre jets and the MIGs have swept back wings and you can't see as well at 45,000 feet as you can at 10,000."

The MIGs have many advantages over us (1) they are only 30 to 50 miles from their base so

Says Plan Dropped When MacArthur Issued His Ultimatum

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Gen. Omar Bradley said today the U. S. military high command hopes a Korean peace can be negotiated if United Nations troops "bump off" the present Communist offensive.

Testifying at Senate hearings, Bradley said that military men had hoped in March that some peace move could be made. He added:

"We still hope that we will be in a position to again propose something through the United Nations which would end up in negotiations and cessation of hostilities."

Bradley said the March truce effort had to be abandoned when Gen. Douglas MacArthur served what Secretary of Defense Marshall described as an "ultimatum" on the Chinese commander in the field.

This was a MacArthur proposal for a cease-fire which carried also an implication the war might be widened if the Chinese commander did not accept it.

President Truman has said he made up his mind to dismiss MacArthur from the Far Eastern commands because of this move.

Child, 3, Sustains Broken Right Leg In Traffic Mishap

Leslie Carol Eck, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Eck, of 25 Charlotte Place West, suffered a broken right leg and other injuries in a traffic mishap on Elmendorf street yesterday.

The child, who also suffered a bruise over the right eye and other possible injuries, police said, was reported in "apparently good" condition at the hospital today. The leg fracture, the report said, was above the knee.

The police report at 5:55 p. m., said that Clarence Bonestell, of 102 Hasbrouck avenue, driving a sedan owned by Warren E. Powell, of 129 Cedar street, reported that he was headed west on Elmendorf street and "had just passed Belvedere street, when a small child ran from the north curb of Elmendorf street into the right rear fender of the car."

The child was thrown to the pavement and was picked up by the operator of the car and taken to the office of Dr. C. B. Van Gaasbeek for examination, after which she was taken to Kingston Hospital.

Mrs. Harry Canright, of 56 Elmendorf street, the child's grandmother with whom she was staying at the time, said today that only a moment before the mishap they had been together in the yard, and the youngster apparently had left the yard as she answered the telephone.

Allies Push Forward in West Korea

Big Guns Assist

Eighth Army Officer Says Reds Are Hurt by Artillery

Tokyo, May 22 (AP) — Allied troops advanced in western Korea today, probed an ominous Chinese buildup on the east-central front, and fought to stem a Red sweep in the east.

Infantry troops waged see-saw battles in the eastern mountains 25 miles south of Parallel 38. Communist troops were trying to expand a wedge driven in South Korean lines near Soksa.

Front line reports said South Koreans were forced to adjust their lines for 25 miles eastward to the Sea of Japan. All dispatches referring to this action were heavily censored.

This fighting was on the eastern flank of the heroic U. S. Second Division which hacked four Chinese corps to pieces in a Red offensive started last Wednesday.

Second Division patrols probed northward Tuesday into a new force of 130,000 Chinese reported massing north of their lines for a new strike.

Showdown Battle

AP Correspondent William C. Barnard said the new Allied aggressiveness and the enemy buildup indicated a showdown battle.

While Reds streamed toward the east central front, they withdrew for the second successive day along the west-central and western fronts.

The Communists put up only light resistance to the United Nations advance, AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported from U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters. Allied troops pushed ahead two miles and more Tuesday morning.

An Eighth Army officer said the withdrawals were being made by small Communist contingents. He added:

"These small groups usually go to an assembly point where they congregate and move northward again in large numbers."

Reds were reported withdrawing across the Imjin river northwest of Seoul. Pursuing South Koreans marched through Munsan for the second straight day. Some units reached as far as 25 miles northeast of Seoul.

Push to Hongchon

British, American and Korean forces pushed up to the Hongchon and Pukan rivers southeast of Changgong, 25 miles northeast of Seoul.

American units crossed the Hongchon southeast of Kapyong, Red artillery center 32 miles northeast of Seoul. The Red bridgehead across the rivers virtually had disappeared.

An Eighth Army officer said the Reds were withdrawing to escape American artillery fire, a major factor in the destruction of an estimated 60,000 of their comrades in five days on the central front.

South Koreans made a fighting advance of a few hundred yards in the center, south of Chunchon. Red-held Chunchon is 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

U. S. Second Division troops fought sharp skirmishes as they stabbed out from Hangye on the east-central front to test the strength of new Chinese masses gathering in front of them.

Assault Is Smashed

One Chinese probing assault was smashed before it began. The on-rushing Chinese tripped allied flares. The entire area blazed into light, exposing two Chinese battalions.

Americans laid down "a solid wall of artillery and boxed the enemy in and then shellacked them," an Eighth Army officer said.

Second Division patrols checking the results of artillery barrages and night bombing found one small valley littered with Chinese dead. Survivors were in a dazed condition. All were well clothed, equipped with extra socks and even extra shoes for a long campaign.

Maj. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner proudly announced his Second Division had broken the back of the Chinese offensive and could do it

Merchants Cannot Be Forced To Respect Price Minimums

Washington, May 22 (AP)—A merchant who wants to cut prices has the backing of the Supreme Court unless he has signed an agreement not to sell at cut rates.

Dealers cannot be compelled to respect price minimums set under state fair trade laws if they have not voluntarily agreed to do so, the highest tribunal decided yesterday.

Lawyers who asked the court to give such a decision said millions of buyers in the 45 states with fair trade laws would be saved large sums by being permitted to buy "in a free competitive market."

The effect of the decision, they said, is to cripple or kill the state fair trade laws. Such laws permit the fixing of minimum retail prices by agreements between manufacturers and merchants. Vermont, Texas, Missouri and the District of Columbia have no fair trade laws.

The 45 state fair trade laws say that minimums fixed by such agreements apply to all retailers in the states—even those who would not sign.

The court's opinion, by Justice Douglas, said non-signing merchants can't be "dragged in by the heels and compelled to submit to price fixing." Distributors who want to hold up prices, Douglas added, cannot have the right to use both an agreement and a "club" to force non-signers into line.

Taft and Douglas Disagree on Ways To End Red Tide

New Hampshire Plans Impeachment Vote

Wakefield, N. H., May 22 (AP)—This community of 1,286 residents will vote in a special town meeting tonight on the question:

"Should Harry Truman be impeached?"

The unusual meeting is the result of a petition bearing 50 signatures presented to selectmen last month. Only 10 petitioners are required to call such a meeting. There are 820 names on the town's checklist.

A town official said yesterday, "the situation is red hot and there's been quite a discussion going on ever since the petition was circulated."

Taft Sees Far East as Vital, While Douglas Is for Europe

Arden, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—Senators Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and Paul H. Douglas (D.-Ill.) signified basic agreement last night on the government's broad policy of combatting communism but voiced sharp disagreement over the proper means to achieve that end.

The two senators—mentioned as possible rival presidential candidates in 1952—spoke from the same platform at the opening session of the American Assembly, a gathering sponsored by Columbia University.

The Far East, said Taft, should be of primary importance because American troops are actually fighting there.

Europe, said Douglas, was of "vital importance" because of population and industrial factors. But he said the administration was ready to aid the Chinese people against their Red masters.

Air and sea power, Taft said, should be given priority in American armament plans.

But dominant air power, Douglas replied, has been unable to destroy Communist armies in Korea.

Could Spell Ruin

The U. S., Taft warned, has reached the limit of its defense spending and further expansion can spell national ruin.

Douglas agreed that the U. S. has approached its economic capacity, but he said the present margin of safety was "sufficient" although not tremendous.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Columbia president now on leave as Atlantic Pact Treaty commander, conceived the assembly before which the senators spoke as a means of clarifying vital issues for the public.

The assembly will meet all this week in roundtable discussions at a 96-room mansion on a mountain top near Arden. Presidential adviser W. Averell Harriman gave the mansion to Columbia as a permanent home for the assembly.

Views English Threats

Taft said the United States has risked war "over and over again" in Europe but would not take the same chance in Asia.

English threats to use troops in Iran to protect oil fields, Taft added, also pose the danger of World War 3.

He added that "we have to recognize" that American policy against communism "involves a constant danger that Russia may begin a third world war."

However, Taft said, he did not think the Russians "intend to do so, because I believe that they do not desire to risk destruction of communism by war when they believe that they can ultimately conquer the world without war."

And yet, Taft added, "the administration refuses to fight (the Korean) war with all the means at its command, on the theory that we might invite Russia to start a third world war."

Taft said he agreed that a limited number of American troops sent to Europe is justified to assure western Europe that America will share the dangers of fighting communism.

Would Lose People, Steel

Douglas said that if Russia overruns western Europe, America would lose 250,000,000 people of those countries and the steel they produce.

He said this would give Russia an "overwhelming" population advantage and bring her industrial production up to an "approximate" equal with ours.

Air and sea power, he said, would not by themselves prevent Russian occupation of western Europe.

Europeans want "to feel that we will fight by their side" and "not merely stand in the rear" if they are attacked, Douglas said.

He added that Europe's anti-Communist nations are contributing "proportionately as much as we" in manpower and expenditures towards common defense.

However, Douglas said that the administration is not neglecting Asia. He pointed to the American effort in Korea and support of the Chinese Nationalists but he declared:

"It seems to me wise not to take the extreme steps General MacArthur and his supporters advocate."

Lewis W. Douglas, former ambassador to Great Britain and chairman of the assembly's national policy board, summarized the discussion.

He said there appeared to be a wide area of agreement between the two senators on principle, but large disagreements of degree.

Adonis Might Get First Prison Term; 18 Months Likely

Judge Will Accept State Attorney General's View; Parsons Refuses Discussion

Hackensack, N. J., May 22 (AP)—Joe Adonis, listed by the Kefauver Committee as one of the nation's kingpin racketeers, today appeared headed for the first prison term of his long career.

But the big question here was: How long a sentence will the dapper gambler receive?

He could get a maximum sentence of up to 18 years, but unconfirmed courthouse opinion was that a term of from 18 months to three years was more likely.

Adonis, who with four henchmen yesterday pleaded no defense to gambling charges, was free in high bail awaiting sentence next Monday.

He and the co-defendants threw themselves on the mercy of the court instead of standing trial on charges of operating $1,000,000 North Jersey dice games which drew plush patrons from New York.

The maximum sentence facing the immaculately dressed Adonis and his lieutenants is 18 years in prison or fines of $18,000 each.

Entered Before Wallace

The pleas were entered before Superior Court Judge J. Wallace Leyden, who said he would accept a sentence recommendation from Attorney General Theodore D. Parsons.

A series of conferences preceded the entering of pleas, but Deputy Attorney General Nelson F. Stamler said, "you can say that the state made no deal whatsoever."

Parsons would not discuss what

Town of Gardiner Resident Reports Matter to State Police

A hazel-eyed, brown-haired baby girl, five or six months old and in apparent good health, was found on her front lawn by Mrs. Gertrude Lawler in the town of Gardiner about 8 a. m. Monday, state police reported today.

The baby, crying, was wrapped in a wet pink and blue blanket. Mrs. Lawler discovered it when she went out to get the milk from her porch.

The fact that the blanket and the clothing were wet indicated that the baby was abandoned at the Lawler place, which is on the road between Libertyville and Tuthill, sometime during the night.

Taken to Physician

Mrs. Lawler took the baby to Dr. Virgil DeWitt of New Paltz, who ordered it taken to Kingston Hospital for observation.

State police were notified, and troopers of the Highland station are conducting an investigation in an attempt to learn the identity of the parents who abandoned the baby girl.

The girl, white, was well dressed with yellow jumper jacket, overalls, a blue bonnet and white booties, troopers said.

The Lawler home is about eight miles north of Wallkill, where on September 29, 1950, the body of a still-born girl in a paper carton was discovered by two Wallkill boys, aged 13 and 14. As far as could be ascertained this morning, that case has not been solved. No criminal charges of such a nature have been handled by the Ulster county district attorney's office since long prior to that date.

Opinion Is Meat Ration Will Follow

National Grange Master Predicts Buying Power Will Outstrip Supplies in Nation

Committee Divides

Part of Membership Is to Review Defense Production Act

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Herschel D. Newsom, master of the National Grange, predicted today that the government's present program of price controls will force rationing of meat before very long.

He said a recent rollback in cattle and meat prices will increase consumer buying power to the extent that there will not be enough meat to go around.

As a consequence, he said, consumers closest to areas of production and slaughter will be able to get more than their share, with consumers distant from those areas going without.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle has contended there is no evidence which would indicate any early need for rationing of meat.

Newsom made his forecast in connection with a luncheon sponsored by five major farm organizations for newsmen. All five issued statements expressing opposition to various phases of the government's stabilization program as it affects agriculture.

Are Dut to Testify

Representatives of the Grange were due, too, to testify before the House Banking Committee, along with cattle industry spokesmen, on extension of the Defense Production Act, due to expire June 30. The act provides the authority for wage and price controls.

The Senate Banking Committee, occupied with the same subject, turned today to the problems of holding down rents and making it tougher to buy a home. It took up an administration request for extension and tightening the rent control law and another for authority to extend credit curbs, now applicable only on new home purchases, to resale of older buildings.

Working against time, the committee divided forces. Part of its

The child, who also suffered a bruise over the right eye and other possible injuries, police said, was reported in "apparently good" condition at the hospital today. The leg fracture, the report said, was above the knee.

The police report at 5:55 p. m., said that Clarence Bonestell, of 102 Hasbrouck avenue, driving a sedan owned by Warren E. Powell, of 129 Cedar street, reported that he was headed west on Elmendorf street and "had just passed Belvedere street, when a small child ran from the north curb of Elmendorf street into the right rear fender of the car."

The child was thrown to the pavement and was picked up by the operator of the car and taken to the office of Dr. C. B. Van Gaasbeek for examination, after which she was taken to Kingston Hospital.

Mrs. Harry Canright, of 56 Elmendorf street, the child's grandmother with whom she was staying at the time, said today that only a moment before the mishap they had been together in the yard, and the youngster apparently had left the yard as she answered the telephone.

Allies Push Forward in West Korea

Big Guns Assist

Eighth Army Officer Says Reds Are Hurt by Artillery

Tokyo, May 22 (AP) — Allied troops advanced in western Korea today, probed an ominous Chinese buildup on the east-central front, and fought to stem a Red sweep in the east.

Infantry troops waged see-saw battles in the eastern mountains 25 miles south of Parallel 38. Communist troops were trying to expand a wedge driven in South Korean lines near Soksa.

Front line reports said South Koreans were forced to adjust their lines for 25 miles eastward to the Sea of Japan. All dispatches referring to this action were heavily censored.

This fighting was on the eastern flank of the heroic U. S. Second Division which hacked four Chinese corps to pieces in a Red offensive started last Wednesday.

Second Division patrols probed northward Tuesday into a new force of 130,000 Chinese reported massing north of their lines for a new strike.

Showdown Battle

AP Correspondent William C. Barnard said the new Allied aggressiveness and the enemy buildup indicated a showdown battle.

While Reds streamed toward the east central front, they withdrew for the second successive day along the west-central and western fronts.

The Communists put up only light resistance to the United Nations advance, AP Correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported from U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters. Allied troops pushed ahead two miles and more Tuesday morning.

An Eighth Army officer said the withdrawals were being made by small Communist contingents. He added:

"These small groups usually go to an assembly point where they congregate and move northward again in large numbers."

Reds were reported withdrawing across the Imjin river northwest of Seoul. Pursuing South Koreans marched through Munsan for the second straight day. Some units reached as far as 25 miles northeast of Seoul.

Push to Hongchon

British, American and Korean forces pushed up to the Hongchon and Pukan rivers southeast of Changgong, 25 miles northeast of Seoul.

American units crossed the Hongchon southeast of Kapyong. Red artillery center 32 miles northeast of Seoul. The Red bridgehead across the rivers virtually had disappeared.

An Eighth Army officer said the Reds were withdrawing to escape American artillery fire, a major factor in the destruction of an estimated 60,000 of their comrades in five days on the central front.

South Koreans made a fighting advance of a few hundred yards in the center, south of Chunchon. Red-held Chunchon is 45 miles northeast of Seoul.

U. S. Second Division troops fought sharp skirmishes as they stabbed out from Hangye on the east-central front to test the strength of new Chinese masses gathering in front of them.

Assault Is Smashed

One Chinese probing assault was smashed before it began. The on-rushing Chinese tripped allied flares. The entire area blazed into light, exposing two Chinese battalions.

Americans laid down "a solid wall of artillery and boxed the enemy in and then shellacked them," an Eighth Army officer said.

Second Division patrols checking the results of artillery barrages and night bombing found one small valley littered with Chinese dead. Survivors were in a dazed condition. All were well clothed, equipped with extra socks and even extra shoes for a long campaign.

Maj. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner proudly announced his Second Division had broken the back of the Chinese offensive and could do it

Merchants Cannot Be Forced To Respect Price Minimums

Washington, May 22 (AP)—A merchant who wants to cut prices has the backing of the Supreme Court unless he has signed an agreement not to sell at cut rates.

Dealers cannot be compelled to respect price minimums set under state fair trade laws if they have not voluntarily agreed to do so, the highest tribunal decided yesterday.

Lawyers who asked the court to give such a decision said millions of buyers in the 45 states with fair trade laws would be saved large sums by being permitted to buy "in a free competitive market."

The effect of the decision, they said, is to cripple or kill the state fair trade laws. Such laws permit the fixing of minimum retail prices by agreements between manufacturers and merchants. Vermont, Texas, Missouri and the District of Columbia have no fair trade laws.

The 45 state fair trade laws say that minimums fixed by such agreements apply to all retailers in the states—even those who would not sign.

The court's opinion, by Justice Douglas, said non-signing merchants can't be "dragged in by the heels and compelled to submit to price fixing." Distributors who want to hold up prices, Douglas added, cannot have the right to use both an agreement and a "club" to force non-signers into line.

Rosaria Bellio Killed in Action

Mrs. Rose Bellio, of 121 Fair street, said today she had received a telegram Saturday announcing that her son, Pfc. Rosario J. Bellio was killed in action in Korea last April 28 while serving with the Seventh Division, First Cavalry.

Pfc. Bellio was inducted on Jan. 16, 1948, and was released from the service on Aug. 15 because of the illness of his father, who subsequently died. He was recalled to the service on Oct. 18, 1950. He then served a few weeks in Texas, from there was shipped to Japan and then Korea where he had seen about six months front-line action before his death.

A former resident of the city, Pfc. Bellio had attended School No. 5. The family then resided on Susan street. Prior to entering the service, he had been employed as a cutter in local textile plants. He was a member of St. Mary's Church.

Berlin Resident

through the chest." The officers took his coat, shirt and tie, "which he had taken off" to headquarters.

Note Is Reported

Also taken in with his belongings was a .38 calibre Iver Johnson revolver, some shells and a note headed only with, "Berlin, 1951," which read: "Please be advised that there is no one to blame for the present condition I am in but myself." It was signed, "Respectfully yours, Wilbur Combs."

Police said the bullet was extracted by Dr. Jack Lehner, and the report said the man "is not severely injured." The bullet entered the chest, passed through a lung and lodged near the back, it said.

The police record also indicated it was a mystery how the bullet missed fatal results "considering the location of the wound."

Comb's sister, Mrs. Henry Seagroatt, of Berlin, was notified through a mesage from local police to the state police in the Berlin area.

Charles Bailey, the dairy truck driver, said that Combs was walking when he first spoke to him and requested Bailey to get him to the hospital. Then he collapsed and fell on a lawn near Sterling street, he said. The man answered no questions, Bailey said, and he did not give his name at the time.

Police said Combs was on Pine Grove avenue near Sterling street and across from St. Peter's Cemetery, when they arrived. He said the revolver was in the cemetery, and the officers found it there after a search. He said nothing more at the time that would be of immediate information to the police, they indicated.

Postal Rates Approved

Washington, May 22 (AP)—A 60 per cent increase in newspaper and other second class publication mail charges was approved tentatively today by the House Postoffice Committee. The increase would go into effect over a three-year period at the rate of 20 per cent a year. Its sponsors say it would add approximately $25,000,000 to current postoffice revenues at present volume. The committee previously gave tentative approval to doubling the mailing charge on postcards and government postal cards from one to two cents. In addition to the 20-20-20 three-year second class increase, the committee wrote into the postal bill a minimum mailing charge of one-eighth cent per copy for newspapers except those which are distributed free in the county of publication.

Wager Is Placed On Critical List

William Wager, 21, of Kripplebush, one of three men injured Saturday morning in an automobile crash on the Onteora Trail (Route 28) at the city line, is on the "critical" list at the Benedictine Hospital.

According to a report received by the sheriff's office shortly after the accident, Wager received a possible fractured skull and brain injuries.

Other men injured in the accident were William Rubin, 26, of Ellenville, reported in "fair" condition at the hospital, and Harold Tokle, 22, of Kerhonkson, whose condition report today was "satisfactory."

The three young men, employes of the Channel Master Corporation of Ellenville, were returning to their homes from Woodstock when the automobile crashed into a steel girder on the bridge which spans the Esopus creek on Route 28 at the Kingston city line, the sheriff's office reported. The bridge connects with the Washington avenue viaduct. The men were all members of a ball team that had played in the town of Wawarsing on Friday, the sheriff's office said.

Start of a Wonderful Journey!

Well, there it goes—out from the great Cadillac factory into the hands of a proud and happy owner.

And what an odyssey it would make if its whole future course could be charted and foreseen!

—far journeys to the world's most fascinating places . . . grand appearances at the proudest social events . . . splendid visits to affairs of state . . . year after year of participation in the life of a fine American family.

Yes—and perhaps two or three, or even four fine American families—for a Cadillac is so soundly designed and built that there is no practical limit to its utility.

Truly, no more interesting biography could be written than an account of the life of the average Cadillac car. As the preliminary means of transportation for interesting, vital people—it is usually a spectator at important events—always in demand as a trustworthy traveling companion.

So there it goes, like the many thousands of its predecessors, on one of the most eventful and fascinating journeys a motor car ever began.

Wouldn't it be wonderful—and inspiring—to go along?

We are sorry indeed that delay in delivery of new Cadillacs continues unavoidable. If you are waiting for a Cadillac, please be patient—but hold to your purpose. There is no substitute for the "Standard of the World."

Liquor Dealers Warned

Trenton, N. J., May 22 (AP)—Governor Driscoll today warned liquor dealers they will have their licenses suspended or revoked if they cut prices below fair trade levels. Driscoll commented on the Supreme Court decision that state fair trade laws do not bar price cutting by stores that sign no pricing agreements.

Berlin Resident

through the chest." The officers took his coat, shirt and tie, "which he had taken off" to headquarters.

Note Is Reported

Also taken in with his belongings was a .38 calibre Iver Johnson revolver, some shells and a note headed only with, "Berlin, 1951," which read: "Please be advised that there is no one to blame for the present condition I am in but myself." It was signed, "Respectfully yours, Wilbur Combs."

Police said the bullet was extracted by Dr. Jack Lehner, and the report said the man "is not severely injured." The bullet entered the chest, passed through a lung and lodged near the back, it said.

The police record also indicated it was a mystery how the bullet missed fatal results "considering the location of the wound."

Comb's sister, Mrs. Henry Seagroatt, of Berlin, was notified through a mesage from local police to the state police in the Berlin area.

Charles Bailey, the dairy truck driver, said that Combs was walking when he first spoke to him and requested Bailey to get him to the hospital. Then he collapsed and fell on a lawn near Sterling street, he said. The man answered no questions, Bailey said, and he did not give his name at the time.

Police said Combs was on Pine Grove avenue near Sterling street and across from St. Peter's Cemetery, when they arrived. He said the revolver was in the cemetery, and the officers found it there after a search. He said nothing more at the time that would be of immediate information to the police, they indicated.

Postal Rates Approved

Washington, May 22 (AP)—A 60 per cent increase in newspaper and other second class publication mail charges was approved tentatively today by the House Postoffice Committee. The increase would go into effect over a three-year period at the rate of 20 per cent a year. Its sponsors say it would add approximately $25,000,000 to current postoffice revenues at present volume. The committee previously gave tentative approval to doubling the mailing charge on postcards and government postal cards from one to two cents. In addition to the 20-20-20 three-year second class increase, the committee wrote into the postal bill a minimum mailing charge of one-eighth cent per copy for newspapers except those which are distributed free in the county of publication.

Wager Is Placed On Critical List

William Wager, 21, of Kripplebush, one of three men injured Saturday morning in an automobile crash on the Onteora Trail (Route 28) at the city line, is on the "critical" list at the Benedictine Hospital.

According to a report received by the sheriff's office shortly after the accident, Wager received a possible fractured skull and brain injuries.

Other men injured in the accident were William Rubin, 26, of Ellenville, reported in "fair" condition at the hospital, and Harold Tokle, 22, of Kerhonkson, whose condition report today was "satisfactory."

The three young men, employes of the Channel Master Corporation of Ellenville, were returning to their homes from Woodstock when the automobile crashed into a steel girder on the bridge which spans the Esopus creek on Route 28 at the Kingston city line, the sheriff's office reported. The bridge connects with the Washington avenue viaduct. The men were all members of a ball team that had played in the town of Wawarsing on Friday, the sheriff's office said.

Start of a Wonderful Journey!

Well, there it goes—out from the great Cadillac factory into the hands of a proud and happy owner.

And what an odyssey it would make if its whole future course could be charted and foreseen!

—far journeys to the world's most fascinating places . . . grand appearances at the proudest social events . . . splendid visits to affairs of state . . . year after year of participation in the life of a fine American family.

Yes—and perhaps two or three, or even four fine American families—for a Cadillac is so soundly designed and built that there is no practical limit to its utility.

Truly, no more interesting biography could be written than an account of the life of the average Cadillac car. As the preliminary means of transportation for interesting, vital people—it is usually a spectator at important events—always in demand as a trustworthy traveling companion.

So there it goes, like the many thousands of its predecessors, on one of the most eventful and fascinating journeys a motor car ever began.

Wouldn't it be wonderful—and inspiring—to go along?

We are sorry indeed that delay in delivery of new Cadillacs continues unavoidable. If you are waiting for a Cadillac, please be patient—but hold to your purpose. There is no substitute for the "Standard of the World."

Rosaria Bellio Killed in Action

Mrs. Rose Bellio, of 121 Fair street, said today she had received a telegram Saturday announcing that her son, Pfc. Rosario J. Bellio was killed in action in Korea last April 28 while serving with the Seventh Division, First Cavalry.

Pfc. Bellio was inducted on Jan. 16, 1948, and was released from the service on Aug. 15 because of the illness of his father, who subsequently died. He was recalled to the service on Oct. 18, 1950. He then served a few weeks in Texas, from there was shipped to Japan and then Korea where he had seen about six months front-line action before his death.

A former resident of the city, Pfc. Bellio had attended School No. 5. The family then resided on Susan street. Prior to entering the service, he had been employed as a cutter in local textile plants. He was a member of St. Mary's Church.

Liquor Dealers Warned

Trenton, N. J., May 22 (AP)—Governor Driscoll today warned liquor dealers they will have their licenses suspended or revoked if they cut prices below fair trade levels. Driscoll commented on the Supreme Court decision that state fair trade laws do not bar price cutting by stores that sign no pricing agreements.

Berlin Resident

through the chest." The officers took his coat, shirt and tie, "which he had taken off" to headquarters.

Note Is Reported

Also taken in with his belongings was a .38 calibre Iver Johnson revolver, some shells and a note headed only with, "Berlin, 1951." which read: "Please be advised that there is no one to blame for the present condition I am in but myself." It was signed, "Respectfully yours, Wilbur Combs."

Police said the bullet was extracted by Dr. Jack Lehner, and the report said the man "is not severely injured." The bullet entered the chest, passed through a lung and lodged near the back, it said.

The police record also indicated it was a mystery how the bullet missed fatal results "considering the location of the wound."

Comb's sister, Mrs. Henry Seagroatt, of Berlin, was notified through a mesage from local police to the state police in the Berlin area.

Charles Bailey, the dairy truck driver, said that Combs was walking when he first spoke to him and requested Bailey to get him to the hospital. Then he collapsed and fell on a lawn near Sterling street, he said. The man answered no questions, Bailey said, and he did not give his name at the time.

Police said Combs was on Pine Grove avenue near Sterling street and across from St. Peter's Cemetery, when they arrived. He said the revolver was in the cemetery, and the officers found it there after a search. He said nothing more at the time that would be of immediate information to the police, they indicated.

Postal Rates Approved

Washington, May 22 (AP)—A 60 per cent increase in newspaper and other second class publication mail charges was approved tentatively today by the House Postoffice Committee. The increase would go into effect over a three-year period at the rate of 20 per cent a year. Its sponsors say it would add approximately $25,000,000 to current postoffice revenues at present volume. The committee previously gave tentative approval to doubling the mailing charge on postcards and government postal cards from one to two cents. In addition to the 20-20-20 three-year second class increase, the committee wrote into the postal bill a minimum mailing charge of one-eighth cent per copy for newspapers except those which are distributed free in the county of publication.

Wager Is Placed On Critical List

William Wager, 21, of Kripplebush, one of three men injured Saturday morning in an automobile crash on the Onteora Trail (Route 28) at the city line, is on the "critical" list at the Benedictine Hospital.

According to a report received by the sheriff's office shortly after the accident, Wager received a possible fractured skull and brain injuries.

Other men injured in the accident were William Rubin, 26, of Ellenville, reported in "fair" condition at the hospital, and Harold Tokle, 22, of Kerhonkson, whose condition report today was "satisfactory."

The three young men, employes of the Channel Master Corporation of Ellenville, were returning to their homes from Woodstock when the automobile crashed into a steel girder on the bridge which spans the Esopus creek on Route 28 at the Kingston city line, the sheriff's office reported. The bridge connects with the Washington avenue viaduct. The men were all members of a ball team that had played in the town of Wawarsing on Friday, the sheriff's office said.

Start of a Wonderful Journey!

Well, there it goes—out from the great Cadillac factory into the hands of a proud and happy owner.

And what an odyssey it would make if its whole future course could be charted and foreseen!

—far journeys to the world's most fascinating places . . . grand appearances at the proudest social events . . . splendid visits to affairs of state . . . year after year of participation in the life of a fine American family.

Yes—and perhaps two or three, or even four fine American families—for a Cadillac is so soundly designed and built that there is no practical limit to its utility.

Truly, no more interesting biography could be written than an account of the life of the average Cadillac car. As the preliminary means of transportation for interesting, vital people—it is usually a spectator at important events—always in demand as a trustworthy traveling companion.

So there it goes, like the many thousands of its predecessors, on one of the most eventful and fascinating journeys a motor car ever began.

Wouldn't it be wonderful—and inspiring—to go along?

We are sorry indeed that delay in delivery of new Cadillacs continues unavoidable. If you are waiting for a Cadillac, please be patient—but hold to your purpose. There is no substitute for the "Standard of the World."

Boy Is Convicted

New York, May 22 (AP)—A 15-year-old schoolboy was convicted of juvenile delinquency yesterday for writing a $10,000 extortion letter to Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, millionaire socialite sportsman. The eighth-grader, whose name was withheld because of his age, will be sentenced Thursday by Federal Judge Robert A. Inch in Brooklyn. Yesterday's trial was held in the judge's chambers. The boy testified he had looked on the incident as "a joke," and that he would not have taken the money if Vanderbilt had offered it. The boy was sent to the Federal House of Detention in Manhattan in lieu of $1,000 bail.

Four Are Killed

Oceanside, Calif., May 22 (AP)—An LCV landing craft with 13 Camp Pendleton marines and a crew of three aboard capsized in the surf off Camp Del Mar yesterday. Four were killed and another was seriously injured. The craft was engaged in a practice landing operation.

Plane Got Gasoline

Brantford, Ont., May 22 (AP)—George Gammack gulped and looked again—it was an airplane waiting for gas outside his station on busy No. 2 highway. Dazed, Gammack went out. "Fill 'er up," said the pilot, "I haven't got enough to get home." Gammack filled the tank and the pilot, apparently "from the United States," took off down the highway. Gammack didn't get his name, but he has a picture of the small plane at the pumps to prove his story.

Hunt Circus Is Coming to City on Tuesday, June 5th

Hunt Bros. Circus is coming to Kingston on Tuesday, June 5—back to the town from which it started in 1892.

It takes 62 trucks, trailers, and private cars to transport the 150 people and 40 head of livestock that will take part in two performances at the Kingston Municipal Stadium at the foot of North Front street. And it takes Charles T. Hunt Sr., 76 year old patriarch, to make this circus one of America's leading entertainment institutions.

The Hunt Circus was born in Kingston, the home town of Charley Hunt. It all started with the Rivers family who were circus people living about a block and a half from the hotel Charley Hunt's father operated in this city before the turn of the century. Dick Rivers was Charley Hunt's friend and he taught Charley how to walk the slack wire. There are citizens of Kingston today who can recall Charley Hunt's performances on the wire on the corner of Washington avenue and North Front street where a gas station now stands.

Was With Big Show

In the late 1880's teen-ager Charley Hunt took off for a summer vacation with Barnum and Bailey and Hutchinson's Circus. He carried stakes, lugged water and did about everything that fell to his hand. A year or two later Charley Hunt borrowed money from his father to hire a tent and took out a small show in partnership with a man named Brainerd. After five weeks of partnership, the show became entirely a Hunt project, and at the close of the season Charley returned to Kingston and marched into the hotel to give his Dad an account of his travels. The accounting revealed that Charley Hunt had cleared $1,300 his first season on the road—and the Hunt Circus became an American institution that has been on the road ever since.

Charles T. Hunt, Sr., still heads the circus that began in Kingston in 1892, but he is ably assisted by his three sons, Charles Jr., Harry, and Edward, and his daughter, Mrs. Charlotte LeVine. It has been a rare season when Kingston was not included in the itinerary of the Hunt Bros. Circus, and on June 5 it will make its 1951 appearance across the corner from the lot where Charley Hunt once thrilled the neighbors with his performances on the tight wire.

How You May Gain New Strength — Feel Younger

If you are rundown—low spirited—have sleepless nights—no energy — "nerves" — poor appetite, don't be discouraged! Chances are you are just not getting your full daily requirements of the necessary vitamins and minerals from the food you eat.

What you should do is try FERRIZAN—the new dietary supplement and reconstructive tonic. FERRIZAN not only gives you your full quota of many of the essential vitamins but also supplies the equally important Iron for the blood and Iodine for the ductless glands plus needed Calcium and Phosphorus.

Often in ten days you may feel the difference; your friends notice it. Back comes your appetite—you should actually feel the urge to eat. Nerves can grow steadier; work easier; you may sleep more soundly.

So why delay? Why not decide now to take FERRIZAN for 30 days and see yourself just how wonderful FERRIZAN can make you feel. Costs you only a few cents a day. Money refunded if not completely satisfied says UNITED CUT RATE PHCY.

6,000 Acres Closed In Adirondack Park

Albany, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—About 6,000 acres of the Adirondack mountains were "off-limits" to the public today because of a fire hazard and the state conservation commissioner said they would "probably remain closed the rest of the summer."

The near hurricane last November left a trail of heavy damage throughout the section in the heart of the Adirondacks.

Not even hard rains would remove the present fire hazard, the conservation department said.

The closed section comprises parts of Franklin, Essex and Hamilton counties.

The ban will hit fishermen and hikers the hardest, the conservation department said. Both sports are popular in the area.

General Sails for U. S.

Tokyo, May 22 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, General MacArthur's intelligence officer for almost 10 years, today sailed for the United States and retirement. Willoughby asked to be retired shortly after MacArthur was ousted as Far East commander. He said he wanted to help MacArthur. He has been in the army 40 years, the last 14 in the Pacific and Far East. Willoughby developed the famed Sorge spy case which a congressional committee may investigate.

Demands Are Rejected

New York, May 2 (AP)—East and gulf coast steamship owners rejected demands for a 25 per cent pay increase and other benefits made by the CIO American Radio Association when negotiations for a new contract opened yesterday. The present contract expires June 15. The parties agreed to meet again next Monday. A spokesman for the committee which handles negotiations for about 40 companies said the union's proposals were turned down because they would place an "onerous burden" on the ship operators.

Esopus Legion Has Plans Ready for Memorial Program

Plans for the observance of Memorial Day in the Town of Esopus have been announced by Howard Galbraith, chairman of the committee making arrangements for the event. As has been the case in past years, a memorial service will be held at the Port Ewen Cemetery and will be preceded by a parade through the village by the township's school and patriotic organizations.

The speaker at this year's service will be Judge Edward A. Conger of the U. S. District Court of the Southern District of New York. Judge Conger's address will be the highlight of the memorial service which will also see the school children and veterans of the town decorate the veterans' graves of the township and participation in the memorial ceremonies. In the event of inclement weather, the service will be held in the town auditorium.

The parade will start at 10 a. m. and, on the basis of the organizations that have expressed their intention to participate, this year's parade promises to be one of the largest since the end of World War 2. Music will be furnished by the Port Ewen Fire Department Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps and by the 4-H Drum Corps of Rifton.

School children from the various schools in the Town of Esopus, Girl Scout troops, Boy Scout troops, firemen and various fraternal and veteran organizations will parade. The line of march will form at the Sleightsburgh road and will extend through the main street of the village to the cemetery. The memorial service will be held immediately upon the arrival of the marchers.

The Memorial Day services this year, as has been the case since the end of World War 2, will be sponsored by Town of Esopus Post, 1298, American Legion. This year's observance will mark the sixth year that the Esopus Legion Post has made arrangements for the annual event.

He carried stakes, lugged water and did about everything that fell to his hand. A year or two later Charley Hunt borrowed money from his father to hire a tent and took out a small show in partnership with a man named Brainerd. After five weeks of partnership, the show became entirely a Hunt project, and at the close of the season Charley returned to Kingston and marched into the hotel to give his Dad an account of his travels. The accounting revealed that Charley Hunt had cleared $1,300 his first season on the road—and the Hunt Circus became an American institution that has been on the road ever since.

Charles T. Hunt, Sr., still heads the circus that began in Kingston in 1892, but he is ably assisted by his three sons, Charles Jr., Harry, and Edward, and his daughter, Mrs. Charlotte LeVine. It has been a rare season when Kingston was not included in the itinerary of the Hunt Bros. Circus, and on June 5 it will make its 1951 appearance across the corner from the lot where Charley Hunt once thrilled the neighbors with his performances on the tight wire.

How You May Gain New Strength — Feel Younger

If you are rundown—low spirited—have sleepless nights—no energy—"nerves"—poor appetite, don't be discouraged! Chances are you are just not getting your full daily requirements of the necessary vitamins and minerals from the food you eat.

What you should do is try FERRIZAN—the new dietary supplement and reconstructive tonic. FERRIZAN not only gives you your full quota of many of the essential vitamins but also supplies the equally important Iron for the blood and Iodine for the ductless glands plus needed Calcium and Phosphorus.

Often in ten days you may feel the difference; your friends notice it. Back comes your appetite—you should actually feel the urge to eat. Nerves can grow steadier; work easier; you may sleep more soundly.

So why delay? Why not decide now to take FERRIZAN for 30 days and see yourself just how wonderful FERRIZAN can make you feel. Costs you only a few cents a day. Money refunded if not completely satisfied says UNITED CUT RATE PHCY.

6,000 Acres Closed In Adirondack Park

Albany, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—About 6,000 acres of the Adirondack mountains were "off-limits" to the public today because of a fire hazard and the state conservation commissioner said they would "probably remain closed the rest of the summer."

The near hurricane last November left a trail of heavy damage throughout the section in the heart of the Adirondacks.

Not even hard rains would remove the present fire hazard, the conservation department said.

The closed section comprises parts of Franklin, Essex and Hamilton counties.

The ban will hit fishermen and hikers the hardest, the conservation department said. Both sports are popular in the area.

General Sails for U. S.

Tokyo, May 22 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, General MacArthur's intelligence officer for almost 10 years, today sailed for the United States and retirement. Willoughby asked to be retired shortly after MacArthur was ousted as Far East commander. He said he wanted to help MacArthur. He has been in the army 40 years, the last 14 in the Pacific and Far East. Willoughby developed the famed Sorge spy case which a congressional committee may investigate.

Demands Are Rejected

New York, May 2 (AP)—East and gulf coast steamship owners rejected demands for a 25 per cent pay increase and other benefits made by the CIO American Radio Association when negotiations for a new contract opened yesterday. The present contract expires June 15. The parties agreed to meet again next Monday. A spokesman for the committee which handles negotiations for about 40 companies said the union's proposals were turned down because they would place an "onerous burden" on the ship operators.

Esopus Legion Has Plans Ready for Memorial Program

Plans for the observance of Memorial Day in the Town of Esopus have been announced by Howard Galbraith, chairman of the committee making arrangements for the event. As has been the case in past years, a memorial service will be held at the Port Ewen Cemetery and will be preceded by a parade through the village by the township's school and patriotic organizations.

The speaker at this year's service will be Judge Edward A. Conger of the U. S. District Court of the Southern District of New York. Judge Conger's address will be the highlight of the memorial service which will also see the school children and veterans of the town decorate the veterans' graves of the township and participation in the memorial ceremonies. In the event of inclement weather, the service will be held in the town auditorium.

The parade will start at 10 a. m. and, on the basis of the organizations that have expressed their intention to participate, this year's parade promises to be one of the largest since the end of World War 2. Music will be furnished by the Port Ewen Fire Department Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps and by the 4-H Drum Corps of Rifton.

School children from the various schools in the Town of Esopus, Girl Scout troops, Boy Scout troops, firemen and various fraternal and veteran organizations will parade. The line of march will form at the Sleightsburgh road and will extend through the main street of the village to the cemetery. The memorial service will be held immediately upon the arrival of the marchers.

The Memorial Day services this year, as has been the case since the end of World War 2, will be sponsored by Town of Esopus Post, 1298, American Legion. This year's observance will mark the sixth year that the Esopus Legion Post has made arrangements for the annual event.

HOW CAN YOU FIND OUT IF A HEARING AID WILL HELP YOU?

Have your hearing tested with a modern audiometer. This can be done in your own home or at the MICROTONE office. There is no charge or obligation and it takes only 20 minutes.

An audiometer test will measure your hearing loss in each ear, indicate what type of hearing aid will do the most for you and which ear should be fitted.

Then, if you are curious, you may try a hearing aid, and hear for yourself just what you could expect a hearing aid to do for you. Hundreds of our satisfied users made this test and are glad they did. We'll do it for you too — no cost — no obligation.

GOVERNMENT PLANT EXPANSION

In seeking renewal of the Defense Production Act, which expires June 30, President Truman asked for authority to set up a new defense plant corporation. Such an agency would be empowered to undertake plant expansion deemed necessary by the government but not projected by private industry.

A high government official, Jesse Larson, head of the General Services Administration, strongly advises against this course. He is unusually qualified on the subject, since he headed the War Assets Administration after World War II, governing disposal of war plants financed and owned by the U. S.

Larson argues that a new defense plant set-up would exert heavy drain on the public purse. He says that plant disposal after World War II cost the taxpayers nearly $1,000,000,000 for administrative overhead alone, not counting the huge losses on the actual sales. At one time, 62,000 federal workers were devoted to this job. He sees no need for repeating this kind of performance.

Other dangers may lie in this proposed arrangement. It can't be forgotten that Mr. Truman more than once has recommended he be given this same authority when no defense emergency existed or was threatened.

Behind those earlier proposals was this theory:

That if in any particular field private enterprise is unable or unwilling to expand as the government believes it should, then the government should step in and finance the expansion itself.

Offhand this may seem to some a pretty harmless notion. Actually it is loaded with dynamite. It means that, at the government's own discretion, it could enter into competition with industry. If you like labels, you could call it socialism.

The fact that some of the World War II plants were built by government has nothing to do with the case. In wartime, government inevitably takes unto itself many powers which in a democracy should reside with individual citizens and organizations.

Whether there's an emergency or not, a lot of industries undoubtedly are extremely conservative about adding plant facilities. Some were burned by over-expansion in earlier periods. Others are just cautious.

Where this foot-dragging can be shown by business and economic experts to be handicapping the general growth of the economy, it certainly must be countered by some kind of government effort. Financial aid and protection is one important prod. Steady pressure on the industry through public channels is another.

But these devices should not include government power to finance and build its own plants. The administration's obvious interest in exercising this authority in or out of crisis makes such a grant too risky for the free American economy.

Only the existence of actual large-scale war, in which time to apply the usual prods might be a luxury, would seem to justify sweeping entry of the federal government into industrial plant expansion.

BLOTS AND LOTS

The city beautification committee of Welch, West Virginia, has a new slogan for the spring clean-up:

"Don't let your LOT be a BLOT on your neighborhood."

When winter's rains and ruins are over, too many city lots are blots. But it takes a few of the extra hours of long light provided by the spring to erase the blot and make the lot a beauty spot for all who pass by it to enjoy, as well as those who live on it and around it.

Now's the time to clear out the rubbish, clean up, paint up, dig up the flower space and plant for the summer's comfort and delight.

Flowers and green growth give vigor to mind and rest to the soul. Cleanliness is next to godliness. What are we waiting for?

The wise man is not the man who merely lives to learn but the man who also learns to live.

'These Days'

GENERAL BRADLEY'S IDEALS

It is obvious that it is the administration's policy to talk the MacArthur hearings to death. Somebody used the word, obfuscate, to describe their tactics, meaning to deprive of mental clearness. General Marshall's 200,000 words shed no light; General Omar Bradley's testimony, thus far, added little to our information except that military men are trained not to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

On this subject, General Bradley had much to say that cannot be misunderstood. Senator Bridges asked him:

"Q.—If it reaches the time in this country where you think the political decision is affecting what you believe to be basically right militarily, what would you do?

"A.—Well, if after several instances in which the best military advice we could give was turned down for other reasons, I would decide that my advice was no longer of any help, why, I would quit. I feel that is the way you would have to do. Let them get some other military adviser whose advice apparently would be better, or at least more acceptable.

"Q.—Would you speak out, tell the American public. A.—No, sir."

Senator Bridges pursued this line of questioning and all of it is important:

"Q.—Don't you think that is your duty, your loyalty to your country, to do that. A.—No, sir, I don't think so. I have been brought up a little differently.

"Q.—Where does the loyalty to your country come in? A.—I am loyal to my country, but I am also loyal to the Constitution, and you have certain elected officials under the Constitution, and I wouldn't profess that my judgment was better than the President of the United States or the administration.

"Q.—Would it not be on a military subject? A.—Yes.

"Q.—Should not you speak out? A.—I would, yes, to the constituted authorities; yes.

"Q.—But you would stop there? A.—Yes."

Senator Wiley asked General Bradley a question pertinent to the investigation—an important question in a hearing especially called so that the people might know the truth regarding the conference to dismiss MacArthur. This is the colloquy:

"Q.—I beg your pardon. You said there was Marshall, Acheson—and who else? A.—Harriman and myself.

"Q.—All right. Now, tell us what was said then? A.—Senator, at that time I was in a position of a confidential adviser to the President. I do not feel at liberty to publicize what any of us said at that time."

If you or I took that position, we should be cited for contempt. Dr. Bernard A. Rumely has been convicted for taking precisely that position. The committee has voted to forgive General Bradley his recalcitrance and public opinion, on the whole, supports that position. But we need to know that two precedents have been established:

1. That military men are not the same kind of citizens; that there is one rule for them and one for the rest of us;

2. That it is not necessary to speak the whole truth before a congressional committee; that a citizen has option as to the kind of truth he may choose to tell.

(In this connection, it is interesting to read Donald Dawson's testimony. He also dodges.)

As Senator Knowland so correctly said: "This deals with the public business of the government of the United States." President Harry Truman is only part of that government; the Congress is an equal part. General Bradley's responsibility is as great to Congress as it is to the President.

I should like to put it all in the form of a hypothetical question: Suppose the President of the United States ordered the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff to seize the Congress, arrest the minority leaders and declare a dictatorship—what would be the responsibility of the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff?

Perhaps General Bradley would like to answer that. Senator Connally understood that when he said:

"I do not think it would be appropriate for the general to speak to the President and then come back and tell us what the President decided about a purely procedural matter before this committee.

"It is not the business of the President, and I don't think that we ought to establish any such doctrine for similar cases, that we run over and talk to the White House and get the President's opinion."

This is not a question of General Bradley or Donald Dawson; it is a matter of government.

DRUG AND REDUCED DIET GETS RID OF FAT

Practically every physician has many overweight patients who are looking for a short cut to get rid of excess fat. Our insurance companies, who deal with overweight as a defect or disease, warn their policyholders about the dangers of overweight after the age of 30, as it prediposes to heart and blood vesssel disease, diabetes and other ailments.

The first thing an overweight learns from his physician is that as the excess fat did not come on in a matter of days or weeks, it will take many weeks or even months to get rid of it safely. When weight is taken off too rapidly, particularly from about the organs in the abdomen, the organs may drop a number of inches, causing shock and interfering with digestion.

I have written many times about the great damage done to health and also the loss of lives following the publication of the 10-day diet. This diet was prescribed for a young movie star who had only 18 days to get down to the weight prescribed in her movie contract. It was never meant for any man, or woman, doing his daily work.

There are, however, cases where the physician must help the patient to get rid of his or her excess fat in a short time. It is in these cases that the drug Benzedrine Sulfate and Dexedrine Sulfate are prescribed, but a physician must supervise the patient's dosage to prevent any ill effects from these drugs.

In Clinical Science, London, Drs. D. A. W. Edwards and G. I. M. Swyer report their comparison of the effects of thyroid extract and Dexedrine Sulfate. They found that Dexedrine Sulfate (dextroamphetamine), 5 mg. three times a day, greatly increased loss of weight when used in a low food value diet of 1,000 calories. Thyroid extract (30 mg. three times a day) did not cause loss of weight using the same amount of food. Dexedrine Sulfate and thyroid extract had no effects upon each other. The Dexedrine Sulfate continued to cause loss of weight over a period of four months and there was no difference in its effects in different months. The mean or average weight loss per month over the four months without Dexedrine but using the 1000 caloric diet was 5 3/4 pounds; with Dexedrine Sulfate and the 100 calorie diet it was about 8 pounds per month.

The above shows that with reduced diet alone 5¾ pounds per month was lost. Of course, cases requiring more rapid loss could, under a physician's supervision, get rid of their excess fat more rapidly.

That's the Way It Looks to Us

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The Senate's ruling that star witnesses in the MacArthur hearings will not have to testify regarding confidential conversations presumably will hold for confidential conversations between Gen. Omar Bradley and the other members of the joint chiefs of staff.

However, some of their private reactions during the MacArthur discussions are significant. Inside fact is that the joint chiefs were extremely nervous about the idea of ousting MacArthur and took care to avoid the word "recommend" in reporting to the White House that MacArthur be fired.

Instead, and after considerable private debate, they decided to use the words "militarily advisable." Therefore, a report that it was "militarily advisable" to relieve MacArthur was signed by all four of the joint chiefs.

Despite this compromise-wording there was no question among the joint chiefs that MacArthur should go. There were three general reasons for this view, and it is interesting that none of them really agreed with Truman's reason's—namely, MacArthur's flouting of orders by discussing foreign policy.

Reason No. 1—Was the fact that the joint chiefs considered MacArthur too rash as a military commander and likely to let American forces in for more trouble.

Tying MacArthur's Hands

That was why they actually tied his hands with the military directive regarding the bombing of Chinese bases. They decided that he could bomb Chinese bases if—and they were two very big ifs—1. The Communists threw in enough air power to jeopardize our ground troops; or 2. If the Chinese attacked any U.N. ships or installations outside Korea.

But MacArthur was given a further directive that before he could do any bombing in either of the above categories he must first consult the joint chiefs. In other words, what might provoke MacArthur into bombing Manchuria might not be enough to provoke the joint chiefs. They didn't trust his judgment, were afraid he would interpret these conditions far more liberally than they.

Reason No. 2 — Was the fact that MacArthur was not one to take suggestions or guidance from the joint chiefs. While it is J. C. S. policy not to dictate to the commander in the field, they do reserve the right to give general guidance and make suggestions

And they were quite provoked during MacArthur's November advance into North Korea that he ignored their warning that there was no battle communication between General Walker's 8th Army and General Almond's 10th Corps. When the joint chiefs warned MacArthur about this, he replied, rather coldly, that there was sufficient liaison.

However, the joint chiefs, still not satisfied, asked MacArthur a second time why General Almond and his 10th Corps were operating independently of the 8th Army, leaving a big gap between the two forces. MacArthur replied, unconvincingly, that General Almond and his 10th Corps were drawing Chinese pressure away from the 8th Army.

Later, when the Chinese struck, they picked the hole that had worried the joint chiefs, and smashed right into the vacuum between the 10th Corps and the 8th Army.

Reason No. 3—However, what finally got the joint chiefs really sore at MacArthur was the way his statement about using Chiang Kai shek's troops in Korea killed the Universal Military Training bill.

For months the joint chiefs had set their hearts on passing universal military training for the first time in the history of the nation. But two days after MacArthur's statement urging that we use Chiang's Formosan troops, the U. M. T. bill was dead. MacArthur had killed it. For Congress was under immediate fire from the voters to use Chinese troops instead of expanding the draft.

After that the joint chiefs needed no urging from the White House to state that it was "militarily advisable" to relieve MacArthur.

Unoriginality in Names

Among other things, he branded "Drew Pearson" a "warmonger."

There's nothing like being versatile. I have now been called a "Communist" by Senator McCarthy, a warmonger by the editor of Pravda, and an S. O. B. by President Truman. It's about time somebody thought up some new names.

Merry-Go-Round

Even though they disagree with Nebraska's Senator Ken Wherry, most Democratic senators like him. The other day Democratic Senator Bill Benton of Connecticut was talking about the need for education in television, with only about four senators listening. The considerate Wherry walked up behind and whispered: 'Do you want a quorum call?" . . . This would have brought a full Senate back to listen to Benton's speech, which Wherry thought important. . . . GOP Senator Knowland of California also commands the respect of the Democrats. It is obvious from his speeches and cross-examination that he really works. . . . Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, though a freshman, already has become one of the outstanding senators. His father was a Presbyterian preacher and so was his wife's father—which may be why Duff is a crusader.

U.N. Troops

A lot has been published about the failure of our United Nations friends to support us in Korea, but not much about certain unexpected support.

Italy, for instance, is not a member of the U.N., but has asked for permission to send units to Korea. So far, nothing definite has been worker out.

Peru, with a quite small army, is now sending a contingent to Korea. Actually Peru had volunteered some time before, but was told that a certain proportion of any Peruvian troops sent to Korea would have to speak English.

This requirement, laid down by General MacArthur at first, was a hard one for a Spanish-speaking country like Peru to fulfill. Now that the language bar has been raised, Peru is sending its quota.

American Policy Frowning on Any Deal With Red China May Be Hardest Blow to Communism

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 22 — The United States has launched a psychological-warfare campaign inside China which could some day lead to a unification of all anti-Communist elements in that country and the overthrow of the Communist government at Peiping.

The American point of view, carefully developed after much planning at the Department of State, has just been broadcast through the "Voice of America" to the Chinese people. Similar broadcasts will continue to be made from now on.

This approach does not mean that the United States is attempting to tell the Chinese how to set up a free government or who shall head it up. That's a matter for the people of China to decide. But the all-important development is that the United States has abandoned any idea of dealing with the Communist regime and, in effect, has served notice that, if a government representative of the wishes of the Chinese people arises, it will deserve diplomatic recognition from all countries in the free world. It could be an expanded Nationalist government or a government brought into being through Nationalist efforts. It could be the Nationalist government itself if it regains control of the mainland.

The American policy, which cuts the Cordian knot and destroys any probability of a "deal" with the Communist Chinese, has attracted considerable attention since it was announced last Friday night by Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

The department itself, confronted with queries asking what change it has made in Far Eastern policies, has said the pronouncement was not new in the sense that it has been historic American policy. But the words of Dean Rusk—which, incidentally, were not widely published because their significance was not immediately appreciated—make it quite clear that all bets are off so far as the Red Chinese are concerned. He said in part:

"The independence of China is gravely threatened. In the Communist world there is room for only one master — a jealous and implacable master, whose price of friendship is complete submission. How many Chinese, in one community after another, are now being destroyed because they love China more than the Soviet Union? . . .

"The freedoms of the Chinese people are disappearing. Trial by mob, mass-slaughter, banishment as forced labor to Manchuria, Siberia or Sinkiang, the arbitrary seizure of property, the destruction of loyalties within the family, the suppression of free speech —these are the facts behind the parades and celebrations and the empty promises."

Dean Rusk added that the "territorial integrity of China is now an ironic phrase," and he pointed out that the maps of China now being published on the mainland show how China has been dismembered.

How does all this relate to Korea? The objective of the American government is to wake up the people of China to the fact that their sons are being slaughtered in a war directed by Soviet Russia. Mr. Rusk declared:

"Hundreds of thousands of Chinese youth are being sacrificed in a fiery furnace, pitting their waves of human flesh against the fire power of modern weapons—and without heavy equipment, adequate supply or the most elementary medical attention. Apart from Korea, the Chinese are being pressed to aggressive action in other areas—all calculated to divert the attention and energies of China away from the encroachments of Soviet imperialism upon China itself."

This is the kind of doctrine that should have long ago been disseminated, but it comes opportunely now just the same when the Red offensive in Korea is causing the death of tens of thousands of brave Chinese soldiers. The significant paragraph in the Rusk speech, which steers carefully away from any attempt to dictate what elements shall be welded together to fight communism, says:

'We cannot provide a formula to engage the unity of effort among all Chinese who love their country. But one thing we can say —as the Chinese people move to assert their freedom and to work out their destiny in accordance with their own historical purposes, they can count upon tremendous support from free peoples in other parts of the world."

This is the kind of pronouncement which, if made also to the people of the satellite countries in Europe, would in time bring a profound change in the "cold war," especially if it breaks down the "will to fight" of Red China's armies—many of whose soldiers are already deserting in response to leaflets dropped on them from day to day promising food, shelter and freedom.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Tucson, Arizona, May 21—A dramatic transformation is in progress in the Arizona desert which certainly portends trouble, possibly a dust bowl and another crop of ghost settlements. The limitation of the cotton acreage has been abolished and in Pima county, alone, whose seat is Tucson, the increase this year will be about 25,000 acres. The normal acreage was about 10,000. In Santa Cruz county, which runs to the Mexican border, about 11,000 acres are being planted or cleared for planting, as against a total cotton acreage of about 4,000 in 1950.

Thornton Jones, the water commissioner, reported that in Maricopa, whose seat is Phoenix, the state capital, there was very little surface flow left. Ernest Douglas, the editor of the Arizona Farmer, who has been close to the problems of water supply and irrigation, wrote after that warning: "An incredible story of neglect and indifference was unfolded. This county's underground water has been treated as an inexhaustible resource, belonging to anybody who could get hold of a piece of land and punch down a well. The statute allocating surface water has been nullified by pumping, which is regulated by no statutes whatever. With disaster staring them in the face, sober citizens have talked over the tragic situation and wondered whether it would do any good to have Maricopa county declared a 'critical area.'"

In a "critical area," the drilling of further wells and the irrigation of new acreage may be forbidden but only after long litigation if the petitioner for permission is willing to go to the trouble and expense. In the very suburbs of Tucson, which, until five years ago, was desert and open range, homeless horses of good quality now wander in bunches up to 20, grazing the cactus and brush and damaging residential gardens and commercial citrus groves because the conversion of hayfields to cotton has forced up the cost of feed so high that their owners just turned them loose.

Gerald Swinehart, of New York, who has a small winter vacation home in frontier village and has been keeping two horses of his own, offered them for sale They cost him $200 and $75, respectively, two years ago. The owner of the stable replied that he had on hand a fine big gelding which he was authorized to give away to anyone who would care for the steed.

William Taylor, a young war veteran from Detroit, who still clanks like a monon engine what with the loose shrapnel in his legs, has suffered severe damage by stray horses which jump his cattle-guards at Desert Treasures, a big citrus ranch, to drink from the tree holes in his groves. They also tramp down the little dikes around the trees and rip the branches. Another bunch, a few miles to the north along the oracle road, go marauding at night. They raise hell trying to stampede tame horses in corrals. This apparently is sheer mischief.

The problem of the horses is only indicative, however. It means that the demand for Arizona's long staple cotton, a commodity little known to any but persons with a special interest in cotton planting and cotton products, has

All Under Control

Point - of - the - Mountain, Utah, May 22 (AP)—"Everything's under control—we hope." Thus a guard today summed up the situation at the Utah State Prison where more than 200 inmates rioted Sunday. Increased precautions keyed the atmosphere over the sprawling prison grounds. Official investigations of the four and one-half hour riot Sunday went into their second day of closed door hearings.

Questions — Answers

Q—What is the source of the name "taps," for the bugle call?

A—The origin of taps is uncertain, but it is likely that, as the signal for lights out and going to bed originally was tapped out on a drum, it came to be known as "the taps," or simply "taps." It is played at army bedtime and at military funerals.

Q—Why is a mintmark placed on a coin?

A—A mintmark is placed on a coin for assay purposes, so that officials will know its place of origin in event it is found to be of non-standard weight or metal.

GOVERNMENT PLANT EXPANSION

In seeking renewal of the Defense Production Act, which expires June 30, President Truman asked for authority to set up a new defense plant corporation. Such an agency would be empowered to undertake plant expansion deemed necessary by the government but not projected by private industry.

A high government official, Jesse Larson, head of the General Services Administration, strongly advises against this course. He is unusually qualified on the subject, since he headed the War Assets Administration after World War II, governing disposal of war plants financed and owned by the U. S.

Larson argues that a new defense plant set-up would exert heavy drain on the public purse. He says that plant disposal after World War II cost the taxpayers nearly $1,000,000,000 for administrative overhead alone, not counting the huge losses on the actual sales. At one time, 62,000 federal workers were devoted to this job. He sees no need for repeating this kind of performance.

Other dangers may lie in this proposed arrangement. It can't be forgotten that Mr. Truman more than once has recommended he be given this same authority when no defense emergency existed or was threatened.

Behind those earlier proposals was this theory:

That if in any particular field private enterprise is unable or unwilling to expand as the government believes it should, then the government should step in and finance the expansion itself.

Offhand this may seem to some a pretty harmless notion. Actually it is loaded with dynamite. It means that, at the government's own discretion, it could enter into competition with industry. If you like labels, you could call it socialism.

The fact that some of the World War II plants were built by government has nothing to do with the case. In wartime, government inevitably takes unto itself many powers which in a democracy should reside with individual citizens and organizations.

Whether there's an emergency or not, a lot of industries undoubtedly are extremely conservative about adding plant facilities. Some were burned by over-expansion in earlier periods. Others are just cautious.

Where this foot-dragging can be shown by business and economic experts to be handicapping the general growth of the economy, it certainly must be countered by some kind of government effort. Financial aid and protection is one important prod. Steady pressure on the industry through public channels is another.

But these devices should not include government power to finance and build its own plants. The administration's obvious interest in exercising this authority in or out of crisis makes such a grant too risky for the free American economy.

Only the existence of actual large-scale war, in which time to apply the usual prods might be a luxury, would seem to justify sweeping entry of the federal government into industrial plant expansion.

BLOTS AND LOTS

The city beautification committee of Welch, West Virginia, has a new slogan for the spring clean-up:

"Don't let your LOT be a BLOT on your neighborhood."

When winter's rains and ruins are over, too many city lots are blots. But it takes a few of the extra hours of long light provided by the spring to erase the blot and make the lot a beauty spot for all who pass by it to enjoy, as well as those who live on it and around it.

Now's the time to clear out the rubbish, clean up, paint up, dig up the flower space and plant for the summer's comfort and delight.

Flowers and green growth give vigor to mind and rest to the soul. Cleanliness is next to godliness. What are we waiting for?

The wise man is not the man who merely lives to learn but the man who also learns to live.

GENERAL BRADLEY'S IDEALS

It is obvious that it is the administration's policy to talk the MacArthur hearings to death. Somebody used the word, obfuscate, to describe their tactics, meaning to deprive of mental clearness. General Marshall's 200,000 words shed no light; General Omar Bradley's testimony, thus far, added little to our information except that military men are trained not to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

On this subject, General Bradley had much to say that cannot be misunderstood. Senator Bridges asked him:

"Q.—If it reaches the time in this country where you think the political decision is affecting what you believe to be basically right militarily, what would you do?

"A.—Well, if after several instances in which the best military advice we could give was turned down for other reasons, I would decide that my advice was no longer of any help, why, I would quit. I feel that is the way you would have to do. Let them get some other military adviser whose advice apparently would be better, or at least more acceptable.

"Q.—Would you speak out, tell the American public. A.—No, sir."

Senator Bridges pursued this line of questioning and all of it is important:

"Q.—Don't you think that is your duty, your loyalty to your country, to do that. A.—No, sir, I don't think so. I have been brought up a little differently.

"Q.—Where does the loyalty to your country come in? A.—I am loyal to my country, but I am also loyal to the Constitution, and you have certain elected officials under the Constitution, and I wouldn't profess that my judgment was better than the President of the United States or the administration.

"Q.—Would it not be on a military subject? A.—Yes.

"Q.—Should not you speak out? A.—I would, yes, to the constituted authorities; yes.

"Q.—But you would stop there? A.—Yes."

Senator Wiley asked General Bradley a question pertinent to the investigation—an important question in a hearing especially called so that the people might know the truth regarding the conference to dismiss MacArthur. This is the colloquy:

"Q.—I beg your pardon. You said there was Marshall, Acheson—and who else? A.—Harriman and myself.

"Q.—All right. Now, tell us what was said then? A.—Senator, at that time I was in a position of a confidential adviser to the President. I do not feel at liberty to publicize what any of us said at that time."

If you or I took that position, we should be cited for contempt. Dr. Bernard A. Rumely has been convicted for taking precisely that position. The committee has voted to forgive General Bradley his recalcitrance and public opinion, on the whole, supports that position. But we need to know that two precedents have been established:

1. That military men are not the same kind of citizens; that there is one rule for them and one for the rest of us;

2. That it is not necessary to speak the whole truth before a congressional committee; that a citizen has option as to the kind of truth he may choose to tell.

(In this connection, it is interesting to read Donald Dawson's testimony. He also dodges.)

As Senator Knowland so correctly said: "This deals with the public business of the government of the United States." President Harry Truman is only part of that government; the Congress is an equal part. General Bradley's responsibility is as great to Congress as it is to the President.

I should like to put it all in the form of a hypothetical question: Suppose the President of the United States ordered the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff to seize the Congress, arrest the minority leaders and declare a dictatorship—what would be the responsibility of the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff?

Perhaps General Bradley would like to answer that. Senator Connally understood that when he said:

"I do not think it would be appropriate for the general to speak to the President and then come back and tell us what the President decided about a purely procedural matter before this committee.

"It is not the business of the President, and I don't think that we ought to establish any such doctrine for similar cases, that we run over and talk to the White House and get the President's opinion."

This is not a question of General Bradley or Donald Dawson; it is a matter of government.

DRUG AND REDUCED DIET GETS RID OF FAT

Practically every physician has many overweight patients who are looking for a short cut to get rid of excess fat. Our insurance companies, who deal with overweight as a defect or disease, warn their policyholders about the dangers of overweight after the age of 30, as it prediposes to heart and blood vesssel disease, diabetes and other ailments.

The first thing an overweight learns from his physician is that as the excess fat did not come on in a matter of days or weeks, it will take many weeks or even months to get rid of it safely. When weight is taken off too rapidly, particularly from about the organs in the abdomen, the organs may drop a number of inches, causing shock and interfering with digestion.

I have written many times about the great damage done to health and also the loss of lives following the publication of the 10-day diet. This diet was prescribed for a young movie star who had only 18 days to get down to the weight prescribed in her movie contract. It was never meant for any man, or woman, doing his daily work.

There are, however, cases where the physician must help the patient to get rid of his or her excess fat in a short time. It is in these cases that the drug Benzedrine Sulfate and Dexedrine Sulfate are prescribed, but a physician must supervise the patient's dosage to prevent any ill effects from these drugs.

In Clinical Science, London, Drs. D. A. W. Edwards and G. I. M. Swyer report their comparison of the effects of thyroid extract and Dexedrine Sulfate. They found that Dexedrine Sulfate (dextroamphetamine), 5 mg. three times a day, greatly increased loss of weight when used in a low food value diet of 1,000 calories. Thyroid extract (30 mg. three times a day) did not cause loss of weight using the same amount of food. Dexedrine Sulfate and thyroid extract had no effects upon each other. The Dexedrine Sulfate continued to cause loss of weight over a period of four months and there was no difference in its effects in different months. The mean or average weight loss per month over the four months without Dexedrine but using the 1000 caloric diet was 5 3/4 pounds; with Dexedrine Sulfate and the 100 calorie diet it was about 8 pounds per month.

The above shows that with reduced diet alone 5¾ pounds per month was lost. Of course, cases requiring more rapid loss could, under a physician's supervision, get rid of their excess fat more rapidly.

That's the Way It Looks to Us

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The Senate's ruling that star witnesses in the MacArthur hearings will not have to testify regarding confidential conversations presumably will hold for confidential conversations between Gen. Omar Bradley and the other members of the joint chiefs of staff.

However, some of their private reactions during the MacArthur discussions are significant. Inside fact is that the joint chiefs were extremely nervous about the idea of ousting MacArthur and took care to avoid the word "recommend" in reporting to the White House that MacArthur be fired.

Instead, and after considerable private debate, they decided to use the words "militarily advisable." Therefore, a report that it was "militarily advisable" to relieve MacArthur was signed by all four of the joint chiefs.

Despite this compromise-wording there was no question among the joint chiefs that MacArthur should go. There were three general reasons for this view, and it is interesting that none of them really agreed with Truman's reason's—namely, MacArthur's flouting of orders by discussing foreign policy.

Reason No. 1—Was the fact that the joint chiefs considered MacArthur too rash as a military commander and likely to let American forces in for more trouble.

Tying MacArthur's Hands

That was why they actually tied his hands with the military directive regarding the bombing of Chinese bases. They decided that he could bomb Chinese bases if—and they were two very big ifs—1. The Communists threw in enough air power to jeopardize our ground troops; or 2. If the Chinese attacked any U.N. ships or installations outside Korea.

But MacArthur was given a further directive that before he could do any bombing in either of the above categories he must first consult the joint chiefs. In other words, what might provoke MacArthur into bombing Manchuria might not be enough to provoke the joint chiefs. They didn't trust his judgment, were afraid he would interpret these conditions far more liberally than they.

Reason No. 2 — Was the fact that MacArthur was not one to take suggestions or guidance from the joint chiefs. While it is J. C. S. policy not to dictate to the commander in the field, they do reserve the right to give general guidance and make suggestions.

And they were quite provoked during MacArthur's November advance into North Korea that he ignored their warning that there was no battle communication betwen General Walker's 8th Army and General Almond's 10th Corps. When the joint chiefs warned MacArthur about this, he replied, rather coldly, that there was sufficient liaison.

However, the joint chiefs, still not satisfied, asked MacArthur a second time why General Almond and his 10th Corps were operating independently of the 8th Army, leaving a big gap betwen the two forces. MacArthur replied, unconvincingly, that General Almond and his 10th Corps were drawing Chinese pressure away from the 8th Army.

Later, when the Chinese struck, they picked the hole that had worried the joint chiefs, and smashed right into the vacuum between the 10th Corps and the 8th Army.

Reason No. 3—However, what finally got the joint chiefs really sore at MacArthur was the way his statement about using Chiang Kai shek's troops in Korea killed the Universal Military Training bill.

For months the joint chiefs had set their hearts on passing universal military training for the first time in the history of the nation. But two days after MacArthur's statement urging that we use Chiang's Formosan troops, the U. M. T. bill was dead. MacArthur had killed it. For Congress was under immediate fire from the voters to use Chinese troops instead of expanding the draft.

After that the joint chiefs needed no urging from the White House to state that it was "militarily advisable" to relieve MacArthur.

Unoriginality in Names

Among other things, he branded "Drew Pearson" a "warmonger."

There's nothing like being versatile. I have now been called a "Communist" by Senator McCarthy, a warmonger by the editor of Pravda, and an S. O. B. by President Truman. It's about time somebody thought up some new names.

Merry-Go-Round

Even though they disagree with Nebraska's Senator Ken Wherry, most Democratic senators like him. The other day Democratic Senator Bill Benton of Connecticut was talking about the need for education in television, with only about four senators listening. The considerate Wherry walked up behind and whispered: 'Do you want a quorum call?" . . . This would have brought a full Senate back to listen to Benton's speech, which Wherry thought important. . . . GOP Senator Knowland of California also commands the respect of the Democrats. It is obvious from his speeches and cross-examination that he really works. . . . Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, though a freshman, already has become one of the outstanding senators. His father was a Presbyterian preacher and so was his wife's father—which may be why Duff is a crusader.

U.N. Troops

A lot has been published about the failure of our United Nations friends to support us in Korea, but not much about certain unexpected support.

Italy, for instance, is not a member of the U.N., but has asked for permission to send units to Korea. So far, nothing definite has been worker out.

Peru, with a quite small army, is now sending a contingent to Korea. Actually Peru had volunteered some time before, but was told that a certain proportion of any Peruvian troops sent to Korea would have to speak English.

This requirement, laid down by General MacArthur at first, was a hard one for a Spanish-speaking country like Peru to fulfill. Now that the language bar has been raised, Peru is sending its quota.

American Policy Frowning on Any Deal With Red China May Be Hardest Blow to Communism

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 22 — The United States has launched a psychological-warfare campaign inside China which could some day lead to a unification of all anti-Communist elements in that country and the overthrow of the Communist government at Peiping.

The American point of view, carefully developed after much planning at the Department of State, has just been broadcast through the "Voice of America" to the Chinese people. Similar broadcasts will continue to be made from now on.

This approach does not mean that the United States is attempting to tell the Chinese how to set up a free government or who shall head it up. That's a matter for the people of China to decide. But the all-important development is that the United States has abandoned any idea of dealing with the Communist regime and, in effect, has served notice that, if a government representative of the wishes of the Chinese people arises, it will deserve diplomatic recognition from all countries in the free world. It could be an expanded Nationalist government or a government brought into being through Nationalist efforts. It could be the Nationalist government itself if it regains control of the mainland.

The American policy, which cuts the Gordian knot and destroys any probability of a "deal" with the Communist Chinese, has attracted considerable attention since it was announced last Friday night by Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

The department itself, confronted with queries asking what change it has made in Far Eastern policies, has said the pronouncement was not new in the sense that it has been historic American policy. But the words of Dean Rusk—which, incidentally, were not widely published because their significance was not immediately appreciated—make it quite clear that all bets are off so far as the Red Chinese are concerned. He said in part:

"The independence of China is gravely threatened. In the Communist world there is room for only one master — a jealous and implacable master, whose price of friendship is complete submission. How many Chinese, in one community after another, are now being destroyed because they love China more than the Soviet Union? . . .

"The freedoms of the Chinese people are disappearing. Trial by mob, mass-slaughter, banishment as forced labor to Manchuria, Siberia or Sinkiang, the arbitrary seizure of property, the destruction of loyalties within the family, the suppression of free speech —these are the facts behind the parades and celebrations and the empty promises."

Dean Rusk added that the "territorial integrity of China is now an ironic phrase," and he pointed out that the maps of China now being published on the mainland show how China has been dismembered.

How does all this relate to Korea? The objective of the American government is to wake up the people of China to the fact that their sons are being slaughtered in a war directed by Soviet Russia. Mr. Rusk declared:

"Hundreds of thousands of Chinese youth are being sacrificed in a fiery furnace, pitting their waves of human flesh against the fire power of modern weapons — and without heavy equipment, adequate supply or the most elementary medical attention. Apart from Korea, the Chinese are being pressed to aggressive action in other areas—all calculated to divert the attention and energies of China away from the encroachments of Soviet imperialism upon China itself."

This is the kind of doctrine that should have long ago been disseminated, but it comes opportunely now just the same when the Red offensive in Korea is causing the death of tens of thousands of brave Chinese soldiers. The significant paragraph in the Rusk speech, which steers carefully away from any attempt to dictate what elements shall be welded together to fight communism, says:

'We cannot provide a formula to engage the unity of effort among all Chinese who love their country. But one thing we can say —as the Chinese people move to assert their freedom and to work out their destiny in accordance with their own historical purposes, they can count upon tremendous support from free peoples in other parts of the world."

This is the kind of pronouncement which, if made also to the people of the satellite countries in Europe, would in time bring a profound change in the "cold war," especially if it breaks down the "will to fight" of Red China's armies—many of whose soldiers are already deserting in response to leaflets dropped on them from day to day promising food, shelter and freedom.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Tucson, Arizona, May 21—A dramatic transformation is in progress in the Arizona desert which certainly portends trouble, possibly a dust bowl and another crop of ghost settlements. The limitation of the cotton acreage has been abolished and in Pima county, alone, whose seat is Tucson, the increase this year will be about 25,000 acres. The normal acreage was about 10,000. In Santa Cruz county, which runs to the Mexican border, about 11,000 acres are being planted or cleared for planting, as against a total cotton acreage of about 4,000 in 1950.

Thornton Jones, the water commissioner, reported that in Maricopa, whose seat is Phoenix, the state capital, there was very little surface flow left. Ernest Douglas, the editor of the Arizona Farmer, who has been close to the problems of water supply and irrigation, wrote after that warning: "An incredible story of neglect and indifference was unfolded. This county's underground water has been treated as an inexhaustible resource, belonging to anybody who could get hold of a piece of land and punch down a well. The statute allocating surface water has been nullified by pumping, which is regulated by no statutes whatever. With disaster staring them in the face, sober citizens have talked over the tragic situation and wondered whether it would do any good to have Maricopa county declared a 'critical area.'"

In a "critical area," the drilling of further wells and the irrigation of new acreage may be forbidden but only after long litigation if the petitioner for permission is willing to go to the trouble and expense. In the very suburbs of Tucson, which, until five years ago, was desert and open range, homeless horses of good quality now wander in bunches up to 20, grazing the cactus and brush and damaging residential gardens and commercial citrus groves because the conversion of hayfields to cotton has forced up the cost of feed so high that their owners just turned them loose.

Gerald Swinehart, of New York, who has a small winter vacation home in frontier village and has been keeping two horses of his own, offered them for sale They cost him $200 and $75, respectively, two years ago. The owner of the stable replied that he had on hand a fine big gelding which he was authorized to give away to anyone who would care for the steed.

William Taylor, a young war veteran from Detroit, who still clanks like a monon engine what with the loose shrapnel in his legs, has suffered severe damage by stray horses which jump his cattle-guards at Desert Treasures, a big citrus ranch, to drink from the tree holes in his groves. They also tramp down the little dikes around the trees and rip the branches. Another bunch, a few miles to the north along the oracle road, go marauding at night. They raise hell trying to stampede tame horses in corrals. This apparently is sheer mischief.

The problem of the horses is only indicative, however. It means that the demand for Arizona's long staple cotton, a commodity little known to any but persons with a special interest in cotton planting and cotton products, has Offhand this may seem to some a pretty harmless notion. Actually it is loaded with dynamite. It means that, at the government's own discretion, it could enter into competition with industry. If you like labels, you could call it socialism.

The fact that some of the World War II plants were built by government has nothing to do with the case. In wartime, government inevitably takes unto itself many powers which in a democracy should reside with individual citizens and organizations.

Whether there's an emergency or not, a lot of industries undoubtedly are extremely conservative about adding plant facilities. Some were burned by over-expansion in earlier periods. Others are just cautious.

Where this foot-dragging can be shown by business and economic experts to be handicapping the general growth of the economy, it certainly must be countered by some kind of government effort. Financial aid and protection is one important prod. Steady pressure on the industry through public channels is another.

But these devices should not include government power to finance and build its own plants. The administration's obvious interest in exercising this authority in or out of crisis makes such a grant too risky for the free American economy.

Only the existence of actual large-scale war, in which time to apply the usual prods might be a luxury, would seem to justify sweeping entry of the federal government into industrial plant expansion.

BLOTS AND LOTS

The city beautification committee of Welch, West Virginia, has a new slogan for the spring clean-up:

"Don't let your LOT be a BLOT on your neighborhood."

When winter's rains and ruins are over, too many city lots are blots. But it takes a few of the extra hours of long light provided by the spring to erase the blot and make the lot a beauty spot for all who pass by it to enjoy, as well as those who live on it and around it.

Now's the time to clear out the rubbish, clean up, paint up, dig up the flower space and plant for the summer's comfort and delight.

Flowers and green growth give vigor to mind and rest to the soul. Cleanliness is to godliness. What are we waiting for?

A wise man is not the man who merely lives to learn but the man who also learns to live.

GENERAL BRADLEY'S IDEALS

It is obvious that it is the administration's policy to talk the MacArthur hearings to death. Somebody used the word, obfuscate, to describe their tactics, meaning to deprive of mental clearness. General Marshall's 200,000 words shed no light; General Omar Bradley's testimony, thus far, added little to our information except that military men are trained not to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

On this subject, General Bradley had much to say that cannot be misunderstood. Senator Bridges asked him:

"Q.—If it reaches the time in this country where you think the political decision is affecting what you believe to be basically right militarily, what would you do?

"A.—Well, if after several instances in which the best military advice we could give was turned down for other reasons, I would decide that my advice was no longer of any help, why, I would quit. I feel that is the way you would have to do. Let them get some other military adviser whose advice apparently would be better, or at least more acceptable.

"Q.—Would you speak out, tell the American public. A.—No, sir."

Senator Bridges pursued this line of questioning and all of it is important:

"Q.—Don't you think that is your duty, your loyalty to your country, to do that. A.—No, sir, I don't think so. I have been brought up a little differently.

"Q.—Where does the loyalty to your country come in? A.—I am loyal to my country, but I am also loyal to the Constitution, and you have certain elected officials under the Constitution, and I wouldn't profess that my judgment was better than the President of the United States or the administration.

"Q.—Would it not be on a military subject? A.—Yes.

"Q.—Should not you speak out? A.—I would, yes, to the constituted authorities; yes.

"Q.—But you would stop there? A.—Yes."

Senator Wiley asked General Bradley a question pertinent to the investigation—an important question in a hearing especially called so that the people might know the truth regarding the conference to dismiss MacArthur. This is the colloquy:

"Q.—I beg your pardon. You said there was Marshall, Acheson—and who else? A.—Harriman and myself.

"Q.—All right. Now, tell us what was said then? A.—Senator, at that time I was in a position of a confidential adviser to the President. I do not feel at liberty to publicize what any of us said at that time."

If you or I took that position, we should be cited for contempt. Dr. Bernard A. Rumely has been convicted for taking precisely that position. The committee has voted to forgive General Bradley his recalcitrance and public opinion, on the whole, supports that position. But we need to know that two precedents have been established:

1. That military men are not the same kind of citizens; that there is one rule for them and one for the rest of us;

2. That it is not necessary to speak the whole truth before a congressional committee; that a citizen has option as to the kind of truth he may choose to tell.

(In this connection, it is interesting to read Donald Dawson's testimony. He also dodges.)

As Senator Knowland so correctly said: "This deals with the public business of the government of the United States." President Harry Truman is only part of that government; the Congress is an equal part. General Bradley's responsibility is as great to Congress as it is to the President.

I should like to put it all in the form of a hypothetical question: Suppose the President of the United States ordered the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff to seize the Congress, arrest the minority leaders and declare a dictatorship—what would be the responsibility of the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff?

Perhaps General Bradley would like to answer that. Senator Connally understood that when he said:

"I do not think it would be appropriate for the general to speak to the President and then come back and tell us what the President decided about a purely procedural matter before this committee.

"It is not the business of the President, and I don't think that we ought to establish any such doctrine for similar cases, that we run over and talk to the White House and get the President's opinion."

This is not a question of General Bradley or Donald Dawson; it is a matter of government.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

DRUG AND REDUCED DIET GETS RID OF FAT

Practically every physician has many overweight patients who are looking for a short cut to get rid of excess fat. Our insurance companies, who deal with overweight as a defect or disease, warn their policyholders about the dangers of overweight after the age of 30, as it prediposes to heart and blood vesssel disease, diabetes and other ailments.

The first thing an overweight learns from his physician is that as the excess fat did not come on in a matter of days or weeks, it will take many weeks or even months to get rid of it safely. When weight is taken off too rapidly, particularly from about the organs in the abdomen, the organs may drop a number of inches, causing shock and interfering with digestion.

I have written many times about the great damage done to health and also the loss of lives following the publication of the 10-day diet. This diet was prescribed for a young movie star who had only 18 days to get down to the weight prescribed in her movie contract. It was never meant for any man, or woman, doing his daily work.

There are, however, cases where the physician must help the patient to get rid of his or her excess fat in a short time. It is in these cases that the drug Benzedrine Sulfate and Dexedrine Sulfate are prescribed, but a physician must supervise the patient's dosage to prevent any ill effects from these drugs.

In Clinical Science, London, Drs. D. A. W. Edwards and G. I. M. Swyer report their comparison of the effects of thyroid extract and Dexedrine Sulfate. They found that Dexedrine Sulfate (dextroamphetamine), 5 mg. three times a day, greatly increased loss of weight when used in a low food value diet of 1,000 calories. Thyroid extract (30 mg. three times a day) did not cause loss of weight using the same amount of food. Dexedrine Sulfate and thyroid extract had no effects upon each other. The Dexedrine Sulfate continued to cause loss of weight over a period of four months and there was no difference in its effects in different months. The mean or average weight loss per month over the four months without Dexedrine but using the 1000 caloric diet was 5 3/4 pounds; with Dexedrine Sulfate and the 100 calorie diet it was about 8 pounds per month.

The above shows that with reduced diet alone 5¾ pounds per month was lost. Of course, cases requiring more rapid loss could, under a physician's supervision, get rid of their excess fat more rapidly.

That's the Way It Looks to Us

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The Senate's ruling that star witnesses in the MacArthur hearings will not have to testify regarding confidential conversations presumably will hold for confidential conversations between Gen. Omar Bradley and the other members of the joint chiefs of staff.

However, some of their private reactions during the MacArthur discussions are significant. Inside fact is that the joint chiefs were extremely nervous about the idea of ousting MacArthur and took care to avoid the word "recommend" in reporting to the White House that MacArthur be fired.

Instead, and after considerable private debate, they decided to use the words "militarily advisable." Therefore, a report that it was "militarily advisable" to relieve MacArthur was signed by all four of the joint chiefs.

Despite this compromise-wording there was no question among the joint chiefs that MacArthur should go. There were three general reasons for this view, and it is interesting that none of them really agreed with Truman's reason's—namely, MacArthur's flouting of orders by discussing foreign policy.

Reason No. 1—Was the fact that the joint chiefs considered MacArthur too rash as a military commander and likely to let American forces in for more trouble.

Tying MacArthur's Hands

That was why they actually tied his hands with the military directive regarding the bombing of Chinese bases. They decided that he could bomb Chinese bases if—and they were two very big ifs—1. The Communists threw in enough air power to jeopardize our ground troops; or 2. If the Chinese attacked any U.N. ships or installations outside Korea.

But MacArthur was given a further directive that before he could do any bombing in either of the above categories he must first consult the joint chiefs. In other words, what might provoke MacArthur into bombing Manchuria might not be enough to provoke the joint chiefs. They didn't trust his judgment, were afraid he would interpret these conditions far more liberally than they.

Reason No. 2 — Was the fact that MacArthur was not one to take suggestions or guidance from the joint chiefs. While it is J. C. S. policy not to dictate to the commander in the field, they do reserve the right to give general guidance and make suggestions

And they were quite provoked during MacArthur's November advance into North Korea that he ignored their warning that there was no battle communication between General Walker's 8th Army and General Almond's 10th Corps. When the joint chiefs warned MacArthur about this, he replied, rather coldly, that there was sufficient liaison.

However, the joint chiefs, still not satisfied, asked MacArthur a second time why General Almond and his 10th Corps were operating independently of the 8th Army, leaving a big gap betwen the two forces. MacArthur replied, unconvincingly, that General Almond and his 10th Corps were drawing Chinese pressure away from the 8th Army.

Later, when the Chinese struck, they picked the hole that had worried the joint chiefs, and smashed right into the vacuum between the 10th Corps and the 8th Army.

Reason No. 3—However, what finally got the joint chiefs really sore at MacArthur was the way his statement about using Chiang Kai shek's troops in Korea killed the Universal Military Training bill.

For months the joint chiefs had set their hearts on passing universal military training for the first time in the history of the nation. But two days after MacArthur's statement urging that we use Chiang's Formosan troops, the U. M. T. bill was dead. MacArthur had killed it. For Congress was under immediate fire from the voters to use Chinese troops instead of expanding the draft.

After that the joint chiefs needed no urging from the White House to state that it was "militarily advisable" to relieve MacArthur.

Unoriginality in Names

Among other things, he branded "Drew Pearson" a "warmonger."

There's nothing like being versatile. I have now been called a "Communist" by Senator McCarthy, a warmonger by the editor of Pravda, and an S. O. B. by President Truman. It's about time somebody thought up some new names.

Merry-Go-Round

Even though they disagree with Nebraska's Senator Ken Wherry, most Democratic senators like him. The other day Democratic Senator Bill Benton of Connecticut was talking about the need for education in television, with only about four senators listening. The considerate Wherry walked up behind and whispered: 'Do you want a quorum call?" . . . This would have brought a full Senate back to listen to Benton's speech, which Wherry thought important. . . . GOP Senator Knowland of California also commands the respect of the Democrats. It is obvious from his speeches and cross-examination that he really works. . . . Jim Duff of Pennsylvania, though a freshman, already has become one of the outstanding senators. His father was a Presbyterian preacher and so was his wife's father—which may be why Duff is a crusader.

U.N. Troops

A lot has been published about the failure of our United Nations friends to support us in Korea, but not much about certain unexpected support.

Italy, for instance, is not a member of the U.N., but has asked for permission to send units to Korea. So far, nothing definite has been worker out.

Peru, with a quite small army, is now sending a contingent to Korea. Actually Peru had volunteered some time before, but was told that a certain proportion of any Peruvian troops sent to Korea would have to speak English.

This requirement, laid down by General MacArthur at first, was a hard one for a Spanish-speaking country like Peru to fulfill. Now that the language bar has been raised, Peru is sending its quota.

American Policy Frowning on Any Deal With Red China May Be Hardest Blow to Communism

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 22 — The United States has launched a psychological-warfare campaign inside China which could some day lead to a unification of all anti-Communist elements in that country and the overthrow of the Communist government at Peiping.

The American point of view, carefully developed after much planning at the Department of State, has just been broadcast through the "Voice of America" to the Chinese people. Similar broadcasts will continue to be made from now on.

This approach does not mean that the United States is attempting to tell the Chinese how to set up a free government or who shall head it up. That's a matter for the people of China to decide. But the all-important development is that the United States has abandoned any idea of dealing with the Communist regime and, in effect, has served notice that, if a government representative of the wishes of the Chinese people arises, it will deserve diplomatic recognition from all countries in the free world. It could be an expanded Nationalist government or a government brought into being through Nationalist efforts. It could be the Nationalist government itself if it regains control of the mainland.

The American policy, which cuts the Gordian knot and destroys any probability of a "deal" with the Communist Chinese, has attracted considerable attention since it was announced last Friday night by Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

The department itself, confronted with queries asking what change it has made in Far Eastern policies, has said the pronouncement was not new in the sense that it has been historic American policy. But the words of Dean Rusk—which, incidentally, were not widely published because their significance was not immediately appreciated—make it quite clear that all bets are off so far as the Red Chinese are concerned. He said in part:

"The independence of China is gravely threatened. In the Communist world there is room for only one master — a jealous and implacable master, whose price of friendship is complete submission. How many Chinese, in one community after another, are now being destroyed because they love China more than the Soviet Union? . . .

"The freedoms of the Chinese people are disappearing. Trial by mob, mass-slaughter, banishment as forced labor to Manchuria, Siberia or Sinkiang, the arbitrary seizure of property, the destruction of loyalties within the family, the suppression of free speech —these are the facts behind the parades and celebrations and the empty promises."

Dean Rusk added that the "territorial integrity of China is now an ironic phrase," and he pointed out that the maps of China now being published on the mainland show how China has been dismembered.

How does all this relate to Korea? The objective of the American government is to wake up the people of China to the fact that their sons are being slaughtered in a war directed by Soviet Russia. Mr. Rusk declared:

"Hundreds of thousands of Chinese youth are being sacrificed in a fiery furnace, pitting their waves of human flesh against the fire power of modern weapons—and without heavy equipment, adequate supply or the most elementary medical attention. Apart from Korea, the Chinese are being pressed to aggressive action in other areas—all calculated to divert the attention and energies of China away from the encroachments of Soviet imperialism upon China itself."

This is the kind of doctrine that should have long ago been disseminated, but it comes opportunely now just the same when the Red offensive in Korea is causing the death of tens of thousands of brave Chinese soldiers. The significant paragraph in the Rusk speech, which steers carefully away from any attempt to dictate what elements shall be welded together to fight communism, says:

'We cannot provide a formula to engage the unity of effort among all Chinese who love their country. But one thing we can say —as the Chinese people move to assert their freedom and to work out their destiny in accordance with their own historical purposes, they can count upon tremendous support from free peoples in other parts of the world."

This is the kind of pronouncement which, if made also to the people of the satellite countries in Europe, would in time bring a profound change in the "cold war," especially if it breaks down the "will to fight" of Red China's armies—many of whose soldiers are already deserting in response to leaflets dropped on them from day to day promising food, shelter and freedom.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Tucson, Arizona, May 21—A dramatic transformation is in progress in the Arizona desert which certainly portends trouble, possibly a dust bowl and another crop of ghost settlements. The limitation of the cotton acreage has been abolished and in Pima county, alone, whose seat is Tucson, the increase this year will be about 25,000 acres. The normal acreage was about 10,000. In Santa Cruz county, which runs to the Mexican border, about 11,000 acres are being planted or cleared for planting, as against a total cotton acreage of about 4,000 in 1950.

Thornton Jones, the water commissioner, reported that in Maricopa, whose seat is Phoenix, the state capital, there was very little surface flow left. Ernest Douglas, the editor of the Arizona Farmer, who has been close to the problems of water supply and irrigation, wrote after that warning: "An incredible story of neglect and indifference was unfolded. This county's underground water has been treated as an inexhaustible resource, belonging to anybody who could get hold of a piece of land and punch down a well. The statute allocating surface water has been nullified by pumping, which is regulated by no statutes whatever. With disaster staring them in the face, sober citizens have talked over the tragic situation and wondered whether it would do any good to have Maricopa county declared a 'critical area.'"

In a "critical area," the drilling of further wells and the irrigation of new acreage may be forbidden but only after long litigation if the petitioner for permission is willing to go to the trouble and expense. In the very suburbs of Tucson, which, until five years ago, was desert and open range, homeless horses of good quality now wander in bunches up to 20, grazing the cactus and brush and damaging residential gardens and commercial citrus groves because the conversion of hayfields to cotton has forced up the cost of feed so high that their owners just turned them loose.

Gerald Swinehart, of New York, who has a small winter vacation home in frontier village and has been keeping two horses of his own, offered them for sale. They cost him $200 and $75, respectively, two years ago. The owner of the stable replied that he had on hand a fine big gelding which he was authorized to give away to anyone who would care for the steed.

William Taylor, a young war veteran from Detroit, who still clanks like a monon engine what with the loose shrapnel in his legs, has suffered severe damage by stray horses which jump his cattle-guards at Desert Treasures, a big citrus ranch, to drink from the tree holes in his groves. They also tramp down the little dikes around the trees and rip the branches. Another bunch, a few miles to the north along the oracle road, go marauding at night. They raise hell trying to stampede tame horses in corrals. This apparently is sheer mischief.

The problem of the horses is only indicative, however. It means that the demand for Arizona's long staple cotton, a commodity little known to any but persons with a special interest in cotton planting and cotton products, has

Q—What is the source of the name "taps," for the bugle call?

A—The origin of taps is uncertain, but it is likely that, as the signal for lights out and going to bed originally was tapped out on a drum, it came to be known as "the taps," or simply "taps." It is played at army bedtime and at military funerals.

Only Couple of Seconds

Jabara said a jet pilot rarely fights more than five minutes at a time, explaining:

"Even if you are on his tail and can stay there two minutes, you have only a couple of seconds of firing opportunity."

He said teamwork was the basis for success in air combat.

"A good wingman is worth his weight in gold. When a leader sees the enemy he quits looking around and the wingman becomes his eyes and ears. He sticks to his target, and that's when he's most vulnerable."

To illustrate . . .

"I lost contact with my wingman Sunday during the terrific gyrations I had to make to keep on the MIG's tail. I ended up with two MIGS shooting at me from behind.

"I noticed the bursts from their heavy calibre cannons popping around me and for two minutes I made violent maneuvers to get away.

"Two of my buddies saw it and asked who I was. I just managed to groan out 'J Abar-r-r-r-a' with the little wind I had left and they came to help me."

He said the three "A"s of aerial combat are: Aid discipline, aggressiveness and aerial gunnery. These must be combined with the ability to make decisions quickly —before a brief opportunity disappears."

As an instructor he expects to wash out many men—and save both their lives and their planes. But he said these men would be able to perform top jobs elsewhere in the many-armed air force.

Merchants Cannot

to the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, which permits states to adopt fair trade laws.

Douglas in his opinion declared the Miller-Tydings Act sanctions only contracts or agreements.

"If a distributor and one or more retailers want to agree, combine, or conspire to fix a minimum price, they can do so if state law permits," he said.

"When they seek, however, to impose price fixing on persons who have not contracted or agreed to the scheme, the situation is vastly different. That is not price fixing by contract or agreement; that is price fixing by compulsion . . . resort to coercion."

The court's vote was 6-3, with Justices Frankfurter, Black and Burton dissenting.

The reasoning of those who said the decision would cripple or kill state fair trade laws was this: If the non-signer cuts prices, his competitor will lose business and will not want to sign up again. If the manufacturer seeks to enforce price minimums by cutting off supplies to the non-signer, he will run into trouble as a violator of the Sherman Act's ban on restraint of trade.

The validity of the agreements themselves was not contested in the case decided yesterday, only their effect on non-signers.

recommendations he would make.

John E. Selser, defense counsel, said the pleas were the result of "tremendous negotiations." Stamler later told newspapermen the negotiations were "among the defendants."

Facing sentence with the 48-year Adonis are Salvatore (Solly) Moretti, 46, of Demarest, alleged co-leader of the operation of three dice palaces in Lodi and Fort Lee; James (Piggy) Lynch, 46, of Palisades Park; Arthur Longano, 46, of Englewood, and Anthony Guarini, 58, of Hasbrouck Heights. Guarini now is serving a state prison term on a gambling charge.

All five were charged with a gambling conspiracy and three charges of operation of the dice games. Guarini was taken to Hudson county jail to await sentencing, but bail of $15,000 each was continued on the other defendants.

Adonis also has been cited for contempt by the U. S. Senate for failure to answer U. S. Senate Crime Committee questions.

Adonis, queried about how he felt about the prospect of going to prison for the first time, answered:

"I feel good. There's a first time for everything, I guess."

Exchange Agreed

Warsaw, Poland, May 22 (AP)—Poland and the Soviet Union have agreed on an exchange of small parcels of territory on Poland's eastern frontier, giving the U.S.S.R. a link in a rail line in exchange for a piece of Ukrainian territory including an oil and natural gas area. The agreement, announced here today, was signed recently in Moscow.

Lie, Says Wiley

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Senator Wiley (R-Wis.) denounced as a "damned lie" today reports that he and other Republicans are out to "get" Secretary of State Acheson in the MacArthur inquiry. Wiley's outburst came when the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees met to continue hearings on the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The local public works department recently received the truck shown here which will be used in summer for spreading stone dust on top of surface treatment for streets and in the winter for the spreading of sand, salt and calcium chloride on the city's roadways. It holds seven tons and can spread stone up to the size of a half inch. (Freeman Photo)

Shot by Air Rifles

Police were notified by a resident of Woodland avenue at 5:22 p. m. Monday that two boys, who had stopped at her house said they had been shot wth air rifles in the woods near the area by two other boys. Officers Harry Martin and George Dougherty investigated and found that Franz Muller, 13, of 143 Third avenue had been hit in the left elbow and William Palmer, 15, 104 Second avenue, was hit in the right arm. Two suspects were questioned, but were released and no others were found in the area.

Holiday Proclaimed

San Juan, Puerto Rico, May 22 (AP)—Governor Luis Munoz Marin proclaimed a half holiday for Puerto Rico tomorrow. That's when 110 veterans of the Korean war—all members of the 65th Infantry Regiment—will be welcomed home as the first arrivals under the new rotation plan.

Cairo Man Fined $10

Clifford Mathews, 47, of Cairo, was fined $10 by Justice of the Peace Glenford Myers of Saugerties after he pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge. Mathews was arrested by Troopers R. J. Nicodemus and M. Lisman on complaint of Sam Holroyd of Saugerties, who charged Mathews drove an automobile onto his front lawn, causing property damage, about 11:30 p. m. Monday.

are well fueled while we use two thirds of our fuel getting to MIG Alley and back; (2) if they are shot down and bail out there's a good chance they'll be back having Martinis in their officers' clubs in a few minutes; (3) if they get into trouble they can glide to safety across the Yalu to their sancturay where we are forbidden to go; and (4) they don't have our weather problems in reaching th combat area.

"They have a plane as good as our F-86, but we know our advantages and their disadvantages and our leaders take advantage of them."

Only Couple of Seconds

Jabara said a jet pilot rarely fights more than five minutes at a time, explaining:

"Even if you are on his tail and can stay there two minutes, you have only a couple of seconds of firing opportunity."

He said teamwork was the basis for success in air combat.

"A good wingman is worth his weight in gold. When a leader sees the enemy he quits looking around and the wingman becomes his eyes and ears. He sticks to his target, and that's when he's most vulnerable."

To illustrate . . .

"I lost contact with my wingman Sunday during the terrific gyrations I had to make to keep on the MIG's tail. I ended up with two MIGS shooting at me from behind.

"I noticed the bursts from their heavy calibre cannons popping around me and for two minutes I made violent maneuvers to get away.

"Two of my buddies saw it and asked who I was. I just managed to groan out 'J Abar-r-r-r-a' with the little wind I had left and they came to help me."

He said the three "A"s of aerial combat are: Aid discipline, aggressiveness and aerial gunnery. These must be combined with the ability to make decisions quickly—before a brief opportunity disappears."

As an instructor he expects to wash out many men—and save both their lives and their planes. But he said these men would be able to perform top jobs elsewhere in the many-armed air force.

Merchants Cannot

to the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, which permits states to adopt fair trade laws.

Douglas in his opinion declared the Miller-Tydings Act sanctions only contracts or agreements.

"If a distributor and one or more retailers want to agree, combine, or conspire to fix a minimum price, they can do so if state law permits," he said.

"When they seek, however, to impose price fixing on persons who have not contracted or agreed to the scheme, the situation is vastly different. That is not price fixing by contract or agreement; that is price fixing by compulsion . . . resort to coercion."

The court's vote was 6-3, with Justices Frankfurter, Black and Burton dissenting.

The reasoning of those who said the decision would cripple or kill state fair trade laws was this: If the non-signer cuts prices, his competitor will lose business and will not want to sign up again. If the manufacturer seeks to enforce price minimums by cutting off supplies to the non-signer, he will run into trouble as a violator of the Sherman Act's ban on restraint of trade.

The validity of the agreements themselves was not contested in the case decided yesterday, only their effect on non-signers.

Adonis Might Get

recommendations he would make.

John E. Selser, defense counsel, said the pleas were the result of "tremendous negotiations." Stamler later told newspapermen the negotiations were "among the defendants."

Facing sentence with the 48-year Adonis are Salvatore (Solly) Moretti, 46, of Demarest, alleged co-leader of the operation of three dice palaces in Lodi and Fort Lee; James (Piggy) Lynch, 46, of Palisades Park; Arthur Longano, 46, of Englewood, and Anthony Guarini, 58, of Hasbrouck Heights. Guarini now is serving a state prison term on a gambling charge.

All five were charged with a gambling conspiracy and three charges of operation of the dice games. Guarini was taken to Hudson county jail to await sentencing, but bail of $15,000 each was continued on the other defendants.

Adonis also has been cited for contempt by the U. S. Senate for failure to answer U. S. Senate Crime Committee questions.

Adonis, queried about how he felt about the prospect of going to prison for the first time, answered:

"I feel good. There's a first time for everything, I guess."

Trailers on the Trail

Trailers on the road—
Confound 'em!
You can't see through 'em
Or around 'em.
They creep up grades
While you're bewailing 'em,
Weary of Forever trailing 'em.
—Ethel Jacobson in Sat. Eve. Post.

After a promotion to a more responsible job many of us wonder why we sought it so eagerly.
—The Houghton Line.

We got a call from a hospital the other day saying that a friend of ours was acting oddly.

We—What's the matter? Is he off his trolley?

Nurse—Well, he has just become the father of triplets.

We—That is quite a shock. But what's he doing?

Nurse—He's just going around smiling from heir to heir.

Why not use the T-bomb? This was described by Gen. Eisenhower when he said: "The truth can almost be classified as our T-bomb in this war: It can be won by truth." He was speaking, of course, of the whole "war of ideas."

First Veteran—Those Germans had a lot of original ideas.

Second Veteran—I should say so! They even spent their spare time catching cooties alive. After the cooties were starved for about a week, the Germans would turn 'em loose in a trench they were about to abandon to the enemy!

The man who rests on his laurels usually rusts on them.

A pessimist is a person who is disappointed in everything, but first of all, in himself.

Most wives will listen to reason—but not the same one too often. They will never erect a building so high that someone will not jump from it.

Neighbor—So you have twins at your house, Frankie? What have you named them?

Frankie—Thunder and Lightning—that's what Pop said when they arrived.

Candidate—Signs of returning prosperity lie about everywhere.

Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Up-to-Date Plans Anniversary Sale

The Up-To-Date Company, Inc., is planning a sales promotion this week to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary in the women's wear retail busines on Wall street in Kingston.

The Up-To-Date was originated in 1901 by the late Frank Forman with a store at 324 Wall street, where the United Cut Rate Pharmacy is now located.

Three or four years later, the store moved across the street to No. 303 in a store front that is now a part of the W.T. Grant Company local store. The Up-To-Date remained in that location until six years ago, when it moved to its present location at 330 Wall street.

Joseph Kramer, the present manager of the store, has been associated with Up-To-Date for 30 years. He took over full management in 1936 on the death of Frank Forman.

The store features high quality women's apparel.

Airports Are in Use

New York, May 22 (AP)—Fog lay over upper New York harbor early today, but it did not disrupt traffic at the city's two big airports. Harbor visibility was poor, but the fog was expected to lift later in the day. At LaGuardia Field, where there were some cancellations last night, traffic was reported normal today. Idlewild Airport also reported normal flying conditions, although two Puerto Rico-bound flights were canceled earlier today due to poor visibility. One incoming transatlatic flight was diverted to Boston. Heavy fog yesterday forced scores of ships to drop anchor near Ambrose lightship. The 10,195-ton tanker, Gulftrade, ran aground near Sandy Hook, N. J.

Blockade Is Asked

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Rep. O. K. Armstrong (R-Mo.) called today for a complete blockade of Communist China and said he would offer a resolution to put Congress on record as endorsing such action. Armstrong recently returned from the Far East, including the Chinese Nationalist refuge on Formosa. During current hearings on the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, administration witnesses have testified a military blockade on Red China would greatly increase the danger of spreading the war, perhaps involving Russia.

2,000 Fight Fires

Montreal, May 22 (AP)—Some 2,000 men fought widespread fires last night in Quebec and Ontario forests, dried by a five-day hot spell. A two-hour rain Sunday night failed to douse any of the big blazes but it helped to dampen timber in their paths. Hardest hit were the Lake St. John and Chicoutimi areas of northwestern Quebec.

The value of a black or silver fox pelt reduces 50 per cent if the hide is not removed from the animal within five days after it reaches its maximum gloss and thickness, due to a brown tinge which appears by that time.

Wake Up To More Comfort

Without Nagging Backache

Nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness may be due to slow-down of kidney function. Doctors say good kidney function is very important to good health. When some everyday condition, such as stress and strain, causes this important function to slow down, many folks suffer nagging backache—feel miserable. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Up-to-Date Plans Anniversary Sale

The Up-To-Date Company, Inc., is planning a sales promotion this week to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary in the women's wear retail busines on Wall street in Kingston.

The Up-To-Date was originated in 1901 by the late Frank Forman with a store at 324 Wall street, where the United Cut Rate Pharmacy is now located.

Three or four years later, the store moved across the street to No. 303 in a store front that is now a part of the W.T. Grant Company local store. The Up-To-Date remained in that location until six years ago, when it moved to its present location at 330 Wall street.

Joseph Kramer, the present manager of the store, has been associated with Up-To-Date for 30 years. He took over full management in 1936 on the death of Frank Forman.

The store features high quality women's apparel.

Airports Are in Use

New York, May 22 (AP)—Fog lay over upper New York harbor early today, but it did not disrupt traffic at the city's two big airports. Harbor visibility was poor, but the fog was expected to lift later in the day. At LaGuardia Field, where there were some cancellations last night, traffic was reported normal today. Idlewild Airport also reported normal flying conditions, although two Puerto Rico-bound flights were canceled earlier today due to poor visibility. One incoming transatlatic flight was diverted to Boston. Heavy fog yesterday forced scores of ships to drop anchor near Ambrose lightship. The 10,195-ton tanker, Gulftrade, ran aground near Sandy Hook, N. J.

Blockade Is Asked

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Rep. O. K. Armstrong (R-Mo.) called today for a complete blockade of Communist China and said he would offer a resolution to put Congress on record as endorsing such action. Armstrong recently returned from the Far East, including the Chinese Nationalist refuge on Formosa. During current hearings on the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, administration witnesses have testified a military blockade on Red China would greatly increase the danger of spreading the war, perhaps involving Russia.

2,000 Fight Fires

Montreal, May 22 (AP)—Some 2,000 men fought widespread fires last night in Quebec and Ontario forests, dried by a five-day hot spell. A two-hour rain Sunday night failed to douse any of the big blazes but it helped to dampen timber in their paths. Hardest hit were the Lake St. John and Chicoutimi areas of northwestern Quebec.

The answer is yes. There's no 30-day notice required, no 3-month waiting period, no advertising for a buyer. If your stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange, you can sell your shares whenever you want.

How can I find out how much my stocks are worth? If you own stock in a corporation listed on the Exchange, you need only glance at the stock-market price tables in your newspaper, or telephone a local member firm of the Exchange.

Who sets the prices of stocks? The people who buy and sell stocks. The Stock Exchange does not set prices. Bids to buy stocks and offers to sell come to the Exchange from investors all over the country. Sellers want the highest price possible and buyers the lowest. When a mutually agreeable price is reached, a sale is made. Handling orders to buy or sell shares is the day-to-day business of member firms of the Exchange.

Can I get a fair price? Whenever you buy, or whenever you sell, you can be sure you are getting the best price at that moment in this national market place. There is no such thing as a high price for Seattle and a low price for New York.

Member firms of the New York Stock Exchange provide a nationwide network of investment service. Their help is available whenever you want it . . . whether you're looking for information or want to do business.

Exams to Be Held For Positions With Education Board

Open competitive examinations will be held June 19 for the position of senior and junior stenographers for the Board of Education, the Kingston Municipal Civil Service Commission announced today.

County residents will be allowed to take the examination through special agreement because previous examinations failed in attracting qualified candidates, the commission said.

Three vacancies exist in the junior stenographer classification and two in the senior. The salary range for the former is $2,100 to $2,500 and for the latter, $2,500 to $2,900.

The commission, Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools and Joseph Watkins and Joseph Silverman of the state civil service department, jointly agreed at a recent meeting to allow county residents to take the examination. Thomas J. Finnerty, is president of the local commission.

Both male and female residents of the city and county will be eligible to try the examinations providing they have been residents for 12 months prior to the date on which they file applications. All candidates must bring their own typewriter, pen, pencils, erasers and a lined notebook for dictation. The place where the examination is to be held will be announced.

LEIBHARDT

Leibhardt, May 21—The Rev. Clarence Hunter, who has been pastor of the local church in Kerhonkson and Leibhardt for two years, has been transferred to the charge at Katonah. The Rev. Mr. Hunter occupied the Katonah pulpit for the first time Sunday. The pastor and Mrs. Hunter plan to move from Kerhonkson May 22.

Robert Austin, of the navy, who is stationed at Norfolk, Va., aboard the USS Wright, recently visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Austin of Rochester Center.

Arlie Brown and his brother, Harry Howe, have discontinued their work on the Lackawack project.

The Rev. and Mrs. Clarence O. Hunter called on Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Quick Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dunkel and two sons of Napanoch were callers Saturday at the Markle home in Lower Leibhardt.

Miss Edna Hornbeck and sister, Erma, have taken positions at Lake Minnewaska for the summer. They left for their work May 13.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Locke have returned to their home in Camp Shady Rest after spending several months in the south.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Markle were recent callers on Mrs. Markle's cousins at the Brown home in Samsonville.

curtailed hay and pasturage to this extent.

Desmond Williams, a contractor who has done much building traveled 5,000 miles looking for a suitable patch where he could either punch down wells or tap some existing source. He was always a jump behind the other fellow and gave it up. There was, he said, a wonderful chance to make a quick cleanup in the commodity now known as white gold, in a boom which might blow up by 1952, although, if the requirements of war industry continue steady, the demand for Arizona cotton probably will continue also.

There is no possible doubt that all this new irrigation will seriously impair the underground water supply. Some speculators, including carpetbaggers from other states, will buy and clear their land and fetch their water and still make a big profit on this year's crop alone. The yield is two bales to the acre in ordinary circumstances, but in the Casa Grande and Eloy areas in Pinal county some land gives three bales.

However, this is all an area of acute emergency in the water supply. Eloy is an unsightly string town along the main road to California. Many of the population are Oakies, Arkies, and other American migrants. The social conditions are not fastidious. The planters and the state government recently agreed on camp sanitation for these nomadic cotton choppers and pickers who, in normal times, work also on carrots and other ground crops. The ranchers held that the plumbing which the health department demanded as a minimum requirement would be ripped out and sold for junk, wherein they spoke from experience with a quaint tribe who are not all housebroken. Some rachers prefer Mexicans as being more civilized and reliable. The new code forbids dirt floors and canvas housing and provides for showers and some cooking equipment.

The government raised the crop objective for cotton from ten million bales in 1950 to 16 million this year.

Howard Pyle, the young Republican governor, is alarmed over the ground-water danger and will put it on the order of business for a special session of the Legislature. But it will be hard, if at all possible, to restrain the exploiters, who can say that, after all, war production requires all the cotton they can raise. There are taxes in many states on minerals taken from the ground which, like this water, cannot be replaced in measurable time. But no such water tax has been seriously proposed.

The answer is yes. There's no 30-day notice required, no 3-month waiting period, no advertising for a buyer. If your stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange, you can sell your shares whenever you want.

How can I find out how much my stocks are worth? If you own stock in a corporation listed on the Exchange, you need only glance at the stock-market price tables in your newspaper, or telephone a local member firm of the Exchange.

Who sets the prices of stocks? The people who buy and sell stocks. The Stock Exchange does not set prices. Bids to buy stocks and offers to sell come to the Exchange from investors all over the country. Sellers want the highest price possible and buyers the lowest. When a mutually agreeable price is reached, a sale is made. Handling orders to buy or sell shares is the day-to-day business of member firms of the Exchange.

Can I get a fair price? Whenever you buy, or whenever you sell, you can be sure you are getting the best price at that moment in this national market place. There is no such thing as a high price for Seattle and a low price for New York.

Member firms of the New York Stock Exchange provide a nationwide network of investment service. Their help is available whenever you want it . . . whether you're looking for information or want to do business.

Exams to Be Held For Positions With Education Board

Open competitive examinations will be held June 19 for the position of senior and junior stenographers for the Board of Education, the Kingston Municipal Civil Service Commission announced today.

County residents will be allowed to take the examination through special agreement because previous examinations failed in attracting qualified candidates, the commission said.

Three vacancies exist in the junior stenographer classification and two in the senior. The salary range for the former is $2,100 to $2,500 and for the latter, $2,500 to $2,900.

The commission, Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools and Joseph Watkins and Joseph Silverman of the state civil service department, jointly agreed at a recent meeting to allow county residents to take the examination. Thomas J. Finnerty, is president of the local commission.

Both male and female residents of the city and county will be eligible to try the examinations providing they have been residents for 12 months prior to the date on which they file applications. All candidates must bring their own typewriter, pen, pencils, erasers and a lined notebook for dictation. The place where the examination is to be held will be announced.

LEIBHARDT

Leibhardt, May 21—The Rev. Clarence Hunter, who has been pastor of the local church in Kerhonkson and Leibhardt for two years, has been transferred to the charge at Katonah. The Rev. Mr. Hunter occupied the Katonah pulpit for the first time Sunday. The pastor and Mrs. Hunter plan to move from Kerhonkson May 22.

Robert Austin, of the navy, who is stationed at Norfolk, Va., aboard the USS Wright, recently visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Austin of Rochester Center.

Arlie Brown and his brother, Harry Howe, have discontinued their work on the Lackawack project.

The Rev. and Mrs. Clarence O. Hunter called on Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Quick Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dunkel and two sons of Napanoch were callers Saturday at the Markle home in Lower Leibhardt.

Miss Edna Hornbeck and sister, Erma, have taken positions at Lake Minnewaska for the summer. They left for their work May 13.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Locke have returned to their home in Camp Shady Rest after spending several months in the south.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Markle were recent callers on Mrs. Markle's cousins at the Brown home in Samsonville.

curtailed hay and pasturage to this extent.

Desmond Williams, a contractor who has done much building traveled 5,000 miles looking for a suitable patch where he could either punch down wells or tap some existing source. He was always a jump behind the other fellow and gave it up. There was, he said, a wonderful chance to make a quick cleanup in the commodity now known as white gold, in a boom which might blow up by 1952, although, if the requirements of war industry continue steady, the demand for Arizona cotton probably will continue also.

There is no possible doubt that all this new irrigation will seriously impair the underground water supply. Some speculators, including carpetbaggers from other states, will buy and clear their land and fetch their water and still make a big profit on this year's crop alone. The yield is two bales to the acre in ordinary circumstances, but in the Casa Grande and Eloy areas in Pinal county some land gives three bales.

However, this is all an area of acute emergency in the water supply. Eloy is an unsightly string town along the main road to California. Many of the population are Oakies, Arkies, and other American migrants. The social conditions are not fastidious. The planters and the state government recently agreed on camp sanitation for these nomadic cotton choppers and pickers who, in normal times, work also on carrots and other ground crops. The ranchers held that the plumbing which the health department demanded as a minimum requirement would be ripped out and sold for junk, wherein they spoke from experience with a quaint tribe who are not all housebroken. Some rachers prefer Mexicans as being more civilized and reliable. The new code forbids dirt floors and canvas housing and provides for showers and some cooking equipment.

The government raised the crop objective for cotton from ten million bales in 1950 to 16 million this year.

Howard Pyle, the young Republican governor, is alarmed over the ground-water danger and will put it on the order of business for a special session of the Legislature. But it will be hard, if at all possible, to restrain the exploiters, who can say that, after all, war production requires all the cotton they can raise. There are taxes in many states on minerals taken from the ground which, like this water, cannot be replaced in measurable time. But no such water tax has been seriously proposed.

Price War Hints Are Heard in Some Parts Over Ruling

(By The Associated Press)

The average shopper pondered today whether any money would be saved as a result of the U. S. Supreme Court's blow at fair trade laws in 45 states.

In some areas, there were hints of price wars, especially in drugs and liquors, that would benefit the consumer's pocketbook.

"The lid's off," said a New Orleans, La., liquor distributor. "Here we go."

Connecticut Attorney General George C. Conway said the ruling "kills' 'the Fair Tade Act in his state. Druggists and dealers in electrical appliances feared a return of cut-throat competition.

Joseph T. Meek, executive secretary, Illinois Federation of Retail Associations, said that "the ruling has potentialities for a trade war."

But in other areas, merchants did not seem very concerned over the prospects of price battles.

The Supreme Court said yesterday a merchant who has not signed a fairtrade agreement can charge that he wants to for what he sells.

The Portland, Me., Better Business Bureau chief, Alan F. Whitman, predicts that manufacturers can enforce fair trade prices by refusing to sell to retailers who cut agreed prices.

May Be Reluctant

Moreover, trade sources in Seattle, Los Angeles, and New York pointed out, merchants may be reluctant about starting price wars in the curent period when many items are under federal price control and other goods are threatened with it.

In other states, like Georgia, it was noted that fair trade minimums often are below the actual selling price of an item.

Officials in many states thought the decision killed their own fair trade laws, but many refused to comment until they could study the opinions.

Here are some other reactions:

Ohio — George V. Sheridan, executive secretary of the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants, called the ruling a "terrific blow, particularly to smaller merchants." He said the Ohio law covers thousands of items sold in 110,000 stores.

New York—Spokesmen say it is too early to determine what the full effect will be. Liquor prices are not affected, since a State Liquor Authority controls this trade.

Maryland — Hillard Donner, fined $1,500 for selling liquor at reduced prices under the state law, says he's going back to cut-rate sales.

Hurricane Is Creeping Along Northeastward

Washington, May 22 (AP)—A hurricane with 90 mile an hour winds at its maw is creeping northeastwards over the Atlantic off the coast of Maryland.

In an advisory last midnight, the weather bureau warned small craft from Norfolk, Va., to Eastport, Me., to hug the protection of their ports. The storm was causing gales as far as 80 miles from its center, the weather bureau reported. Even large shipping was warned to prepare for hard knocks.

High winds and exceptional tides were predicted for today on the Rhode Island and southeast Massachusetts coasts.

Storm warnings were out from Sandy Hook, N. J., to Cape Ann, Mass.

D-D's Will Feature Miniature Railway

Ground was broken and the first spike driven Monday for a new railroad in this area.

This momentous occasion, (for the year 1951), occurred at D-D's Drive In on the Saugerties road where a miniature railroad is under construction, a railroad that will carry children and adults around the grounds in the vicinity of the refreshment stand.

According to Al DiDonna, the new railroad will feature a diesel-hauled train incorporating the most modern features of the large railroad systems.

DiDonna revealed that he expects to drive the last spike "in a couple of weeks with an appropriate ceremony," and then the miniature system will be ready to haul its patrons around the grounds of the Saugerties road establishment.

Exchanges Will Close

New York, May 22 (AP)—All financial and commodity exchanges throughout the United States will be closed Memorial Day, Wednesday, May 30.

Soviets Announce Rain

London, May 22 (AP)—The Soviet Union announced today it has perfected "improved types of electronic machines for artificial rain." But the Russian rain maker also has a fair weather use, the Soviet news agency Tass said in a dispatch from Moscow. The machines, Tass said, "also mechanize the application of fertilizers and chemical substances for fighting weeds and vermin." The announcement did not elaborate.

Books on Hobbies To Be Featured at Show May 24 to 26

A new feature of the Hudson Valley Hobby Show this year on May 24, 25 and 26 will be an exhibit of books on hobbies arranged at Kingston Municipal Auditorium by the Kingston City Library.

More than 100 books will be on display. Officials in many states thought the decision killed their own fair trade laws, but many refused to comment until they could study the opinions.

Here are some other reactions:

Ohio — George V. Sheridan, executive secretary of the Ohio Council of Retail Merchants, called the ruling a "terrific blow, particularly to smaller merchants." He said the Ohio law covers thousands of items sold in 110,000 stores.

New York—Spokesmen say it is too early to determine what the full effect will be. Liquor prices are not affected, since a State Liquor Authority controls this trade.

Maryland — Hillard Donner, fined $1,500 for selling liquor at reduced prices under the state law, says he's going back to cut-rate sales.

Hurricane Is Creeping Along Northeastward

Washington, May 22 (AP)—A hurricane with 90 mile an hour winds at its maw is creeping northeastwards over the Atlantic off the coast of Maryland.

In an advisory last midnight, the weather bureau warned small craft from Norfolk, Va., to Eastport, Me., to hug the protection of their ports. The storm was causing gales as far as 80 miles from its center, the weather bureau reported. Even large shipping was warned to prepare for hard knocks.

High winds and exceptional tides were predicted for today on the Rhode Island and southeast Massachusetts coasts.

Storm warnings were out from Sandy Hook, N. J., to Cape Ann, Mass.

D-D's Will Feature Miniature Railway

Ground was broken and the first spike driven Monday for a new railroad in this area.

This momentous occasion, (for the year 1951), occurred at D-D's Drive In on the Saugerties road where a miniature railroad is under construction, a railroad that will carry children and adults around the grounds in the vicinity of the refreshment stand.

According to Al DiDonna, the new railroad will feature a diesel-hauled train incorporating the most modern features of the large railroad systems.

DiDonna revealed that he expects to drive the last spike "in a couple of weeks with an appropriate ceremony," and then the miniature system will be ready to haul its patrons around the grounds of the Saugerties road establishment.

Exchanges Will Close

New York, May 22 (AP)—All financial and commodity exchanges throughout the United States will be closed Memorial Day, Wednesday, May 30.

Soviets Announce Rain

London, May 22 (AP)—The Soviet Union announced today it has perfected "improved types of electronic machines for artificial rain." But the Russian rain maker also has a fair weather use, the Soviet news agency Tass said in a dispatch from Moscow. The machines, Tass said, "also mechanize the application of fertilizers and chemical substances for fighting weeds and vermin." The announcement did not elaborate.

Steam Generating Model on Display At Central Hudson

A model one twenty-fourth the size of Central Hudson's 60,000 kilowatt steam generating station at Danskammer Point is on display in the company office here, where it will remain until Friday, June 1. An animated color display showing the operation cycle of the steam generator is also at the office.

The $12,000,000 Danskammer Point station is now under construction about six miles north of Newburgh. When it goes into operation sometime before January of next year it will supply large quantities of power to customers on both sides of the river.

The model was constructed for Central Hudson by a company in Massachusetts which specializes in miniature plants. Its purpose was to make possible a check of complicated piping before actual construction began and to get a definite picture of structural features that is not possible from blueprints.

The model was copied from original Danskammer blueprints on a scale of ½ inch to the foot. It measures about 4 feet by 8½ feet and is approximately 6 feet to the top of the smokestack. With a few minor exceptions all original details were reproduced on the model. It is built so that it can be broken down into sections for crating and shipping. To make a close inspection possible the side walls are detachable and the roof is made of transparent plastic.

According to Central Hudson the model saved considerable expense in the preparation of plans. It will also offer a means of training personnel who will be working at the plant when it goes into operation.

Kingston is the fourth point of display for the model in its tour of Central Hudson District offices. It will be shown in Catskill starting June 4.

Plans Discussed For Oakwood Rally

Young people from area Reformed churches attended a "Let's Go to Oakwood" rally Sunday afternoon and evening at the First Reformed Church of Walden. The rally was planned as a reunion for Oakwood Conference members of past years and to encourage interest in this year's conference, to be held from June 25 to 29 at Oakwood School in Dutchess county.

Director of the conference this year is the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, pastor of the Fair Street Reformed Church in this city, who delivered the inspirational address during the rally worship service Sunday afternoon. Other area clergymen who attended the rally were the Rev. Raymond J. Pontier of the Reformed Church of the Comforter, and the Rev. John Dykstra of Hurley Reformed Church. Miss Marjorie Eisenberger, director of religious education at the Old First Dutch Church also was present, as was the Rev. William Irish of Ellenville Reformed Church, who is well known in Kingston because of his former association with the First Dutch Church as assistant pastor.

County Nurses Will Attend State Parley

A regular monthly meeting of the Ulster County Division of Practical Nurses, Inc., was held last Thursday night at the court house. Due to the resignation of Mrs. Mabel Razy as corresponding secretary, Mrs. Beatrice Boyce was nominated to fill the unexpired term.

On May 22-25 the convention of Practical Nurses will be held at Buffalo. Miss Margaret Bowen and Mrs. Lucy Baker will represent the Ulster County Division as delegates.

The membership drive is now in progress and all licensed practical nurses are urged to join the Association. Anyone wishing to join are asked to contact Mrs. Lucy Baker, 123 South Manor avenue, or phone 3095.

. . . you're just the man we want to talk to!

What could be a better, more convenient time than right now to convert your present furnace to burn Natural Gas? Yes, sir, do this and you can entirely forget your furnace — not alone for summer but year 'round!

Physically, you won't get the exercise you formerly did. But, is that bad? With no fuel to handle, no ash cans to wrestle, no cleaning up to do, it will be Sunday every day. Actually, with Natural Gas heat, the only work necessary is to heave yourself out of that easy chair and push a little thermostat around to the degree of temperature you like. That takes energy equal to moving a finger about one-quarter of an inch! Should this become too hard to handle, the whole thing can be set up by clockwork! All of which is just another way of saying that Natural Gas is effortless heat — 100% automatic.

Mechanically, it's no problem at all to convert your present furnace to burn gas. Slip a self-contained piece of equipment in the firedoor and run a gas pipe to it! Incidentally, conversion burner equipment cost is the lowest for any automatic heat.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Beware Hunches--- They're Misleading

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Probably each of us know some bridge player who plays by hunch, and most of us wish we didn't. A hunch is that strange instinct that tells a bridge player he's right—whether he is or not.

When today's hand was actually played, South had a hunch that the kind of trumps would drop. He took the opening lead in dummy with the ace of clubs, finessed the queen of spades, and then confidently banged down the ace of spades.

This brilliant maneuver did declarer no good at all. He had to lose a trump, a diamond, and two clubs.

Do I hear somebody say that the contrast must be lost anyway? Look again, for South can make four spades if he plays the hand properly.

Correct play is to win the first trick with the ace of clubs and finesse the queen of spades to begin with. When the finesse holds, South should abandon trumps. The chance that the king will drop is far too small.

South leads a heart to dummy's ace and ruffs a heart with the eight of spades. He leads a diamond to the king and ruffs another heart with the nine of spades. He then gets to dummy with the ace of diamonds and ruffs still another heart with the ten of spades.

This leaves South with just the ace-jack of spades and three losing cards in the minor suits. He leads a club or a diamond to let the enemy take their three tricks. When they have done so somebody else will be in the lead, and South must surely make both his ace and his jack of trumps.

Body Is Found

Elmira, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—The body of 13-year-old George Silverstein was found hanging in a school locker room yesterday and Coroner M. E. Pitman pronounced the death a suicide. Mrs. Gladys Thomas, head nurse of the city school system, said the seventh grade pupil had been reprimanded for gum-chewing and had not been allowed to take part in the gymnasium period.

RIFTON

Rifton, May 21—All women of the village are cordially invited to attend the meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary next Monday, May 28, when the cancer of the breast movie will be shown.

Mrs. George M. Clement is ill at the home of her son.

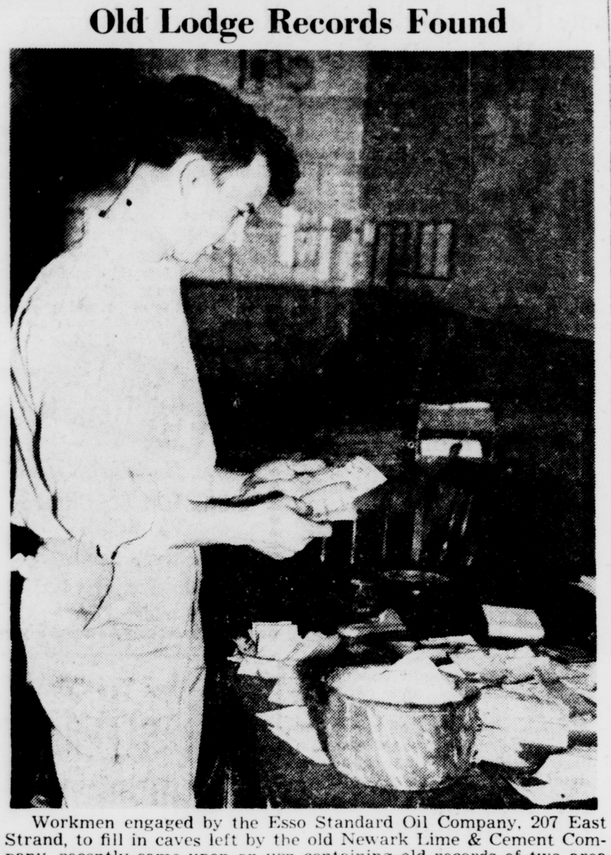
Old Lodge Records Found



Workmen engaged by the Esso Standard Oil Company, 207 East Strand, to fill in caves left by the old Newark Lime & Cement Company, recently came upon an urn containing old records of two area IOOF lodges. Records and checks dating from 1879 to 1908 were found in the container which had been sealed inside of a rock in one cave. Both the local lodge and Hiawatha Lodge, of Rosendale are mentioned in the papers. The checks were drawn on the Rondout National Bank. Shown here is Joseph Wolf, an employe of the Esso office, inspecting the find. Any area IOOF lodge interested in the papers, is asked to communicate with the Esso office. (Freeman Photo)

Philharmonic Head Dies; Was Native Of Poughkeepsie

New Yok, May 22 (AP)—Charles Triller, 88, chairman of the board of directors of the Philharmonic Symphony Society of New York, died yesterday in his mid-Manhattan home after a week's illness.

A life-long patron of music, Triller was a founder of the Society of American Singers and for many years was a director of the Manhattan School of Music.

He was elected treasurer of the Philharmonic in 1919, when the society was in a grave financial condition, and it was his personal two-year guarantee that helped it survive.

Triller became chairman of the Philharmonic in 1949, succeeding Marshall Field, and the next year was named president as well. He relinquished the presidency last year.

A native of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Triller showed an early interest in music. As a boy he played the organ in church and later studied singing. When he came to New York at the age of 18, Triller wanted to be a singer, but family reverses forced him to seek another livelihood. He joined the export-import firm of Wood and Selick and rose to be its president and board chairman, too.

He is survived by three sisters: Mrs. Frank Eighme and the Misses Lydia and Cora Triller, all of Philadelphia.

THE CENTRAL IDEA

NEW YORK CENTRAL SYSTEM

1. HOW IS IT EARNED? New York Central earned 69¢ of each dollar it received in 1950 from hauling freight, and 15¢ more carrying passengers. Another 12.5¢ came from other operations. The final 3.5¢ of New York Central's income dollar last year was yield on its investments.

2. RAILROADERS GOT MOST of that dollar—over 56¢ in wages, salaries, pensions and Central's contribution in the form of payroll taxes to provide security. Their share of Central's income totaled $443,000,000. And these men and women spend their money where they live!

3. ANOTHER 25¢ of New York Central's dollar went for coal, Diesel oil, rails, ties, wheels and all the other items that go into a railroad's market basket. Depreciation took 4.9¢. Interest, rentals, etc. required 5.8¢. Federal, state and local taxes accounted for 5.7¢.

4. LAST AND LEAST came net income of 2.3¢. Probably no one in town works for so small a profit as your Railroad. Compared to most cost-of-living items, fares and freight rates are bargains. But then, giving a lot for the money always has been the CENTRAL IDEA!

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Beware Hunches--- They're Misleading

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Probably each of us know some bridge player who plays by hunch, and most of us wish we didn't. A hunch is that strange instinct that tells a bridge player he's right—whether he is or not.

When today's hand was actually played, South had a hunch that the kind of trumps would drop. He took the opening lead in dummy with the ace of clubs, finessed the queen of spades, and then confidently banged down the ace of spades.

This brilliant maneuver did declarer no good at all. He had to lose a trump, a diamond, and two clubs.

Do I hear somebody say that the contrast must be lost anyway? Look again, for South can make four spades if he plays the hand properly.

Correct play is to win the first trick with the ace of clubs and finesse the queen of spades to begin with. When the finesse holds, South should abandon trumps. The chance that the king will drop is far too small.

South leads a heart to dummy's ace and ruffs a heart with the eight of spades. He leads a diamond to the king and ruffs another heart with the nine of spades. He then gets to dummy with the ace of diamonds and ruffs still another heart with the ten of spades.

This leaves South with just the ace-jack of spades and three losing cards in the minor suits. He leads a club or a diamond to let the enemy take their three tricks. When they have done so somebody else will be in the lead, and South must surely make both his ace and his jack of trumps.

Body Is Found

Elmira, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—The body of 13-year-old George Silverstein was found hanging in a school locker room yesterday and Coroner M. E. Pitman pronounced the death a suicide. Mrs. Gladys Thomas, head nurse of the city school system, said the seventh grade pupil had been reprimanded for gum-chewing and had not been allowed to take part in the gymnasium period.

RIFTON

Rifton, May 21—All women of the village are cordially invited to attend the meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary next Monday, May 28, when the cancer of the breast movie will be shown.

Mrs. George M. Clement is ill at the home of her son.

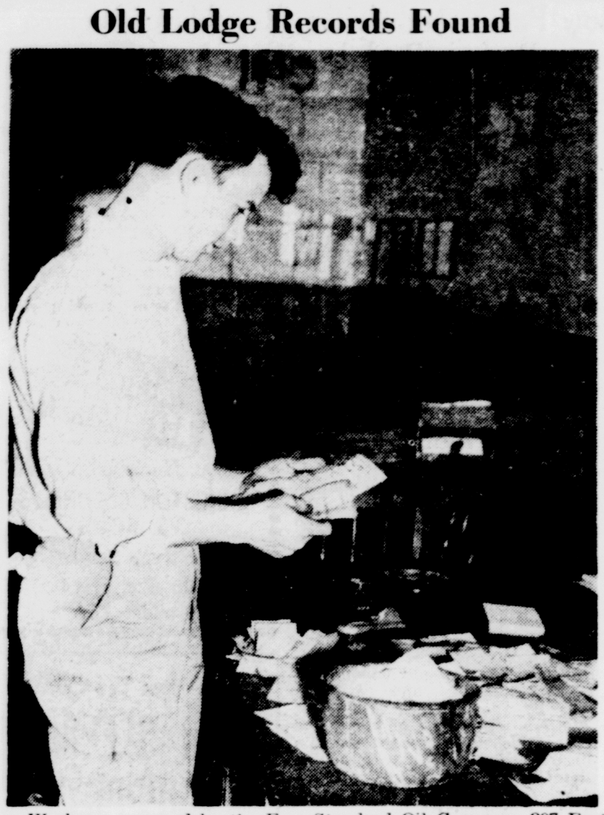
Old Lodge Records Found



Workmen engaged by the Esso Standard Oil Company, 207 East Strand, to fill in caves left by the old Newark Lime & Cement Company, recently came upon an urn containing old records of two area IOOF lodges. Records and checks dating from 1879 to 1908 were found in the container which had been sealed inside of a rock in one cave. Both the local lodge and Hiawatha Lodge, of Rosendale are mentioned in the papers. The checks were drawn on the Rondout National Bank. Shown here is Joseph Wolf, an employe of the Esso office, inspecting the find. Any area IOOF lodge interested in the papers, is asked to communicate with the Esso office. (Freeman Photo)

Philharmonic Head Dies; Was Native Of Poughkeepsie

New Yok, May 22 (AP)—Charles Triller, 88, chairman of the board of directors of the Philharmonic Symphony Society of New York, died yesterday in his mid-Manhattan home after a week's illness.

A life-long patron of music, Triller was a founder of the Society of American Singers and for many years was a director of the Manhattan School of Music.

He was elected treasurer of the Philharmonic in 1919, when the society was in a grave financial condition, and it was his personal two-year guarantee that helped it survive.

Triller became chairman of the Philharmonic in 1949, succeeding Marshall Field, and the next year was named president as well. He relinquished the presidency last year.

A native of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Triller showed an early interest in music. As a boy he played the organ in church and later studied singing. When he came to New York at the age of 18, Triller wanted to be a singer, but family reverses forced him to seek another livelihood. He joined the export-import firm of Wood and Selick and rose to be its president and board chairman, too.

He is survived by three sisters: Mrs. Frank Eighme and the Misses Lydia and Cora Triller, all of Philadelphia.

Kerhonkson VFW Plans Services

THE CENTRAL IDEA

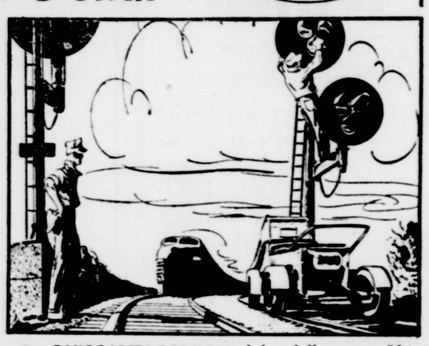
NEW YORK CENTRAL SYSTEM

1. HOW IS IT EARNED? New York Central earned 69¢ of each dollar it received in 1950 from hauling freight, and 15¢ more carrying passengers. Another 12.5¢ came from other operations. The final 3.5¢ of New York Central's income dollar last year was yield on its investments.



2. RAILROADERS GOT MOST of that dollar—over 56¢ in wages, salaries, pensions and Central's contribution in the form of payroll taxes to provide security. Their share of Central's income totaled $443,000,000. And these men and women spend their money where they live!

3. ANOTHER 25¢ of New York Central's dollar went for coal, Diesel oil, rails, ties, wheels and all the other items that go into a railroad's market basket. Depreciation took 4.9¢. Interest, rentals, etc. required 5.8¢. Federal, state and local taxes accounted for 5.7¢.

4. LAST AND LEAST came net income of 2.3¢. Probably no one in town works for so small a profit as your Railroad. Compared to most cost-of-living items, fares and freight rates are bargains. But then, giving a lot for the money always has been the CENTRAL IDEA!

YWCA Music Group Luncheon Thursday Ends Club's Season

The Music Appreciation Group of the YWCA closed its season Thursday with a luncheon at the YWCA served by the Mmes. Earl Schoonmaker, Raymond Craft and Charles Terwilliger. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Ward Brigham, and the invocation was given by Mrs. Richard Morse.

Following a short business session the group's new chairman, Mrs. Boyd Williams, introduced Miss Florence Cordts who gave a resume of her European trip last summer.

Realizing the wisdom of an old friend who advised: "Mortgage your future and take a trip abroad," Miss Cordts set out for Europe and the passion play at Oberammergau. Before speaking of the world-famous play, Miss Cordts told of the black plague which scourged the people of Bavaria so many years ago. In desperation the people vowed to re-enact Christ's life and death each 10 years if only the plague would end. According, at least to the legend, health was restored, and the citizens set to work. Ever since, discounting periods of wars (last summer marked the first Passion Play in 16 years) the story has been acted out each decade.

Tableaux Used

The great spectacle, Miss Cordts explained, is given in 20 tableaux using 60 players. Meanwhile, a rich musical background is woven throughout by a 50 piece orchestra, augmented by a 15 voice chorus. Approximately 500 extras appear at intervals during the production.

Each player needs about a year to prepare for his role, the speaker continued. Originally they are chosen by a committee of 25 priests. The men let beard and hair remain uncut, while even the children boast long locks.

Selecting Christ

The person selected to play Christ receives additional scrutiny, Miss Cordts added. The role requires personal comeliness coupled with great physical strength to endure some of the scenes. Judas meanwhile, must be played by a powerful actor with strong facial expressions.

In illustration Miss Cordts played a recording of one of the many Bach choruses which are interwoven in the Passion Play's plot. The play itself, Miss Cordts said, holds appeal for all faiths and creeds with its tremendous climax and overtones which remain, she felt with the spectators for days afterwards.

William Tell

Miss Cordts also told the group the story of William Tell which she saw enacted at the open-air theatre at Interlaken, Switzerland. She commented on how the Alpine chorus sounded as the folk opera opened in its Alpine surroundings, telling its age old story of the freedom of the individual triumphant over tyranny.

Records, showing various forms of Swiss music, and the art of yodeling were played for the group.

Continuing on to Einsiedeln, Miss Cordts told of how her party visited the baroque church there, scene of the Spanish Calderone's play. The Great Theatre of the World. All the scenes, the speaker explained, took place on the portico and stairways of the church. She also showed photographs of the scene with its allegorical theme of man's brotherhood.

The combination of realistic scenery, actors, and a spell-bound audience, watching beneath a starlit sky, made it, the speaker felt, "a raising of mind and soul to God."

Gerhard Schneider Exhibits Sunday

A member of the Ulster County Artists Association, Gerhard Schneider of Rosendale, held a one-man show Sunday afternoon and evening from 2 to 7 p. m. in the Stone Ridge Grange Hall. During the afternoon four of Mr. Schneider's canvases were sold.

The artist's landscapes and still lifes, exclusively in oils, ranged from moderately sized 14 by 20 inch scenes to canvases three by four feet.

During the afternoon tea was served.

Port Ewen Fashion Show Packs Auditorium; Garden Stage Set Forms Perfect Backdrop

When the curtains parted a week ago at the fashion show sponsored by the Altar Society of the Port Ewen Methodist Church, the audience packing the Town of Esopus Auditorium were shown a setting reminiscent of a country garden, complete with white latticed trellis banked with white and purple lilacs, and a central arbor covered with dogwood. The program opened with a piano and solovox medley by Roger Baer, two solo selections by John McCullough, and two accordion solos by Miss Louise DePaolo. J. Wilson Tinney emceed, and Mrs. Helen Davenport, fetching in a bouffant gown of imported white organdy over taffetta, was commentator.

Youth took precedence over age as styles from Leon's Young Togs were modeled by Danny, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Potter; Diane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Potter; Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pridgen; and Mary Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Latz. All four children are of Port Ewen. Children's fashions stretched from a Hopalong Cassidy sweater and cotton gabardine "pistol packing jeans" to a Little Countess original melon colored spring coat.

Sports to Formals

The kiddies seniors, during their portion of the fashion parade, presented everything from sports wear through cocktail and formal clothes. Outstanding from the Junior Deb Shop was a navy taffeta duster over lilac tissue faille worn by Mrs. John Brinnier; from Regina's a brown and tan checked suit and coat that could double as a topper worn by Mrs. Ann Harrison; from the Towne Shoppe a plum colored washable cotton sunback in chambray with a unique pique collar modeled by Mrs. William Hulsair; from Helen Davenport a formal black taffetta shown by Miss Laura DeCicco, with a harem skirt, plain bodice and a Turkish blue metallic girdle shot with silver. A matching blue taffeta jacket could be used to convert the formal into a dinner dress. Many of the costumes shown were completed with attractively styled chapeaux from Teresa Rose Hats.

Intermission Solos

During the intermission solovox selections were played by Mr. Baer, Mr. McCullough sang, and Miss DePaolo gave two accordion solos.

Final presentation of the showing was a wedding scene from the Bride's Shoppe with Mrs. James P. Roosa as the bride in a gown of white organdy with an over-all pattern of velvarayed lilies-of-the-valley. Her cascade bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and gardenias was by the Kingston House of Flowers. The maid of honor and four bridesmaids were dressed in pastel organdy with a matching floral design.

YWCA Music Group Luncheon Thursday Ends Club's Season

The Music Appreciation Group of the YWCA closed its season Thursday with a luncheon at the YWCA served by the Mmes. Earl Schoonmaker, Raymond Craft and Charles Terwilliger. Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Ward Brigham, and the invocation was given by Mrs. Richard Morse.

Following a short business session the group's new chairman, Mrs. Boyd Williams, introduced Miss Florence Cordts who gave a resume of her European trip last summer.

Realizing the wisdom of an old friend who advised: "Mortgage your future and take a trip abroad," Miss Cordts set out for Europe and the passion play at Oberammergau. Before speaking of the world-famous play, Miss Cordts told of the black plague which scourged the people of Bavaria so many years ago. In desperation the people vowed to re-enact Christ's life and death each 10 years if only the plague would end. According, at least to the legend, health was restored, and the citizens set to work. Ever since, discounting periods of wars (last summer marked the first Passion Play in 16 years) the story has been acted out each decade.

Tableaux Used

The great spectacle, Miss Cordts explained, is given in 20 tableaux using 60 players. Meanwhile, a rich musical background is woven throughout by a 50 piece orchestra, augmented by a 15 voice chorus. Approximately 500 extras appear at intervals during the production.

Each player needs about a year to prepare for his role, the speaker continued. Originally they are chosen by a committee of 25 priests. The men let beard and hair remain uncut, while even the children boast long locks.

Selecting Christ

The person selected to play Christ receives additional scrutiny, Miss Cordts added. The role requires personal comeliness coupled with great physical strength to endure some of the scenes. Judas meanwhile, must be played by a powerful actor with strong facial expressions.

In illustration Miss Cordts played a recording of one of the many Bach choruses which are interwoven in the Passion Play's plot. The play itself, Miss Cordts said, holds appeal for all faiths and creeds with its tremendous climax and overtones which remain, she felt with the spectators for days afterwards.

William Tell

Miss Cordts also told the group the story of William Tell which she saw enacted at the open-air theatre at Interlaken, Switzerland. She commented on how the Alpine chorus sounded as the folk opera opened in its Alpine surroundings, telling its age old story of the freedom of the individual triumphant over tyranny.

Records, showing various forms of Swiss music, and the art of yodeling were played for the group.

Continuing on to Einsiedeln, Miss Cordts told of how her party visited the baroque church there, scene of the Spanish Calderone's play, The Great Theatre of the World. All the scenes, the speaker explained, took place on the portico and stairways of the church. She also showed photographs of the scene with its allegorical theme of man's brotherhood.

The combination of realistic scenery, actors, and a spell-bound audience, watching beneath a starlit sky, made it, the speaker felt, "a raising of mind and soul to God."

Gerhard Schneider Exhibits Sunday

A member of the Ulster County Artists Association, Gerhard Schneider of Rosendale, held a one-man show Sunday afternoon and evening from 2 to 7 p. m. in the Stone Ridge Grange Hall. During the afternoon four of Mr. Schneider's canvases were sold.

The artist's landscapes and still lifes, exclusively in oils, ranged from moderately sized 14 by 20 inch scenes to canvases three by four feet.

During the afternoon tea was served.

Port Ewen Fashion Show Packs Auditorium; Garden Stage Set Forms Perfect Backdrop

When the curtains parted a week ago at the fashion show sponsored by the Altar Society of the Port Ewen Methodist Church, the audience packing the Town of Esopus Auditorium were shown a setting reminiscent of a country garden, complete with white latticed trellis banked with white and purple lilacs, and a central arbor covered with dogwood. The program opened with a piano and solovox medley by Roger Baer, two solo selections by John McCullough, and two accordion solos by Miss Louise DePaolo. J. Wilson Tinney emceed, and Mrs. Helen Davenport, fetching in a bouffant gown of imported white organdy over taffetta, was commentator.

Youth took precedence over age as styles from Leon's Young Togs were modeled by Danny, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Potter; Diane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Potter; Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pridgen; and Mary Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Latz. All four children are of Port Ewen. Children's fashions stretched from a Hopalong Cassidy sweater and cotton gabardine "pistol packing jeans" to a Little Countess original melon colored spring coat.

Sports to Formals

The kiddies seniors, during their portion of the fashion parade, presented everything from sports wear through cocktail and formal clothes. Outstanding from the Junior Deb Shop was a navy taffeta duster over lilac tissue faille worn by Mrs. John Brinnier; from Regina's a brown and tan checked suit and coat that could double as a topper worn by Mrs. Ann Harrison; from the Towne Shoppe a plum colored washable cotton sunback in chambray with a unique pique collar modeled by Mrs. William Hulsair; from Helen Davenport a formal black taffetta shown by Miss Laura DeCicco, with a harem skirt, plain bodice and a Turkish blue metallic girdle shot with silver. A matching blue taffeta jacket could be used to convert the formal into a dinner dress. Many of the costumes shown were completed with attractively styled chapeaux from Teresa Rose Hats.

Intermission Solos

During the intermission solovox selections were played by Mr. Baer, Mr. McCullough sang, and Miss DePaolo gave two accordion solos.

Final presentation of the showing was a wedding scene from the Bride's Shoppe with Mrs. James P. Roosa as the bride in a gown of white organdy with an over-all pattern of velvarayed lilies-of-the-valley. Her cascade bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and gardenias was by the Kingston House of Flowers. The maid of honor and four bridesmaids were dressed in pastel organdy with a matching floral design.

Tableaux Used

The great spectacle, Miss Cordts explained, is given in 20 tableaux using 60 players. Meanwhile, a rich musical background is woven throughout by a 50 piece orchestra, augmented by a 15 voice chorus. Approximately 500 extras appear at intervals during the production.

Each player needs about a year to prepare for his role, the speaker continued. Originally they are chosen by a committee of 25 priests. The men let beard and hair remain uncut, while even the children boast long locks.

Selecting Christ

The person selected to play Christ receives additional scrutiny, Miss Cordts added. The role requires personal comeliness coupled with great physical strength to endure some of the scenes. Judas meanwhile, must be played by a powerful actor with strong facial expressions.

In illustration Miss Cordts played a recording of one of the many Bach choruses which are interwoven in the Passion Play's plot. The play itself, Miss Cordts said, holds appeal for all faiths and creeds with its tremendous climax and overtones which remain, she felt with the spectators for days afterwards.

William Tell

Miss Cordts also told the group the story of William Tell which she saw enacted at the open-air theatre at Interlaken, Switzerland. She commented on how the Alpine chorus sounded as the folk opera opened in its Alpine surroundings, telling its age old story of the freedom of the individual triumphant over tyranny.

Records, showing various forms of Swiss music, and the art of yodeling were played for the group.

Continuing on to Einsiedeln, Miss Cordts told of how her party visited the baroque church there, scene of the Spanish Calderone's play. The Great Theatre of the World. All the scenes, the speaker explained, took place on the portico and stairways of the church. She also showed photographs of the scene with its allegorical theme of man's brotherhood.

The combination of realistic scenery, actors, and a spell-bound audience, watching beneath a starlit sky, made it, the speaker felt, "a raising of mind and soul to God."

Gerhard Schneider Exhibits Sunday

A member of the Ulster County Artists Association, Gerhard Schneider of Rosendale, held a one-man show Sunday afternoon and evening from 2 to 7 p. m. in the Stone Ridge Grange Hall. During the afternoon four of Mr. Schneider's canvases were sold.

The artist's landscapes and still lifes, exclusively in oils, ranged from moderately sized 14 by 20 inch scenes to canvases three by four feet.

During the afternoon tea was served.

Port Ewen Fashion Show Packs Auditorium; Garden Stage Set Forms Perfect Backdrop

When the curtains parted a week ago at the fashion show sponsored by the Altar Society of the Port Ewen Methodist Church, the audience packing the Town of Esopus Auditorium were shown a setting reminiscent of a country garden, complete with white latticed trellis banked with white and purple lilacs, and a central arbor covered with dogwood. The program opened with a piano and solovox medley by Roger Baer, two solo selections by John McCullough, and two accordion solos by Miss Louise DePaolo. J. Wilson Tinney emceed, and Mrs. Helen Davenport, fetching in a bouffant gown of imported white organdy over taffetta, was commentator.

Youth took precedence over age as styles from Leon's Young Togs were modeled by Danny, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Potter; Diane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Potter; Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pridgen; and Mary Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Latz. All four children are of Port Ewen. Children's fashions stretched from a Hopalong Cassidy sweater and cotton gabardine "pistol packing jeans" to a Little Countess original melon colored spring coat.

Sports to Formals

The kiddies seniors, during their portion of the fashion parade, presented everything from sports wear through cocktail and formal clothes. Outstanding from the Junior Deb Shop was a navy taffeta duster over lilac tissue faille worn by Mrs. John Brinnier; from Regina's a brown and tan checked suit and coat that could double as a topper worn by Mrs. Ann Harrison; from the Towne Shoppe a plum colored washable cotton sunback in chambray with a unique pique collar modeled by Mrs. William Hulsair; from Helen Davenport a formal black taffetta shown by Miss Laura DeCicco, with a harem skirt, plain bodice and a Turkish blue metallic girdle shot with silver. A matching blue taffeta jacket could be used to convert the formal into a dinner dress. Many of the costumes shown were completed with attractively styled chapeaux from Teresa Rose Hats.

Intermission Solos

During the intermission solovox selections were played by Mr. Baer, Mr. McCullough sang, and Miss DePaolo gave two accordion solos.

Final presentation of the showing was a wedding scene from the Bride's Shoppe with Mrs. James P. Roosa as the bride in a gown of white organdy with an over-all pattern of velvarayed lilies-of-the-valley. Her cascade bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and gardenias was by the Kingston House of Flowers. The maid of honor and four bridesmaids were dressed in pastel organdy with a matching floral design.

Gardens Club Is Given Description Of Biblical Gardens

Mrs. Joseph W. Frankel, addressing the Friday meeting of the Little Gardens Club at Hurley's Nieuw Dorp, opened her remarks by explaining that in Asia Minor, the home of the Bible, the word garden is applied not only to flower plot, but also to orchards, parks and pleasure grounds.

In Biblical times, she continued, gardens were often fenced in by thorn hedges or stone walls, and were further protected by keepers, whose lodges and watch towers were on the premises. In the ancient gardens Hebrews planted all known varieties of vegetables, and buried their dead, a practice still followed in Palestine today.

The Bible is rich with references the speaker explained, to almond, ash, box, cedar, fir, pine, oak, sycamore, olive palm, poplar, and willow trees, as well as shrubs like the rose, thorn, rue, pomegranate, myrtle, and a multitude of others. Nor was ancient Asia Minor without its flowers. Ready reference can be found to the lily, rose, cockle, mallow, saffron, balm, sweet cane, cassia, cinnamon, frankincense and myrrh.

Palestine Productive

Palestine was known for its productiveness, Mrs. Frankel hastened to explain. It was also known for the quantity and quality of its vines, and to dwell beneath the vine and fig tree was regarded as an emblem of domestic happiness and peace. The Bible itself says, the speaker reminded members, that in the days of peace, when wars among men have ceased, "they shall sit every man under his own fig tree, and none shall make him afraid."

The fig tree in the scripture, she continued, stands for Israel, while the olive tree was most common of Palestine's fruit bearing trees.

Gardens Mentioned

Mrs. Frankel then enumerated many of the gardens which the Bible mentions; the Garden of Eden, the hanging gardens of Babylon, and from the New Testament the garden of Joseph of Arimathea in Gethsemane, and the garden of New Jerusalem.

"The Garden of Eden, mentioned in the opening chapter of Genesis, combined the features of all the gardens I have mentioned," Mrs. Frankel said. "Eden has come to signify the perfect."

She also mentioned the Kirag's garden in the lowest portion of Kedron where David and Saul lived.

Gethsemane

Turning to the New Testament, Mrs. Frankel told members how all four gospels describe Gethsemane as an enclosed piece of ground where olive trees grow. Literally translated Gethsemane means oil press, and it was there that Jesus and his disciples often went.

Harold Speakman, in his Hilltops of Galilee, she concluded, has described it as lying "across the valley of Kedron at the foot of the Mount of Olives. It is a simple garden, the work of men untrained in landscape gardening, who, with untiring hands, have made many small round flower beds among the cypresses and olive trees. A dusty little garden, only a few paces wide and long, with cyclamens and acacias, with a well in the center, an arbor about it."

Hostesses at the tea which followed were Mrs. H. Raymond Groves, and Mrs. J. Joseph Carroll. Mrs. Iven Freer poured.

Robinson Nuptials To Be Held June 2 In Woodstock Chapel

New York, May 21 (Special)—St. Joan of Arc Chapel in Woodstock will be the scene of the marriage June 2, of Miss Hannele Merrill Robinson, an editorial assistant, of Woodstock to David Bruce Lawrence, of 1302 18th street, N.W., Washington, D. C. The Rev. James Riordan will perform the ceremony.

VFW Poppy Sale To Open Thursday; Idea Began in '22

Back in that jazz age and flapper year, 1922, the idea was originated of selling poppies to the American public in support of a national welfare program sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Today, 29 years later, the idea is still going strong, with the annual '51 sale here scheduled for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week, according to Commander Raymond Myer of Joyce-Schirick Post No. 1386.

"The idea took root," Commander Myer stated recently, "when Madame Guerin of France, inspired by the symbolic beauty of the poppies of Flanders, sought the cooperation of the VFW in selling poppies made in France to aid disabled and needy war veterans. The symbolism of the 'Buddy Poppy' as sponsored by the VFW was promptly accepted by the American people."

A year after the idea's birth, in 1923, Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans Bureau, officially endorsed the idea. The VFW established a workshop in Pittsburgh, Pa., staffing it with disabled veterans, where men assembled the materials from which the flowers were made, and dubbed them Buddy Poppies. A year later the name was registered with the United States Patent Office as the VFW trademark guaranteeing that the bright red flowers are assembled by disabled and needy veterans. The trademark grants, moreover, the VFW exclusive use of the name, denying it to any other organization, firm, or individual.

Made by Vets

"After establishing the name" Commander Myer explained, "the VFW authorized its various departments to have disabled veterans make Buddy Poppies in nearby VA hospitals and soldiers' homes. This procedure is still followed to this day. It is operated under the strict supervision and accounting of the national headquarters.

"Funds raised from the annual sale of Buddy Poppies are used exclusively for veteran welfare programs. The scope and variety of these programs has drawn warm praise from Americans in all walks of life.

"Every year since 1922 the sale has received commendation from leaders in business, civic, religious, government, labor and other fields. Every president," he emphasized, "since Calvin Coolidge has endorsed the sale."

This year's sale, according to Commander Myer, is primarily concerned with raising funds for three major veteran welfare projects: Local veterans welfare work, which consumes approximately two-thirds of the proceeds collected in each community; maintenance of nation-wide veteran welfare and rehabilitation services; support for the VFW national home for deceased war veterans' orphans at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

This year the sale will be conducted by the local post's auxiliary under the chairmanship of Mrs. Sidney Lane, past auxiliary president.

Trull Re-Elected District Scout Head

Samuel Trull was re-elected to serve as district chairman to represent the district on the executive board of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, during the annual district meeting last night of Kingston District Scouters.

Others elected were David Mendel, vice-chairman, and Francis Bourke, district commissioner.

Mr. Trull appointed the following chairmen of the district operating committees: Organization and extension, Allen B. Tobias; finance, Lewis Short; advancement, Leonard Miller; leadership training, John Levy; health and safety, Dr. Robert Broad.

Following the business meeting the group met in roundtable discussions with Mr. Bourke leading the scoutmasters, Mr. Trull other scouters.

Final plans for participation in the Memorial Day parade were made, and the council camporee, to be held at the council camp, Tri-Mount, June 1-3, was discussed.

Good Taste Today

ONE WIDOW'S SOLUTION

A happy widow makes this suggestion: "Your letter recently to the elderly mother who is dividing her time between three married sons and feeling very sorry for herself because none of the daughters-in-law seemed to want her to enter into any of their housekeeping, moves me to write of my own experience. Your advice was that ideally the sons would club together and get their mother a little place—even if only one room—of her own. That is excellent if feasible, but it is more money than a majority of growing families can space. It is in my case. So I divide my time among them but go out baby-sitting, helping with parties and when new mothers come home from the hospital, etc. This enables me to be a moderate asset instead of a quite definite liability financially to my sons and takes me out of my daughters-in-law's way much of the time. They have helped to spread the word among their friends so that I never want for work. I wish you'd pass this along."

This I am doing, gladly!

Disposing of Unedible Bite

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the proper way to dispose of a piece of meat which can't be chewed and swallowed?

Answer: The only thing to do is to dry it as well as you can with pressure of your tongue against your closed teeth and then remove it from your mouth with your thumb underneath and four fingers pressed close together above (forming a screen over the piece of meat) and put it on your plate.

Walking on Street

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently you advised a girl when walking with a man to take his arm any time she needed his asssistance. This suggests that at other times they simply walk side by side. Is this correct.

Answer: Yes.

Black at Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: Please discuss these points: (1) Is black, a suit or dress, suitable on a member of the family? (2) Same kind of clothes on another wedding guest?

Answer: (1) Quite all right, especially if a touch of color is added somewhere. (2) Yes.

Gardens Club Is Given Description Of Biblical Gardens

Mrs. Joseph W. Frankel, addressing the Friday meeting of the Little Gardens Club at Hurley's Nieuw Dorp, opened her remarks by explaining that in Asia Minor, the home of the Bible, the word garden is applied not only to flower plot, but also to orchards, parks and pleasure grounds.

In Biblical times, she continued, gardens were often fenced in by thorn hedges or stone walls, and were further protected by keepers, whose lodges and watch towers were on the premises. In the ancient gardens Hebrews planted all known varieties of vegetables, and buried their dead, a practice still followed in Palestine today.

The Bible is rich with references the speaker explained, to almond, ash, box, cedar, fir, pine, oak, sycamore, olive palm, poplar, and willow trees, as well as shrubs like the rose, thorn, rue, pomegranate, myrtle, and a multitude of others. Nor was ancient Asia Minor without its flowers. Ready reference can be found to the lily, rose, cockle, mallow, saffron, balm, sweet cane, cassia, cinnamon, frankincense and myrrh.

Palestine Productive

Palestine was known for its productiveness, Mrs. Frankel hastened to explain. It was also known for the quantity and quality of its vines, and to dwell beneath the vine and fig tree was regarded as an emblem of domestic happiness and peace. The Bible itself says, the speaker reminded members, that in the days of peace, when wars among men have ceased, "they shall sit every man under his own fig tree, and none shall make him afraid."

The fig tree in the scripture, she continued, stands for Israel, while the olive tree was most common of Palestine's fruit bearing trees.

Gardens Mentioned

Mrs. Frankel then enumerated many of the gardens which the Bible mentions; the Garden of Eden, the hanging gardens of Babylon, and from the New Testament the garden of Joseph of Arimathea in Gethsemane, and the garden of New Jerusalem.

"The Garden of Eden, mentioned in the opening chapter of Genesis, combined the features of all the gardens I have mentioned," Mrs. Frankel said. "Eden has come to signify the perfect."

She also mentioned the Kirag's garden in the lowest portion of Kedron where David and Saul lived.

Gethsemane

Turning to the New Testament, Mrs. Frankel told members how all four gospels describe Gethsemane as an enclosed piece of ground where olive trees grow. Literally translated Gethsemane means oil press, and it was there that Jesus and his disciples often went.

Harold Speakman, in his Hilltops of Galilee, she concluded, has described it as lying "across the valley of Kedron at the foot of the Mount of Olives. It is a simple garden, the work of men untrained in landscape gardening, who, with untiring hands, have made many small round flower beds among the cypresses and olive trees. A dusty little garden, only a few paces wide and long, with cyclamens and acacias, with a well in the center, an arbor about it."

Hostesses at the tea which followed were Mrs. H. Raymond Groves, and Mrs. J. Joseph Carroll. Mrs. Iven Freer poured.

Robinson Nuptials To Be Held June 2 In Woodstock Chapel

New York, May 21 (Special)—St. Joan of Arc Chapel in Woodstock will be the scene of the marriage June 2, of Miss Hannele Merrill Robinson, an editorial assistant, of Woodstock to David Bruce Lawrence, of 1302 18th street, N.W., Washington, D. C. The Rev. James Riordan will perform the ceremony.

VFW Poppy Sale To Open Thursday; Idea Began in '22

Back in that jazz age and flapper year, 1922, the idea was originated of selling poppies to the American public in support of a national welfare program sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Today, 29 years later, the idea is still going strong, with the annual '51 sale here scheduled for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week, a cording to Commander Raymond Myer of Joyce-Schirick Post No. 1386.

"The idea took root," Commander Myer stated recently, "when Madame Guerin of France, inspired by the symbolic beauty of the poppies of Flanders, sought the cooperation of the VFW in selling poppies made in France to aid disabled and needy war veterans. The symbolism of the 'Buddy Poppy' as sponsored by the VFW was promptly accepted by the American people."

A year after the idea's birth, in 1923, Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans Bureau, officially endorsed the idea. The VFW established a workshop in Pittsburgh, Pa., staffing it with disabled veterans, where men assembled the materials from which the flowers were made, and dubbed them Buddy Poppies. A year later the name was registered with the United States Patent Office as the VFW trademark guaranteeing that the bright red flowers are assembled by disabled and needy veterans. The trademark grants, moreover, the VFW exclusive use of the name, denying it to any other organization, firm, or individual.

Made by Vets

"After establishing the name" Commander Myer explained, "the VFW authorized its various departments to have disabled veterans make Buddy Poppies in nearby VA hospitals and soldiers' homes. This procedure is still followed to this day. It is operated under the strict supervision and accounting of the national headquarters.

"Funds raised from the annual sale of Buddy Poppies are used exclusively for veteran welfare programs. The scope and variety of these programs has drawn warm praise from Americans in all walks of life.

"Every year since 1922 the sale has received commendation from leaders in business, civic, religious, government, labor and other fields. Every president," he emphasized, "since Calvin Coolidge has endorsed the sale."

This year's sale, according to Commander Myer, is primarily concerned with raising funds for three major veteran welfare projects: Local veterans welfare work, which consumes approximately two-thirds of the proceeds collected in each community; maintenance of nation-wide veteran welfare and rehabilitation services; support for the VFW national home for deceased war veterans' orphans at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

This year the sale will be conducted by the local post's auxiliary under the chairmanship of Mrs. Sidney Lane, past auxiliary president.

Trull Re-Elected District Scout Head

Samuel Trull was re-elected to serve as district chairman to represent the district on the executive board of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, during the annual district meeting last night of Kingston District Scouters.

Others elected were David Mendel, vice-chairman, and Francis Bourke, district commissioner.

Mr. Trull appointed the following chairmen of the district operating committees: Organization and extension, Allen B. Tobias; finance, Lewis Short; advancement, Leonard Miller; leadership training, John Levy; health and safety, Dr. Robert Broad.

Following the business meeting the group met in roundtable discussions with Mr. Bourke leading the scoutmasters, Mr. Trull other scouters.

Final plans for participation in the Memorial Day parade were made, and the council camporee, to be held at the council camp, Tri-Mount, June 1-3, was discussed.

Good Taste Today

ONE WIDOW'S SOLUTION

A happy widow makes this suggestion: "Your letter recently to the elderly mother who is dividing her time between three married sons and feeling very sorry for herself because none of the daughters-in-law seemed to want her to enter into any of their housekeeping, moves me to write of my own experience. Your advice was that ideally the sons would club together and get their mother a little place—even if only one room—of her own. That is excellent if feasible, but it is more money than a majority of growing families can space. It is in my case. So I divide my time among them but go out baby-sitting, helping with parties and when new mothers come home from the hospital, etc. This enables me to be a moderate asset instead of a quite definite liability financially to my sons and takes me out of my daughters-in-law's way much of the time. They have helped to spread the word among their friends so that I never want for work. I wish you'd pass this along."

This I am doing, gladly!

Disposing of Unedible Bite

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the proper way to dispose of a piece of meat which can't be chewed and swallowed?

Answer: The only thing to do is to dry it as well as you can with pressure of your tongue against your closed teeth and then remove it from your mouth with your thumb underneath and four fingers pressed close together above (forming a screen over the piece of meat) and put it on your plate.

Walking on Street

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently you advised a girl when walking with a man to take his arm any time she needed his asssistance. This suggests that at other times they simply walk side by side. Is this correct.

Answer: Yes.

Black at Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: Please discuss these points: (1) Is black, a suit or dress, suitable on a member of the family? (2) Same kind of clothes on another wedding guest?

Answer: (1) Quite all right, especially if a touch of color is added somewhere. (2) Yes.

Gardens Club Is Given Description Of Biblical Gardens

Mrs. Joseph W. Frankel, addressing the Friday meeting of the Little Gardens Club at Hurley's Nieuw Dorp, opened her remarks by explaining that in Asia Minor, the home of the Bible, the word garden is applied not only to flower plot, but also to orchards, parks and pleasure grounds.

VFW Poppy Sale To Open Thursday; Idea Began in '22

Back in that jazz age and flapper year, 1922, the idea was originated of selling poppies to the American public in support of a national welfare program sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Today, 29 years later, the idea is still going strong, with the annual '51 sale here scheduled for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week, a cording to Commander Raymond Myer of Joyce-Schirick Post No. 1386.

"The idea took root," Commander Myer stated recently, "when Madame Guerin of France, inspired by the symbolic beauty of the poppies of Flanders, sought the cooperation of the VFW in selling poppies made in France to aid disabled and needy war veterans. The symbolism of the 'Buddy Poppy' as sponsored by the VFW was promptly accepted by the American people."

A year after the idea's birth, in 1923, Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans Bureau, officially endorsed the idea. The VFW established a workshop in Pittsburgh, Pa., staffing it with disabled veterans, where men assembled the materials from which the flowers were made, and dubbed them Buddy Poppies. A year later the name was registered with the United States Patent Office as the VFW trademark guaranteeing that the bright red flowers are assembled by disabled and needy veterans. The trademark grants, moreover, the VFW exclusive use of the name, denying it to any other organization, firm, or individual.

Made by Vets

"After establishing the name" Commander Myer explained, "the VFW authorized its various departments to have disabled veterans make Buddy Poppies in nearby VA hospitals and soldiers' homes. This procedure is still followed to this day. It is operated under the strict supervision and accounting of the national headquarters.

"Funds raised from the annual sale of Buddy Poppies are used exclusively for veteran welfare programs. The scope and variety of these programs has drawn warm praise from Americans in all walks of life.

"Every year since 1922 the sale has received commendation from leaders in business, civic, religious, government, labor and other fields. Every president," he emphasized, "since Calvin Coolidge has endorsed the sale."

This year's sale, according to Commander Myer, is primarily concerned with raising funds for three major veteran welfare projects: Local veterans welfare work, which consumes approximately two-thirds of the proceeds collected in each community; maintenance of nation-wide veteran welfare and rehabilitation services; support for the VFW national home for deceased war veterans' orphans at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

This year the sale will be conducted by the local post's auxiliary under the chairmanship of Mrs. Sidney Lane, past auxiliary president.

Trull Re-Elected District Scout Head

Samuel Trull was re-elected to serve as district chairman to represent the district on the executive board of Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, during the annual district meeting last night of Kingston District Scouters.

Others elected were David Mendel, vice-chairman, and Francis Bourke, district commissioner.

Mr. Trull appointed the following chairmen of the district operating committees: Organization and extension, Allen B. Tobias; finance, Lewis Short; advancement, Leonard Miller; leadership training, John Levy; health and safety, Dr. Robert Broad.

Following the business meeting the group met in roundtable discussions with Mr. Bourke leading the scoutmasters, Mr. Trull other scouters.

Final plans for participation in the Memorial Day parade were made, and the council camporee, to be held at the council camp, Tri-Mount, June 1-3, was discussed.

ONE WIDOW'S SOLUTION

A happy widow makes this suggestion: "Your letter recently to the elderly mother who is dividing her time between three married sons and feeling very sorry for herself because none of the daughters-in-law seemed to want her to enter into any of their housekeeping, moves me to write of my own experience. Your advice was that ideally the sons would club together and get their mother a little place—even if only one room—of her own. That is excellent if feasible, but it is more money than a majority of growing families can space. It is in my case. So I divide my time among them but go out baby-sitting, helping with parties and when new mothers come home from the hospital, etc. This enables me to be a moderate asset instead of a quite definite liability financially to my sons and takes me out of my daughters-in-law's way much of the time. They have helped to spread the word among their friends so that I never want for work. I wish you'd pass this along."

This I am doing, gladly!

Disposing of Unedible Bite

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the proper way to dispose of a piece of meat which can't be chewed and swallowed?

Answer: The only thing to do is to dry it as well as you can with pressure of your tongue against your closed teeth and then remove it from your mouth with your thumb underneath and four fingers pressed close together above (forming a screen over the piece of meat) and put it on your plate.

Walking on Street

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently you advised a girl when walking with a man to take his arm any time she needed his asssistance. This suggests that at other times they simply walk side by side. Is this correct.

Answer: Yes.

Black at Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: Please discuss these points: (1) Is black, a suit or dress, suitable on a member of the family? (2) Same kind of clothes on another wedding guest?

Answer: (1) Quite all right, especially if a touch of color is added somewhere. (2) Yes.

Are you planning a small wedding at moderate cost? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-8, "Today's Typical Weddings," gives details for small weddings. Rome Colonels Defeat Colonials 7-5, In Twelve-Inning Thriller

Current Series Ends Tonight

It gets mighty lonesome in that municipal stadium press-box. That is, right after the Colonials have just dropped their fourteenth straight Can-Am League game, 7 to 5, in a harrowing 12-inning thriller against Buck Etchinson's Rome Colonels.

There is an eerie silence about the place.

The only noise you can hear is Chuck Davis rumbling among the equipment in the locker rooms and slamming doors to make sure they are secure for the night.

The stadium lights were dimmed more than an hour ago and the 308 paid fans and both clubs have long since shuffled out of the stadium.

What's Wrong (???)

An A.P. desk man in Albany takes the usual linescore in silence and then blurts:

"Say, what's the matter with that ball club down there?"

"I wish we knew," the writer replied. "They just dropped their 14th straight and third in a row by one run and the second straight in extra innings.

"Must be tough for you writing about that team."

"Yep," was the reply. "Every time we sit down at the typewriter we feel like a youngster who has had a dose of castor oil thrust upon him, but forcibly.

Utica Man, Too

The sports desk in Utica listens to that monotonous chant of a boxscore going over the telephone. Then the silence is broken.

"What's wrong with that team down there?" (This guy, too, we say to ourselves).

"Everything I guess, but it's improving. They've just lost three tough ones in a row.

"Who's the manager of the club?

"Hank Camelli. You remember him the old Pittsburgh Pirate and Boston Braves catcher."

"You recall him, don't you?"

"Sure, sure," said the man in Utica.

"Let me qualify that," we hastened to add. "He WAS manager as of 11:16 p. m. I have no further information since then (it is now about 12 midnight) but a close check is being kept on all bridges."

And Now, Rome

A few seconds later the long distance operator says Rome, is on the line.

A sharp-witted disc jockey wants "the line," you know, runs, hits and errors. The guy got awfully scared when it ran into 12 innings.

"Don't tell me you beat us?" he inquired with some apprehension before we go to the Kingston line.

"No such luck," we countered, "but we sure scared hell out of you."

End of conversations. It is now 12:15 a. m.

You stumble out of the press-box, making sure that you lock the door. Otherwise, Chuck Davis will be on your neck the next evening. And Mr. Davis can get awfully stirred up now and then.

The ball game, thanks to a brilliant 4 2/3 inning relief stint by Jack Ormiston was a 4-4 tie at the end of nine innings. Starter Frank Seeley went out during a two-run Rome cluster in the fourth.

Blow Big Chance

For one of the few times during the season Manager Camelli's tossers became opportunists in the fourth. Three Rome miscues, a trio of singles by Walt Bremer, Joe Davidson and Carl Harris netted four runs Harris foiled Manager Buck Etchison's strategy by blasting a bases-loaded single to center to drive in the tying markers after Jack Allen was given an intentional pass to load the sacks.

It's a 5-5 tie at the end of 10. And then came the Colonials' best chance of the night. Dick Healey led off with a walk. Bremer popped to the catcher attempting to bunt, but Lou Kramberg singled to short right center, sending Healey to third. It was Lou's third hit in four official trips.

Big Joe Davidson had the chance of a lifetime to become a local hero. But, first-pitch hitting, he popped to Etchison at first. Then Luigi Negro, the new right fielder, fanned for the third out.

Etchison, who dotes on Kingston hurling, opened Rome's 12th with a triple to right center. Juliano was safe when Joe Kern's throw pulled Davidson off first, Etchison holding third. Molokie bounced to Kern, who nailed Etchison at the plate. Big Bob Wenning, the third and losing Kingston hurler, had a 1 and 2 count on Ronnie Esrang, Rome second sacker, when the latter drilled a single to center scoring Juliano and Molokie. That was it, 7 to 5.

Jack Allen gave Colonial fans a flicker of hope in the Kingston 12th by drawing a walk to start the frame. Harris bounced into a double play and pinch hitter Tony Gomez grounded out to end the game.

Tonight is another night. Give-a-Way Night with six valuable prizes. But let's make it a take-home night. Just one little victory for Kingston. How about it, you Colonials?

NEWCOMERS TO THE COLONIAL ROSTER

Pitching and batting power has been added to the Kingston Colonial roster in the last few days, even if it doesn't show up in the league standings. The changes have strengthened the club for the better. Among the newcomers are: Left to right, Walt Bremer, outfielder on option from Albany; Joe Davidson, first baseman purchased from Gloversville; Vince Canepa, pitcher; and Dick Connors, southpaw hurler optioned by the Albany club. The Scoreboard

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The comeback of Vernal (Nippy) Jones has injected new life into the St. Louis Cardinals.

The rise in the fortunes of the Cards dates from Jones' return to the varsity on May 15.

Jones, whose career appeared ended two years ago when he was floored with a spinal injury, looked great in the spring but big Steve Bilko was awarded the first base job. Jones was shunted to the Cards' Rochester farm in the International League.

Despite the demotion Jones didn't sulk. He banged the ball hard and often for the Wings. Bilko didn't live up to expectations and Jones was called back to the flu-ridden Cards who had lost seven out of eight starts.

The Nipper brought his blazing bat with him and since his return the Cards have won five out of seven starts and moved back into contention in the ding dong pennant race. Jones' lusty swinging directly accounted for two of the Cards' triumphs.

Jones has hit safely in seven straight games. He is flailing away at a .407 clip with 11 hits in 27 swings. Jones has driven in 10 runs and also has sparkled afield.

Beat Brooks

Jones went to town Saturday, driving in five runs in the Cards' 6-4 triumph over Brooklyn. Yesterday he drove in three runs to lead the Red Birds to a 5-2 victory over the New York Giants in the National League's only scheduled game. The victory moved the third place Cards to within a game and a half of the pace-setting Brooklyn.

Meanwhile, the New York Yankees protected their two game edge over the Chicago White Sox in the American League race. The Yanks defeated the St. Louis Browns, 2-0 while the White Sox downed the Washington Senators, 5-3. The Boston Red Sox outlasted the Detroit Tigers, 9-7, in the only other game.

Jones' clutch hitting broke up a pitcher's duel between Gerry Staley and the Giants' Larry Jansen. Jones doubled with two out and the bases loaded in the fifth inning to drive in three runs and break a 2-2 tie.

7th Win for Raschi

Big Vic Raschi turned in his seventh victory against one loss in blanking the Browns under the lights at Yankee Stadium. Raschi and lefty Ed Lopat have accounted for 14 of the Yanks' 21 victories.

Little Stubby Overmire who pitched for the Browns deserved a better fate. The Yanks broke a scoreless tie with two out in the sixth on a scratch hit by Hank Bauer and singles by Joe DiMaggio and Yogi Berra.

Joe Dobson, Billy Pierce and Harry Dorish held the Senators to four hits as the White Sox extended their winning streak to five games in a night game at Washington.

Dobson allowed only one hit in five innings but weakened in the sixth when he walked two and served a home run ball to Gil Coan.

The Sox, with the aid of shoddy fielding, nicked Julio Moreno for four runs in the first three innings. Ed Robinson drove in two runs with a fly ball and triple.

Ted Williams snapped out of a batting slump pounding out a single, double and homer to help the Red Sox edge the Tigers. The Sox scored seven runs in the third inning but Williams' two-run homer in the seventh proved to be the deciding factor.

Willard Nixon, who climaxed the Sox's big third with a two-run single, gained credit for his second victory without a defeat. Dizzy Trout was the loser.

Providence, R. I. — Jackie Lovatt, 152¾, Providence, outpointed Ralph Zanelli, 155½, Providence (12).

Middies Rap Maroon In DUSO Baseball, 8-4

Cosgrove Hurls Three-Hitter

Kingston High School's baseball team continued to find the going rough in the DUSO League yesterday, dropping an 8 to 4 decision to Marty Cosgrove and the Middletown High nine at the Middie City.

The Middies pounded starter Jerry Bechtold hard in the first two innings when they ran up a 6-1 lead. Joe Turck held the home club in check until the sixth when they counted two more runs.

Cosgrove, who twirled a one-hitter against Kingston the first time he faced them, yielded only three yesterday. He walked seven and struck out 11.

The Maroons scored three times in the fourth on three walks and singles by Turck and Baumer.

Cosgrove pounded a homer for the Middies, while Gene Currier stroked two singles.

Only One Wanted

Lausanne, Switzerland, May 22 (AP)—Olympic officials met with representatives of both East and West Germany today to talk about entering one team in the 1952 games at Helsinki. Avery Brundage of the United States was chairman of the meeting. Otto Mayer, chancelior of the International Olympic Committee, said the outlook for setting up one committee to represent both sections of the country didn't look so bright. But the two groups did agree on one point—and that is, that Germany should have one team in the games.

Rome Colonels Defeat Colonials 7-5, In Twelve-Inning Thriller

Current Series Ends Tonight

It gets mighty lonesome in that municipal stadium pressbox. That is, right after the Colonials have just dropped their fourteenth straight Can-Am League game, 7 to 5, in a harrowing 12-inning thriller against Buck Etchinson's Rome Colonels.

There is an eerie silence about the place.

The only noise you can hear is Chuck Davis rumbling among the equipment in the locker rooms and slamming doors to make sure they are secure for the night.

The stadium lights were dimmed more than an hour ago and the 308 paid fans and both clubs have long since shuffled out of the stadium.

What's Wrong (???)

An A.P. desk man in Albany takes the usual linescore in silence and then blurts:

"Say, what's the matter with that ball club down there?"

"I wish we knew," the writer replied. "They just dropped their 14th straight and third in a row by one run and the second straight in extra innings.

"Must be tough for you writing about that team."

"Yep," was the reply. "Every time we sit down at the typewriter we feel like a youngster who has had a dose of castor oil thrust upon him, but forcibly.

Utica Man, Too

The sports desk in Utica listens to that monotonous chant of a boxscore going over the telephone. Then the silence is broken.

"What's wrong with that team down there?" (This guy, too, we say to ourselves).

"Everything I guess, but it's improving. They've just lost three tough ones in a row.

"Who's the manager of the club?

"Hank Camelli. You remember him the old Pittsburgh Pirate and Boston Braves catcher."

"You recall him, don't you?"

"Sure, sure," said the man in Utica.

"Let me qualify that," we hastened to add. "He WAS manager as of 11:16 p. m. I have no further information since then (it is now about 12 midnight) but a close check is being kept on all bridges."

And Now, Rome

A few seconds later the long distance operator says Rome, is on the line.

A sharp-witted disc jockey wants "the line," you know, runs, hits and errors. The guy got awfully scared when it ran into 12 innings.

"Don't tell me you beat us?" he inquired with some apprehension before we go to the Kingston line.

"No such luck," we countered, "but we sure scared hell out of you."

End of conversations. It is now 12:15 a. m.

You stumble out of the pressbox, making sure that you lock the door. Otherwise, Chuck Davis will be on your neck the next evening. And Mr. Davis can get awfully stirred up now and then.

The ball game, thanks to a brilliant 4 2/3 inning relief stint by Jack Ormiston was a 4-4 tie at the end of nine innings. Starter Frank Seeley went out during a two-run Rome cluster in the fourth.

Blow Big Chance

For one of the few times during the season Manager Camelli's tossers became opportunists in the fourth. Three Rome miscues, a trio of singles by Walt Bremer, Joe Davidson and Carl Harris netted four runs Harris foiled Manager Buck Etchison's strategy by blasting a bases-loaded single to center to drive in the tying markers after Jack Allen was given an intentional pass to load the sacks.

It's a 5-5 tie at the end of 10. And then came the Colonials' best chance of the night. Dick Healey led off with a walk. Bremer popped to the catcher attempting to bunt, but Lou Kramberg singled to short right center, sending Healey to third. It was Lou's third hit in four official trips.

Big Joe Davidson had the chance of a lifetime to become a local hero. But, first-pitch hitting, he popped to Etchison at first. Then Luigi Negro, the new right fielder, fanned for the third out.

Etchison, who dotes on Kingston hurling, opened Rome's 12th with a triple to right center. Juliano was safe when Joe Kern's throw pulled Davidson off first, Etchison holding third. Molokie bounced to Kern, who nailed Etchison at the plate. Big Bob Wenning, the third and losing Kingston hurler, had a 1 and 2 count on Ronnie Esrang, Rome second sacker, when the latter drilled a single to center scoring Juliano and Molokie. That was it, 7 to 5.

Jack Allen gave Colonial fans a flicker of hope in the Kingston 12th by drawing a walk to start the frame. Harris bounced into a double play and pinch hitter Tony Gomez grounded out to end the game.

Tonight is another night. Give-a-Way Night with six valuable prizes. But let's make it a take-home night. Just one little victory for Kingston. How about it, you Colonials?

NEWCOMERS TO THE COLONIAL ROSTER

Pitching and batting power has been added to the Kingston Colonial roster in the last few days, even if it doesn't show up in the league standings. The changes have strengthened the club for the better. Among the newcomers are: Left to right, Walt Bremer, outfielder on option from Albany; Joe Davidson, first baseman purchased from Gloversville; Vince Canepa, pitcher; and Dick Connors, southpaw hurler optioned by the Albany club. The Scoreboard

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The comeback of Vernal (Nippy) Jones has injected new life into the St. Louis Cardinals.

The rise in the fortunes of the Cards dates from Jones' return to the varsity on May 15.

Jones, whose career appeared ended two years ago when he was floored with a spinal injury, looked great in the spring but big Steve Bilko was awarded the first base job. Jones was shunted to the Cards' Rochester farm in the International League.

Despite the demotion Jones didn't sulk. He banged the ball hard and often for the Wings. Bilko didn't live up to expectations and Jones was called back to the flu-ridden Cards who had lost seven out of eight starts.

The Nipper brought his blazing bat with him and since his return the Cards have won five out of seven starts and moved back into contention in the ding dong pennant race. Jones' lusty swinging directly accounted for two of the Cards' triumphs.

Jones has hit safely in seven straight games. He is flailing away at a .407 clip with 11 hits in 27 swings. Jones has driven in 10 runs and also has sparkled afield.

Beat Brooks

Jones went to town Saturday, driving in five runs in the Cards' 6-4 triumph over Brooklyn. Yesterday he drove in three runs to lead the Red Birds to a 5-2 victory over the New York Giants in the National League's only scheduled game. The victory moved the third place Cards to within a game and a half of the pace-setting Brooklyn.

Meanwhile, the New York Yankees protected their two game edge over the Chicago White Sox in the American League race. The Yanks defeated the St. Louis Browns, 2-0 while the White Sox downed the Washington Senators, 5-3. The Boston Red Sox outlasted the Detroit Tigers, 9-7, in the only other game.

Jones' clutch hitting broke up a pitcher's duel between Gerry Staley and the Giants' Larry Jansen. Jones doubled with two out and the bases loaded in the fifth inning to drive in three runs and break a 2-2 tie.

7th Win for Raschi

Big Vic Raschi turned in his seventh victory against one loss in blanking the Browns under the lights at Yankee Stadium. Raschi and lefty Ed Lopat have accounted for 14 of the Yanks' 21 victories.

Little Stubby Overmire who pitched for the Browns deserved a better fate. The Yanks broke a scoreless tie with two out in the sixth on a scratch hit by Hank Bauer and singles by Joe DiMaggio and Yogi Berra.

Joe Dobson, Billy Pierce and Harry Dorish held the Senators to four hits as the White Sox extended their winning streak to five games in a night game at Washington.

Dobson allowed only one hit in five innings but weakened in the sixth when he walked two and served a home run ball to Gil Coan.

The Sox, with the aid of shoddy fielding, nicked Julio Moreno for four runs in the first three innings. Ed Robinson drove in two runs with a fly ball and triple.

Ted Williams snapped out of a batting slump pounding out a single, double and homer to help the Red Sox edge the Tigers. The Sox scored seven runs in the third inning but Williams' two-run homer in the seventh proved to be the deciding factor.

Willard Nixon, who climaxed the Sox's big third with a two-run single, gained credit for his second victory without a defeat. Dizzy Trout was the loser.

Providence, R. I. — Jackie Lovatt, 152¾, Providence, outpointed Ralph Zanelli, 155½, Providence (12).

Cosgrove Hurls Three-Hitter

Kingston High School's baseball team continued to find the going rough in the DUSO League yesterday, dropping an 8 to 4 decision to Marty Cosgrove and the Middletown High nine at the Middie City.

The Middies pounded starter Jerry Bechtold hard in the first two innings when they ran up a 6-1 lead. Joe Turck held the home club in check until the sixth when they counted two more runs.

Cosgrove, who twirled a one-hitter against Kingston the first time he faced them, yielded only three yesterday. He walked seven and struck out 11.

The Maroons scored three times in the fourth on three walks and singles by Turck and Baumer.

Cosgrove pounded a homer for the Middies, while Gene Currier stroked two singles.

Batting, Nippy Jones, Cardinals—drove in three runs with fifth inning double to lead St. Louis to a 5-2 triumph over New York.

Only One Wanted

Lausanne, Switzerland, May 22 (AP)—Olympic officials met with representatives of both East and West Germany today to talk about entering one team in the 1952 games at Helsinki. Avery Brundage of the United States was chairman of the meeting. Otto Mayer, chancellor of the International Olympic Committee, said the outlook for setting up one committee to represent both sections of the country didn't look so bright. But the two groups did agree on one point—and that is, that Germany should have one team in the games.

A sharp-witted disc jockey wants "the line," you know, runs, hits and errors. The guy got awfully scared when it ran into 12 innings.

"Don't tell me you beat us?" he inquired with some apprehension before we go to the Kingston line.

"No such luck," we countered, "but we sure scared hell out of you."

End of conversations. It is now 12:15 a. m.

You stumble out of the press-box, making sure that you lock the door. Otherwise, Chuck Davis will be on your neck the next evening. And Mr. Davis can get awfully stirred up now and then.

The ball game, thanks to a brilliant 4 2/3 inning relief stint by Jack Ormiston was a 4-4 tie at the end of nine innings. Starter Frank Seeley went out during a two-run Rome cluster in the fourth.

Blow Big Chance

For one of the few times during the season Manager Camelli's tossers became opportunists in the fourth. Three Rome miscues, a trio of singles by Walt Bremer, Joe Davidson and Carl Harris netted four runs Harris foiled Manager Buck Etchison's strategy by blasting a bases-loaded single to center to drive in the tying markers after Jack Allen was given an intentional pass to load the sacks.

It's a 5-5 tie at the end of 10. And then came the Colonials' best chance of the night. Dick Healey led off with a walk. Bremer popped to the catcher attempting to bunt, but Lou Kramberg singled to short right center, sending Healey to third. It was Lou's third hit in four official trips.

Big Joe Davidson had the chance of a lifetime to become a local hero. But, first-pitch hitting, he popped to Etchison at first. Then Luigi Negro, the new right fielder, fanned for the third out.

Etchison, who dotes on Kingston hurling, opened Rome's 12th with a triple to right center. Juliano was safe when Joe Kern's throw pulled Davidson off first, Etchison holding third. Molokie bounced to Kern, who nailed Etchison at the plate. Big Bob Wenning, the third and losing Kingston hurler, had a 1 and 2 count on Ronnie Esrang, Rome second sacker, when the latter drilled a single to center scoring Juliano and Molokie. That was it, 7 to 5.

Jack Allen gave Colonial fans a flicker of hope in the Kingston 12th by drawing a walk to start the frame. Harris bounced into a double play and pinch hitter Tony Gomez grounded out to end the game.

Tonight is another night. Give-a-Way Night with six valuable prizes. But let's make it a take-home night. Just one little victory for Kingston. How about it, you Colonials?

NEWCOMERS TO THE COLONIAL ROSTER

Pitching and batting power has been added to the Kingston Colonial roster in the last few days, even if it doesn't show up in the league standings. The changes have strengthened the club for the better. Among the newcomers are: Left to right, Walt Bremer, outfielder on option from Albany; Joe Davidson, first baseman purchased from Gloversville; Vince Canepa, pitcher; and Dick Connors, southpaw hurler optioned by the Albany club. RHE SCOREBOARD

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The comeback of Vernal (Nippy) Jones has injected new life into the St. Louis Cardinals.

The rise in the fortunes of the Cards dates from Jones' return to the varsity on May 15.

Jones, whose career appeared ended two years ago when he was floored with a spinal injury, looked great in the spring but big Steve Bilko was awarded the first base job. Jones was shunted to the Cards' Rochester farm in the International League.

Despite the demotion Jones didn't sulk. He banged the ball hard and often for the Wings. Bilko didn't live up to expectations and Jones was called back to the flu-ridden Cards who had lost seven out of eight starts.

The Nipper brought his blazing bat with him and since his return the Cards have won five out of seven starts and moved back into contention in the ding dong pennant race. Jones' lusty swinging directly accounted for two of the Cards' triumphs.

Jones has hit safely in seven straight games. He is flailing away at a .407 clip with 11 hits in 27 swings. Jones has driven in 10 runs and also has sparkled afield.

Beat Brooks

Jones went to town Saturday, driving in five runs in the Cards' 6-4 triumph over Brooklyn. Yesterday he drove in three runs to lead the Red Birds to a 5-2 victory over the New York Giants in the National League's only scheduled game. The victory moved the third place Cards to within a game and a half of the pace-setting Brooklyn.

Meanwhile, the New York Yankees protected their two game edge over the Chicago White Sox in the American League race. The Yanks defeated the St. Louis Browns, 2-0 while the White Sox downed the Washington Senators, 5-3. The Boston Red Sox outlasted the Detroit Tigers, 9-7, in the only other game.

Jones' clutch hitting broke up a pitcher's duel between Gerry Staley and the Giants' Larry Jansen. Jones doubled with two out and the bases loaded in the fifth inning to drive in three runs and break a 2-2 tie.

7th Win for Raschi

Big Vic Raschi turned in his seventh victory against one loss in blanking the Browns under the lights at Yankee Stadium. Raschi and lefty Ed Lopat have accounted for 14 of the Yanks' 21 victories.

Little Stubby Overmire who pitched for the Browns deserved a better fate. The Yanks broke a scoreless tie with two out in the sixth on a scratch hit by Hank Bauer and singles by Joe DiMaggio and Yogi Berra.

Joe Dobson, Billy Pierce and Harry Dorish held the Senators to four hits as the White Sox extended their winning streak to five games in a night game at Washington.

Dobson allowed only one hit in five innings but weakened in the sixth when he walked two and served a home run ball to Gil Coan.

The Sox, with the aid of shoddy fielding, nicked Julio Moreno for four runs in the first three innings. Ed Robinson drove in two runs with a fly ball and triple.

Ted Williams snapped out of a batting slump pounding out a single, double and homer to help the Red Sox edge the Tigers. The Sox scored seven runs in the third inning but Williams' two-run homer in the seventh proved to be the deciding factor.

Willard Nixon, who climaxed the Sox's big third with a two-run single, gained credit for his second victory without a defeat. Dizzy Trout was the loser.

Providence, R. I. — Jackie Lovatt, 152¾, Providence, outpointed Ralph Zanelli, 155½, Providence (12).

Cosgrove Hurls Three-Hitter

Kingston High School's baseball team continued to find the going rough in the DUSO League yesterday, dropping an 8 to 4 decision to Marty Cosgrove and the Middletown High nine at the Middie City.

The Middies pounded starter Jerry Bechtold hard in the first two innings when they ran up a 6-1 lead. Joe Turck held the home club in check until the sixth when they counted two more runs.

Cosgrove, who twirled a one-hitter against Kingston the first time he faced them, yielded only three yesterday. He walked seven and struck out 11.

The Maroons scored three times in the fourth on three walks and singles by Turck and Baumer.

Cosgrove pounded a homer for the Middies, while Gene Currier stroked two singles.

Lausanne, Switzerland, May 22 (AP)—Olympic officials met with representatives of both East and West Germany today to talk about entering one team in the 1952 games at Helsinki. Avery Brundage of the United States was chairman of the meeting. Otto Mayer, chancelior of the International Olympic Committee, said the outlook for setting up one committee to represent both sections of the country didn't look so bright. But the two groups did agree on one point—and that is, that Germany should have one team in the games.

Al Searfoss' Relief Pitching Saves Chez Emile's 4-3 Victory

Turns Back Merchants With Bases Loaded

A neat stint of relief pitching by Al Searfoss choked off a Morgan Merchant threat and enabled Chez Emile to bag its third victory in four City League starts, 4 to 3, yesterday at the Athletic Field.

Manager Joe Hoffman pulled a grandiose bit of strategy when he yanked starter Ernie McCormick, who had a three-ball, no-strike count on Bill Ball.

Vince Clearwater's walk and a double by Eric Goercke had preceded McCormick's three errant pitches to Ball. Searfoss completed the maximum four-ball count on Ball to load the sacks with no out and Chez Emile in front, 4 to 2.

Searfoss got the first out by fanning Klosterman, a pinch hitter for Slover. Stoll flied to short center, the runners holding, for the second out. He couldn't handle Hokie Tomson, the Morgan flinger, who walked, forcing in Clearwater, but he did fan Post to end the game.

It was a well pitched game with Hokie Tomson yielding five hits, while McCormick gave up the four Morgan blows. The Merchants were up to their old habit of leaving runners stranded. This time it was 10, boosting their seasonal total to 32 in three games. Meanwhile, they have accounted for only eight runs.

McCormick Falters

McCormick, who wasn't as sharp as usual, yielded singles to Mickey Provenzano, Charlie Lay and three walks to set up two Morgan runs in the first. He then throttled the losers in the pinches until the fifth when Searfoss came on for the save.

Chez Emile picked up two in the first to tie the score at 2-2. Glazer walked, Barnes fanned, Scheffel reached first on Davis' error and Lindhurst singled Glazer home. On an attempted double steal, Scheffel was nailed at the plate but Bud Swarthout followed with a one-baser to score Lindhurst.

Glaser's single behind a pair of walks to Sickler and McCormick and Benjamin's sacrifice made it 3-2 in the second. The Chezzies closed out their scoring in the third when Lindhurst walked with one out, stole second and rode home on Bud Swarthout's second run-producing single of the contest.

Messinger's Memos: The crowd was about 150. Bud Swarthout continued his great clutch playing for the Chezzies. Sonny Barnes made a fine catch of Stoll's foul pop in the fourth, reaching over the fence to spear it one-handed. Billy Ball is on a string of free trips to first base. To date he has walked six times and was hit once in eight at bat. Searfoss flashed speed and a nice breaking hook in his relief role. Mickey Provenzano, home on furlough, played a good game for Morgan's. He started out as a catcher, then took over second base like he owned it.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

First place in the Canadian-American League will be at stake tonight when Pittsfield tries to displace visiting Amsterdam.

Pittsfield cut the Amsterdam lead to a half game last night with a 3-2 victory. The Electrics pushed over the winning run in the last of the ninth. Dick Zack walked, and moved to second on Jack Fitzgibbons's sacrifice. Jack Moore was passed intentionally and pitcher Al Leech got an infield single to load the bases. Slugger Jack Seltenreich then slapped a single to center to score the deciding marker.

Tonight's game will be the sixth between the clubs. So far, Amsterdam has won three and Pittsfield, two

Kingston absorbed its 14th straight defeat, when the visiting Rome Colonels triumphed 7-5, in 12 innings. It was the second straight extra-inning loss for the Kingston club, which has only one win in 19 tries. Ronnie Esrang's two-run single to center with two out pushed over the winning tallies for Rome.

Oneonta's game at Gloversville was rained out.

League headquarters announced, meanwhile, that as of May 16th, Oneonta was the top batting club in the League with a .332 average. Rome's fielding was tops at .961.

Individual batting honors went to John Bella, Amsterdam centerfielder, with a .469 average. Bill Casanova, Amsterdam rightfielder, was second with .464.

Don Sundlove, Amsterdam righty, and Rome's Robert Linskey shared pitching honors with three wins and no losses each

CYO Hurler Fans Sixteen Batters

Johnny Culjak, pitcher for St. Mary's CYO baseball nine, set a new CYO League record Sunday, when he struck out 18 batters, as St. Mary's Dodgers drubbed the Immaculate Conception, 16-6.

Culjak also aided his own cause with a trio of singles. Charlie Diers knocked in five runs with a triple and single. F. Fisher poled two doubles and two singles, while A. Wood and J. Leonardo each slugged three safeties for the winners.

Duffy, Goma and Sohm collected the Immaculate hits.

Can-Am League operators are counting on a tight race and improved weather conditions to step up the turnstile tempo of the Class C circuit. There was no disposition to cry wolf at Saturday's general meeting here and financial statements of the various clubs showed the league to be in better shape than at a corresponding period in 1950.

The league received an application from Rutland, Vt., for a Can-Am franchise, if an opening develops. This could happen if any of the current teams folds up or the league is expanded to eight clubs in 1952. There has been some talk of taking on Rutland and Glens Falls, N. Y., next year. The Canadian clubs appear to be in the Provincial League to stay.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

An improved Colonial club would be a welcome tonic for other clubs. A cellar door-mat seldom attracts customers into a ball park. But signs on the local front are encouraging and both Pittsfield and Gloversville commented on the improved appearance of Manager Hank Camelli's squad. The skipper keeps trying. Only three players remain from the starting array that launched the season against Pittsfield—Jack Allen, Lou Kramberg and Joe Niro. Gone are Joe Stelmach, who created a flurry by drawing four walks on three separate occasions and then tailed into a dismal slump; Tom Luce, Charlie Gobeo, the Middletown lad, Al Greene and Eddie Pagan. Jackie Price, the famous baseball comedian, attracted 1527 into the Oneonta ball park a few nights ago. We got only a quick glance at the District No. 1 AZA basketball tournament here on Saturday, but it seemed to us that the Kingston youths were outmanned in every department. Some of those squads were bigger than the KHS varsity. Coach Eddie Bahl and Manager J. Kirshner deserve a round of applause for bringing the local cagers into the semi-finals.

• A Power Hitter Passes On:

Twaalfskill Golf Club was shocked by the sudden and tragic death of Lou Boice, youngest of the famous Boice golfing brothers. A youthful giant, with a ready grin and pleasant personality, Boice had achieved legendary feats with his irons. He powdered a long wood, like all the Boice brothers, but when he took an iron in his hand it was a sight to behold. He is known to have driven across the No. 3 green from the back tee and with the wind against him. All this with a No. 4 iron! We extend our most heartfelt condolence to the members of his family. Alvin Boice is, of course, the Twaalfskill Club champion.

Wiltwyck Golf Club plans its first "Men's Night" of the season on Thursday, followed by the opening dance on Saturday night. An intra-club mixed match is planned for Sunday. Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., and Mrs. Ivan Whitmore are in charge of the golf activities. A late report by dogsled reveals that Marge Jansen and Dot Rawding combined with even 500s for a 1000 doubles total in the state women's bowling tournament. Mrs. Jansen, who devoutly pursues divots and duffers around Wiltwyck these days, posted 514 in Class A singles, while Mrs. Rawding shot 509. Chick Harbert, of Detroit, the longest hitter in golf, has been added to the Palm Beach Round Robin in New Rochelle on June 7-10. . . . Ellenville High was recently awarded the DUSO League trophy for sportsmanship in basketball. Kingston High hasn't won the trophy since 1946-47. Helene Mollenhauer can rightfully boast about her bowling team. In last place among Rosendale teams all season, the Mollenhauer Dairy gals shot the first "2000" of their career with 2016 in the Booster class in the Binghamton state tournament.

All baseball-minded kids are cautioned to check their mail in the next few days. A surprise is in store for you.

Ohioan Paces PGA Qualifiers

New York, May 22 (AP)—A Cleveland, Ohio, professional, Dick Shoemaker, went on a birdie spree to lead sectional qualifying throughout the nation yesterday for the annual PGA golf championship next month in Pittsburgh. The event is scheduled June 24-July 3.

Shoemaker put together a brace of 68's for a score of 136 that many of the country's leading professionals failed to match in 18 scattered centers.

The 136, which counted nine birdies and four under par for the par 70 Lakewood course, beat Herman Keiser by nine strokes. Keiser, qualifying at the same club, made the grade with 75-70—145. He is a former Masters champion.

Such well-known tournament pros as Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Al Brosch of Garden City, N. Y., qualified in the big Metropolitan trials at Garden City, N. Y.

Tony Tiso led eight qualifiers from a field of 42 at Garden City with a 67-72—139. Harmon had 141, Brosch 142.

Long-hitting Johnny Bulla, qualified at Pittsburgh with 71-74—145; Dick Metz, the Arkansas City, Kas., veteran, fired a 71-69—140 at Muskogee, Okla., to make the grade.

Other qualifiers:

Garden City, N. Y.—Tony Tiso, Tuckahoe, N. Y., 67-72—139; Claude Harmon, Mamaroneck, N. Y., 68-73—141; Jack Mallon, Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., 73-69—142; Al Brosch, Garden City, N. Y., 71-71—142; Fred Granuer, Port Washington, N. Y., 72-71—143; Art Stuhler, Rockville Center, N. Y., 72-71—143; Don Brown, Locust Valley, N. Y., 74-70—144; Ferdie Catropa, Massapequa, N. Y., 70-74—144.

Bowling Roundup

The Ferraro Summer Mixed Bowling League will meet at the Bowlodrome on Thursday at 8 p. m., prior to the start of the league schedule. Fourteen teams will compete.

Joe Sangi and Jennie Spada led their respective divisions of the Central Rec Mixed League, with 609 and 493. Sangi posted 200-212-197, while Miss Spada hit for 166-182-145.

Other high scorers were Jack Houghtaling 204-210-593; Ken Radel 203-589; Red Sangi 546; Frank Grimaldi 204-518; Don Peterson 503; Kay Roosa 458; B. Ostrander 444; Marie Grimaldi 439; J. Carr 420; M. Van Alstyne 415; and S. O'Bryan 407.

The newly-organized BYA Summer Bowling League for women will meet at 7:30 this evening at the Bowlodrome prior to the opening of the league schedule at 8 p. m.

Beginners and intermediate keglerettes are invited to join the league. Mrs. Rose Schatzel, current New York state women's tournament all-events leader, will serve as instructor during the league sessions.

The postponed May meeting of the Kingston Bowling Association will be held on Thursday, May 24, at 7:30 p. m., at the Y.M.C.A.

Graziano Kayoes Greco in Third

Montreal, May 22 (AP)—The comeback trail is growing broader for Rocky Graziano, the hard-socking onetime middleweight champion from New York.

Graziano weighed 161½, Greco 153.

Layne-Marciano Bout Set For July 18

New York, May 22 (AP)—Two of the most promising young heavyweights, Rex Layne and Rocky Marciano, will risk their excellent records against each other at Yankee Stadium July 18.

The International Boxing Club announced yesterday the pair had been signed for a ten-round outdoor feature.

Marciano, who hails from Brockton, Mass., has won all 34 of his pro fights, 29 by knockout. Layne, from Lewiston, Utah, has won 31 bouts, 22 by kayo; lost one and drawn in two.

Chicago—Ed Smith, 152½, Gary, Ind., outpointed Gene Burton, 153, New York (8).

Sugar Ray Stops French Champ

Paris, May 22 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson is willing to defend his middleweight championship over here—that is, for a price.

The price, says Manager George Gainford, is $90,000. Or at least $75,000.

The subject of a 160-pound title bout in London or Paris was raised after the middleweight king stopped Kid Marcel, the French champion, in the fifth round of a ten-round bout here last night.

The championship wasn't at stake since both gladiators weighed in at a little more than 160.

London promoter Jack Solomons was on hand to see the bout. Afterwards he talked with Gainford about a match between Robinson and Randolph Turpin, the British and Empire middleweight titlist.

The talks didn't get past the preliminary stage, Gainford said, and another meeting with Solomons is expected later.

Robinson didn't get a chance to operate on Marcel properly. He toyed along with the Frenchman for four rounds and then in the fifth when he started to pick up his pace Marcel's handlers threw in the towel.

The time was 57 seconds of the fifth.

Newark, N. J.—Ralph Giordano, 138, Newark, outpointed Julio Colon, 135½, New York (8).

Al Searfoss' Relief Pitching Saves Chez Emile's 4-3 Victory

Turns Back Merchants With Bases Loaded

A neat stint of relief pitching by Al Searfoss choked off a Morgan Merchant threat and enabled Chez Emile to bag its third victory in four City League starts, 4 to 3, yesterday at the Athletic Field.

Manager Joe Hoffman pulled a grandiose bit of strategy when he yanked starter Ernie McCormick, who had a three-ball, no-strike count on Bill Ball.

Vince Clearwater's walk and a double by Eric Goercke had preceded McCormick's three errant pitches to Ball. Searfoss completed the maximum four-ball count on Ball to load the sacks with no out and Chez Emile in front, 4 to 2.

Searfoss got the first out by fanning Klosterman, a pinch hitter for Slover. Stoll flied to short center, the runners holding, for the second out. He couldn't handle Hokie Tomson, the Morgan flinger, who walked, forcing in Clearwater, but he did fan Post to end the game.

It was a well pitched game with Hokie Tomson yielding five hits, while McCormick gave up the four Morgan blows. The Merchants were up to their old habit of leaving runners stranded. This time it was 10, boosting their seasonal total to 32 in three games. Meanwhile, they have accounted for only eight runs.

McCormick Falters

McCormick, who wasn't as sharp as usual, yielded singles to Mickey Provenzano, Charlie Lay and three walks to set up two Morgan runs in the first. He then throttled the losers in the pinches until the fifth when Searfoss came on for the save.

Chez Emile picked up two in the first to tie the score at 2-2. Glazer walked, Barnes fanned, Scheffel reached first on Davis' error and Lindhurst singled Glazer home. On an attempted double steal, Scheffel was nailed at the plate but Bud Swarthout followed with a one-baser to score Lindhurst.

Glaser's single behind a pair of walks to Sickler and McCormick and Benjamin's sacrifice made it 3-2 in the second. The Chezzies closed out their scoring in the third when Lindhurst walked with one out, stole second and rode home on Bud Swarthout's second run-producing single of the contest.

Messinger's Memos: The crowd was about 150. Bud Swarthout continued his great clutch playing for the Chezzies. Sonny Barnes made a fine catch of Stoll's foul pop in the fourth, reaching over the fence to spear it one-handed. Billy Ball is on a string of free trips to first base. To date he has walked six times and was hit once in eight at bat. Searfoss flashed speed and a nice breaking hook in his relief role. Mickey Provenzano, home on furlough, played a good game for Morgan's. He started out as a catcher, then took over second base like he owned it.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

First place in the Canadian-American League will be at stake tonight when Pittsfield tries to displace visiting Amsterdam.

Pittsfield cut the Amsterdam lead to a half game last night with a 3-2 victory. The Electrics pushed over the winning run in the last of the ninth. Dick Zack walked, and moved to second on Jack Fitzgibbons's sacrifice. Jack Moore was passed intentionally and pitcher Al Leech got an infield single to load the bases. Slugger Jack Seltenreich then slapped a single to center to score the deciding marker.

Tonight's game will be the sixth between the clubs. So far, Amsterdam has won three and Pittsfield, two.

Kingston absorbed its 14th straight defeat, when the visiting Rome Colonels triumphed 7-5, in 12 innings. It was the second straight extra-inning loss for the Kingston club, which has only one win in 19 tries. Ronnie Esrang's two-run single to center with two out pushed over the winning tallies for Rome.

Oneonta's game at Gloversville was rained out.

League headquarters announced, meanwhile, that as of May 16th, Oneonta was the top batting club in the League with a .332 average. Rome's fielding was tops at .961.

Individual batting honors went to John Bella, Amsterdam centerfielder, with a .469 average. Bill Casanova, Amsterdam rightfielder, was second with .464.

Don Sundlove, Amsterdam righty, and Rome's Robert Linskey shared pitching honors with three wins and no losses each.

London promoter Jack Solomons was on hand to see the bout. Afterwards he talked with Gainford about a match between Robinson and Randolph Turpin, the British and Empire middleweight titlist.

The talks didn't get past the preliminary stage, Gainford said, and another meeting with Solomons is expected later.

Robinson didn't get a chance to operate on Marcel properly. He toyed along with the Frenchman for four rounds and then in the fifth when he started to pick up his pace Marcel's handlers threw in the towel.

The time was 57 seconds of the fifth.

Turns Back Merchants With Bases Loaded

A neat stint of relief pitching by Al Searfoss choked off a Morgan Merchant threat and enabled Chez Emile to bag its third victory in four City League starts, 4 to 3, yesterday at the Athletic Field.

Manager Joe Hoffman pulled a grandiose bit of strategy when he yanked starter Ernie McCormick, who had a three-ball, no-strike count on Bill Ball.

Vince Clearwater's walk and a double by Eric Goercke had preceded McCormick's three errant pitches to Ball. Searfoss completed the maximum four-ball count on Ball to load the sacks with no out and Chez Emile in front, 4 to 2.

Searfoss got the first out by fanning Klosterman, a pinch hitter for Slover. Stoll flied to short center, the runners holding, for the second out. He couldn't handle Hokie Tomson, the Morgan flinger, who walked, forcing in Clearwater, but he did fan Post to end the game.

It was a well pitched game with Hokie Tomson yielding five hits, while McCormick gave up the four Morgan blows. The Merchants were up to their old habit of leaving runners stranded. This time it was 10, boosting their seasonal total to 32 in three games. Meanwhile, they have accounted for only eight runs.

McCormick Falters

McCormick, who wasn't as sharp as usual, yielded singles to Mickey Provenzano, Charlie Lay and three walks to set up two Morgan runs in the first. He then throttled the losers in the pinches until the fifth when Searfoss came on for the save.

Chez Emile picked up two in the first to tie the score at 2-2. Glazer walked, Barnes fanned, Scheffel reached first on Davis' error and Lindhurst singled Glazer home. On an attempted double steal, Scheffel was nailed at the plate but Bud Swarthout followed with a one-baser to score Lindhurst.

Glaser's single behind a pair of walks to Sickler and McCormick and Benjamin's sacrifice made it 3-2 in the second. The Chezzies closed out their scoring in the third when Lindhurst walked with one out, stole second and rode home on Bud Swarthout's second run-producing single of the contest.

Messinger's Memos: The crowd was about 150. Bud Swarthout continued his great clutch playing for the Chezzies. Sonny Barnes made a fine catch of Stoll's foul pop in the fourth, reaching over the fence to spear it one-handed. Billy Ball is on a string of free trips to first base. To date he has walked six times and was hit once in eight at bat. Searfoss flashed speed and a nice breaking hook in his relief role. Mickey Provenzano, home on furlough, played a good game for Morgan's. He started out as a catcher, then took over second base like he owned it.

Can-Am Roundup

(By The Associated Press)

First place in the Canadian-American League will be at stake tonight when Pittsfield tries to displace visiting Amsterdam.

Pittsfield cut the Amsterdam lead to a half game last night with a 3-2 victory. The Electrics pushed over the winning run in the last of the ninth. Dick Zack walked, and moved to second on Jack Fitzgibbons's sacrifice. Jack Moore was passed intentionally and pitcher Al Leech got an infield single to load the bases. Slugger Jack Seltenreich then slapped a single to center to score the deciding marker.

Tonight's game will be the sixth between the clubs. So far, Amsterdam has won three and Pittsfield, two

Kingston absorbed its 14th straight defeat, when the visiting Rome Colonels triumphed 7-5, in 12 innings. It was the second straight extra-inning loss for the Kingston club, which has only one win in 19 tries. Ronnie Esrang's two-run single to center with two out pushed over the winning tallies for Rome.

Oneonta's game at Gloversville was rained out.

League headquarters announced, meanwhile, that as of May 16th, Oneonta was the top batting club in the League with a .332 average. Rome's fielding was tops at .961.

Individual batting honors went to John Bella, Amsterdam centerfielder, with a .469 average. Bill Casanova, Amsterdam rightfielder, was second with .464.

Don Sundlove, Amsterdam righty, and Rome's Robert Linskey shared pitching honors with three wins and no losses each

CYO Hurler Fans Sixteen Batters

Johnny Culjak, pitcher for St. Mary's CYO baseball nine, set a new CYO League record Sunday, when he struck out 18 batters, as St. Mary's Dodgers drubbed the Immaculate Conception, 16-6.

Culjak also aided his own cause with a trio of singles. Charlie Diers knocked in five runs with a triple and single. F. Fisher poled two doubles and two singles, while A. Wood and J. Leonardo each slugged three safeties for the winners.

Duffy, Goma and Sohm collected the Immaculate hits.

Can-Am League operators are counting on a tight race and improved weather conditions to step up the turnstile tempo of the Class C circuit. There was no disposition to cry wolf at Saturday's general meeting here and financial statements of the various clubs showed the league to be in better shape than at a corresponding period in 1950.

The league received an application from Rutland, Vt., for a Can-Am franchise, if an opening develops. This could happen if any of the current teams folds up or the league is expanded to eight clubs in 1952. There has been some talk of taking on Rutland and Glens Falls, N. Y., next year. The Canadian clubs appear to be in the Provincial League to stay.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

An improved Colonial club would be a welcome tonic for other clubs. A cellar door-mat seldom attracts customers into a ball park. But signs on the local front are encouraging and both Pittsfield and Gloversville commented on the improved appearance of Manager Hank Camelli's squad. The skipper keeps trying. Only three players remain from the starting array that launched the season against Pittsfield—Jack Allen, Lou Kramberg and Joe Niro. Gone are Joe Stelmach, who created a flurry by drawing four walks on three separate occasions and then tailed into a dismal slump; Tom Luce, Charlie Gobeo, the Middletown lad, Al Greene and Eddie Pagan. Jackie Price, the famous baseball comedian, attracted 1527 into the Oneonta ball park a few nights ago. We got only a quick glance at the District No. 1 AZA basketball tournament here on Saturday, but it seemed to us that the Kingston youths were outmanned in every department. Some of those squads were bigger than the KHS varsity. Coach Eddie Bahl and Manager J. Kirshner deserve a round of applause for bringing the local cagers into the semi-finals.

• A Power Hitter Passes On:

Twaalfskill Golf Club was shocked by the sudden and tragic death of Lou Boice, youngest of the famous Boice golfing brothers. A youthful giant, with a ready grin and pleasant personality, Boice had achieved legendary feats with his irons. He powdered a long wood, like all the Boice brothers, but when he took an iron in his hand it was a sight to behold. He is known to have driven across the No. 3 green from the back tee and with the wind against him. All this with a No. 4 iron! We extend our most heartfelt condolence to the members of his family, Alvin Boice is, of course, the Twaalfskill Club champion.

Wiltwyck Golf Club plans its first "Men's Night" of the season on Thursday, followed by the opening dance on Saturday night. An intra-club mixed match is planned for Sunday. Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr., and Mrs. Ivan Whitmore are in charge of the golf activities. A late report by dogsled reveals that Marge Jansen and Dot Rawding combined with even 500s for a 1000 doubles total in the state women's bowling tournament. Mrs. Jansen, who devoutly pursues divots and duffers around Wiltwyck these days, posted 514 in Class A singles, while Mrs. Rawding shot 509. Chick Harbert, of Detroit, the longest hitter in golf, has been added to the Palm Beach Round Robin in New Rochelle on June 7-10. . . . Ellenville High was recently awarded the DUSO League trophy for sportsmanship in basketball. Kingston High hasn't won the trophy since 1946-47. Helene Mollenhauer can rightfully boast about her bowling team. In last place among Rosendale teams all season, the Mollenhauer Dairy gals shot the first "2000" of their career with 2016 in the Booster class in the Binghamton state tournament.

All baseball-minded kids are cautioned to check their mail in the next few days. A surprise is in store for you.

Ohioan Paces PGA Qualifiers

New York, May 22 (AP)—A Cleveland, Ohio, professional, Dick Shoemaker, went on a birdie spree to lead sectional qualifying throughout the nation yesterday for the annual PGA golf championship next month in Pittsburgh. The event is scheduled June 24-July 3.

Shoemaker put together a brace of 68's for a score of 136 that many of the country's leading professionals failed to match in 18 scattered centers.

The 136, which counted nine birdies and four under par for the par 70 Lakewood course, beat Herman Keiser by nine strokes. Keiser, qualifying at the same club, made the grade with 75-70—145. He is a former Masters champion.

Such well-known tournament pros as Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Al Brosch of Garden City, N. Y., qualified in the big Metropolitan trials at Garden City, N. Y.

Tony Tiso led eight qualifiers from a field of 42 at Garden City with a 67-72—139. Harmon had 141, Brosch 142.

Long-hitting Johnny Bulla, qualified at Pittsburgh with 71-74—145; Dick Metz, the Arkansas City, Kas., veteran, fired a 71-69—140 at Muskogee, Okla., to make the grade.

Other qualifiers:

Garden City, N. Y.—Tony Tiso, Tuckahoe, N. Y., 67-72—139; Claude Harmon, Mamaroneck, N. Y., 68-73—141; Jack Mallon, Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., 73-69—142; Al Brosch, Garden City, N. Y., 71-71—142; Fred Granuer, Port Washington, N. Y., 72-71—143; Art Stuhler, Rockville Center, N. Y., 72-71—143; Don Brown, Locust Valley, N. Y., 74-70—144; Ferdie Catropa, Massapequa, N. Y., 70-74—144.

Bowling Roundup

The Ferraro Summer Mixed Bowling League will meet at the Bowlodrome on Thursday at 8 p. m., prior to the start of the league schedule. Fourteen teams will compete.

Joe Sangi and Jennie Spada led their respective divisions of the Central Rec Mixed League, with 609 and 493. Sangi posted 200-212-197, while Miss Spada hit for 166-182-145.

Other high scorers were Jack Houghtaling 204-210-593; Ken Radel 203-589; Red Sangi 546; Frank Grimaldi 204-518; Don Peterson 503; Kay Roosa 458; B. Ostrander 444; Marie Grimaldi 439; J. Carr 420; M. Van Alstyne 415; and S. O'Bryan 407.

The newly-organized BYA Summer Bowling League for women will meet at 7:30 this evening at the Bowlodrome prior to the opening of the league schedule at 8 p. m.

Beginners and intermediate keglerettes are invited to join the league. Mrs. Rose Schatzel, current New York state women's tournament all-events leader, will serve as instructor during the league sessions.

The postponed May meeting of the Kingston Bowling Association will be held on Thursday, May 24, at 7:30 p. m., at the Y.M.C.A.

Colonial Meeting

Kingston Baseball Club, Inc., stockholders and directors will hold a special meeting on Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

Graziano Kayoes Greco in Third

Montreal, May 22 (AP)—The comeback trail is growing broader for Rocky Graziano, the hard-socking onetime middleweight champion from New York.

Rocky scored a third round knockout here last night over Johnny Greco, the Canadian welterweight champion. Graziano bounced off the ropes to land a right to the jaw, stopping Greco in 1:56 of the round.

Graziano weighed 161½, Greco 153.

Layne-Marciano Bout Set For July 18

New York, May 22 (AP)—Two of the most promising young heavyweights, Rex Layne and Rocky Marciano, will risk their excellent records against each other at Yankee Stadium July 18.

The International Boxing Club announced yesterday the pair had been signed for a ten-round outdoor feature.

Marciano, who hails from Brockton, Mass., has won all 34 of his pro fights, 29 by knockout. Layne, from Lewiston, Utah, has won 31 bouts, 22 by kayo; lost one and drawn in two.

Chicago—Ed Smith, 152½, Gary, Ind., outpointed Gene Burton, 153, New York (8).

Sugar Ray Stops French Champ

Paris, May 22 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson is willing to defend his middleweight championship over here—that is, for a price.

The price, says Manager George Gainford, is $90,000. Or at least $75,000.

The subject of a 160-pound title bout in London or Paris was raised after the middleweight king stopped Kid Marcel, the French champion, in the fifth round of a ten-round bout here last night.

The championship wasn't at stake since both gladiators weighed in at a little more than 160.

London promoter Jack Solomons was on hand to see the bout. Afterwards he talked with Gainford about a match between Robinson and Randolph Turpin, the British and Empire middleweight titlist.

The talks didn't get past the preliminary stage, Gainford said, and another meeting with Solomons is expected later.

Defendants Sentenced

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—The final three defendants in a mass escape March 15 from the Wassaic State School for Mental Defectives were sentenced in Dutchess County Court today to indefinite terms. The defendants, Alfred Hoffman, 22, of Astoria, and Louis B. Rivera, 23, and Rudolph Jackson, 24, both of New York, were ordered to serve the terms at the New York State Institution for Male Defective Delinquents at Napanoch. They pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy in plotting a mass escape. Charges of second degree assault were dismissed.

Opinion Is Meat

membership sat as a full committee to take testimony on the Defense Production Act, and part sat —also with full committee status —to hear testimony whether to reform the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The committee wound up hearings yesterday on the hotly disputed beef price rollback, hearing testimony from more witnesses for the packing industry and cattle raisers denouncing the order as unfair and unworkable.

AFB Is Opposed

Among the farm organizations which issued statements on the stabilization program, the American Farm Bureau Federation said it is opposed to continuation of price and wage controls, contending they remove incentives for increased production.

The National Grange said it believes price controls should not be used except where real shortages exist, and then only when accompanied by rationing.

The National Milk Producers Federation said it opposed price and wage controls because they "give no encouragement to producers or consumers, but only to bureaucracy."

The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives said experience with controls during World War II showed they "restrict production, lead to black markets and result in an actual loss of the very commodities we want."

The National Farmers Union, on the other hand, said it favors price controls on farm products, but not under a system which "allows the already high industrial and business profits to grow even larger."

All the farm groups said they were opposed to an administration proposal to allow price ceiling to be set on farm products at their parity prices at the beginning of their respective marketing years. Under the present law, if ceilings are in effect at all, they must be increased every time the parity price advances, which could mean a change once a month.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices. It is declared by law to be equally fair to farmers and those who buy their products.

Denounces Embargo

Tokyo, May 22 (AP)—Peiping radio tonight broadcast its first denunciation of the United Nations decision declaring an arms embargo on Red China. The broadcast, in Chinese, was heard by The Associated Press in Tokyo. The blockade decision, the Red station said, "had been anticipated. The Americans now are forced to the last measure, and that indicates their catastrophe in Korea is quickly approaching."

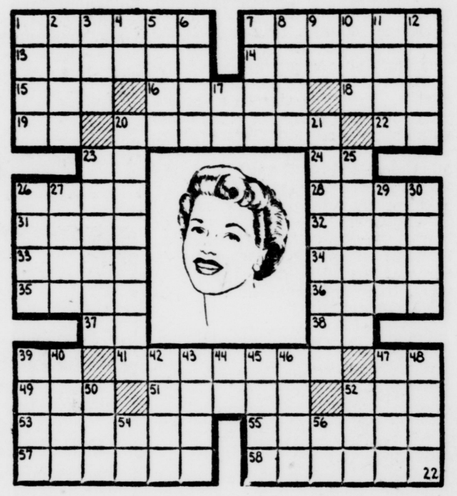
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Bradley Says . . .

Communists' spring offensive was met and broken.

Bradley told senators that as early as February this possibility was discussed by the military joint chiefs of staff.

He related:

"At that time we were reasonably sure a new attack would come sometime in the spring, and if you can bump that off, as it were, you are in a much better position to negotiate than you would be if you couldn't contain it."

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, was testifying at hearings by the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Far Eastern commander.

The expected spring offensive has been launched by the Communists and U.N. troops thus far have succeeded in preventing any major breakthrough, while punishing the attackers severely.

Wanted Guidance

Bradley said that in February the military leaders wanted some "political guidance" but understood that "until the situation is a little better known as to whether or not we can contain it, that the United Nations would have some trouble formulating policy."

His statements suggested the possibility that if the present great Communist effort in Korea is "bumped off" definitely, then the United Nations may take some steps for a negotiated peace.

It was the 15th day of the hearings on Far Eastern policy by the joint Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees.

For the first time, the hearings were shifted to the regular Armed Services Committee room in the Senate building. They have been held in the larger caucus room.

The change was made, senators explained, because of poor acoustics in the caucus room and because the number of outside senators attending sessions had dropped to two or three.

Before today's session, Senator H. Alexander Smith (R.-N. J.) told reporters he wanted to pursue with Bradley the question of whether military or diplomatic factors have carried most weight in the administration's Far Eastern policies.

He said he was interested particularly in whether Secretary of State Acheson had more influence than the Pentagon on President Truman's decision in 1950 to turn down military aid to the Chinese Nationalists.

Birth rates of more than 40 per thousand people a year are rare.

Two Settlements Are Announced

Two additional settlements were announced in Supreme court this morning when Justice Bookstein called the day calendar.

A negligence action brought by Jessie Campbell against Harry Snyder was settled during the over-night recess. Philip Korn with Cashin & Ewig of counsel appeared for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

A negligence action brought by Simon Hornbeck against John J. Mahoney was also settled. N. Le-Van Haver for plaintiff and Roy L. Featherstone for defendant.

Grain Debate Begins

Washington, May 22 (AP)—After weeks of indecision the House gets down to debate today on the hotly-disputed issue of whether to send American grain to combat famine in India. In advance of what promises to be several days of debate, House leaders expected the final vote would make 2,000,000 tons of grain available to India, as the administration has urged. But on what terms, they weren't prepared to predict.

Denies Red Ties

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Academy Award winner Jose Ferrer told the House Un-American Activities Committee today he was no Communist and no sympathizer with Communist causes. Any part he took in Communist front activity, he said, was in the role of an innocent victim of Communist big name hunters. Ferrer's testimony to the committee made the same points he had volunteered in a statement before his appearance. The Puerto Rican-born actor, whose starring role in "Cyrano De Bergerac" won him this year's movie Oscar for the best male performance, was an agreeable witness in the committee's investigation of Communist infiltration of Hollywood.

Natives Are in Panic

Mombasa, Kenya Colony, May 22 (AP)—Many of Mombasa's 80,000 native population are in panic. The reason for the panic is a rumor—British authorities are at a loss to know how it started. The rumor: Heavy rains of this month will overrun the island on which the town stands, and everybody will be drowned.

Police Murderer Dies

Auburn, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—Death today ended the life sentence of Cornelius Short, 56, Auburn prison inmate convicted of murder in the killing of a Monticello policeman in 1923. Short was sentenced to death in the electric chair, but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by the late Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Defendants Sentenced

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—The final three defendants in a mass escape March 15 from the Wassaic State School for Mental Defectives were sentenced in Dutchess County Court today to indefinite terms. The defendants, Alfred Hoffman, 22, of Astoria, and Louis B. Rivera, 23, and Rudolph Jackson, 24, both of New York, were ordered to serve the terms at the New York State Institution for Male Defective Delinquents at Napanoch. They pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy in plotting a mass escape. Charges of second degree assault were dismissed.

Opinion Is Meat

membership sat as a full committee to take testimony on the Defense Production Act, and part sat—also with full committee status—to hear testimony whether to reform the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The committee wound up hearings yesterday on the hotly disputed beef price rollback, hearing testimony from more witnesses for the packing industry and cattle raisers denouncing the order as unfair and unworkable.

AFB Is Opposed

Among the farm organizations which issued statements on the stabilization program, the American Farm Bureau Federation said it is opposed to continuation of price and wage controls, contending they remove incentives for increased production.

The National Grange said it believes price controls should not be used except where real shortages exist, and then only when accompanied by rationing.

The National Milk Producers Federation said it opposed price and wage controls because they "give no encouragement to producers or consumers, but only to bureaucracy."

The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives said experience with controls during World War II showed they "restrict production, lead to black markets and result in an actual loss of the very commodities we want."

The National Farmers Union, on the other hand, said it favors price controls on farm products, but not under a system which "allows the already high industrial and business profits to grow even larger."

All the farm groups said they were opposed to an administration proposal to allow price ceiling to be set on farm products at their parity prices at the beginning of their respective marketing years. Under the present law, if ceilings are in effect at all, they must be increased every time the parity price advances, which could mean a change once a month.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices. It is declared by law to be equally fair to farmers and those who buy their products.

Denounces Embargo

Tokyo, May 22 (AP)—Peiping radio tonight broadcast its first denunciation of the United Nations decision declaring an arms embargo on Red China. The broadcast, in Chinese, was heard by The Associated Press in Tokyo. The blockade decision, the Red station said, "had been anticipated. The Americans now are forced to the last measure, and that indicates their catastrophe in Korea is quickly approaching."

Bradley Says . . .

Communists' spring offensive was met and broken.

Bradley told senators that as early as February this possibility was discussed by the military joint chiefs of staff.

He related:

"At that time we were reasonably sure a new attack would come sometime in the spring, and if you can bump that off, as it were, you are in a much better position to negotiate than you would be if you couldn't contain it."

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, was testifying at hearings by the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Far Eastern commander.

The expected spring offensive has been launched by the Communists and U.N. troops thus far have succeeded in preventing any major breakthrough, while punishing the attackers severely.

Wanted Guidance

Bradley said that in February the military leaders wanted some "political guidance" but understood that "until the situation is a little better known as to whether or not we can contain it, that the United Nations would have some trouble formulating policy."

His statements suggested the possibility that if the present great Communist effort in Korea is "bumped off" definitely, then the United Nations may take some steps for a negotiated peace.

It was the 15th day of the hearings on Far Eastern policy by the joint Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees.

For the first time, the hearings were shifted to the regular Armed Services Committee room in the Senate building. They have been held in the larger caucus room.

The change was made, senators explained, because of poor acoustics in the caucus room and because the number of outside senators attending sessions had dropped to two or three.

Before today's session, Senator H. Alexander Smith (R.-N. J.) told reporters he wanted to pursue with Bradley the question of whether military or diplomatic factors have carried most weight in the administration's Far Eastern policies.

He said he was interested particularly in whether Secretary of State Acheson had more influence than the Pentagon on President Truman's decision in 1950 to turn down military aid to the Chinese Nationalists.

Two Settlements Are Announced

Two additional settlements were announced in Supreme court this morning when Justice Bookstein called the day calendar.

A negligence action brought by Jessie Campbell against Harry Snyder was settled during the over-night recess. Philip Korn with Cashin & Ewig of counsel appeared for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

A negligence action brought by Simon Hornbeck against John J. Mahoney was also settled. N. Le-Van Haver for plaintiff and Roy L. Featherstone for defendant.

Grain Debate Begins

Washington, May 22 (AP)—After weeks of indecision the House gets down to debate today on the hotly-disputed issue of whether to send American grain to combat famine in India. In advance of what promises to be several days of debate, House leaders expected the final vote would make 2,000,000 tons of grain available to India, as the administration has urged. But on what terms, they weren't prepared to predict.

Denies Red Ties

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Academy Award winner Jose Ferrer told the House Un-American Activities Committee today he was no Communist and no sympathizer with Communist causes. Any part he took in Communist front activity, he said, was in the role of an innocent victim of Communist big name hunters. Ferrer's testimony to the committee made the same points he had volunteered in a statement before his appearance. The Puerto Rican-born actor, whose starring role in "Cyrano De Bergerac" won him this year's movie Oscar for the best male performance, was an agreeable witness in the committee's investigation of Communist infiltration of Hollywood.

Natives Are in Panic

Mombasa, Kenya Colony, May 22 (AP)—Many of Mombasa's 80,000 native population are in panic. The reason for the panic is a rumor—British authorities are at a loss to know how it started. The rumor: Heavy rains of this month will overrun the island on which the town stands, and everybody will be drowned.

Police Murderer Dies

Auburn, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—Death today ended the life sentence of Cornelius Short, 56, Auburn prison inmate convicted of murder in the killing of a Monticello policeman in 1923. Short was sentenced to death in the electric chair, but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by the late Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Defendants Sentenced

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—The final three defendants in a mass escape March 15 from the Wassaic State School for Mental Defectives were sentenced in Dutchess County Court today to indefinite terms. The defendants, Alfred Hoffman, 22, of Astoria, and Louis B. Rivera, 23, and Rudolph Jackson, 24, both of New York, were ordered to serve the terms at the New York State Institution for Male Defective Delinquents at Napanoch. They pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy in plotting a mass escape. Charges of second degree assault were dismissed.

membership sat as a full committee to take testimony on the Defense Production Act, and part sat—also with full committee status—to hear testimony whether to reform the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The committee wound up hearings yesterday on the hotly disputed beef price rollback, hearing testimony from more witnesses for the packing industry and cattle raisers denouncing the order as unfair and unworkable.

AFB Is Opposed

Among the farm organizations which issued statements on the stabilization program, the American Farm Bureau Federation said it is opposed to continuation of price and wage controls, contending they remove incentives for increased production.

The National Grange said it believes price controls should not be used except where real shortages exist, and then only when accompanied by rationing.

The National Milk Producers Federation said it opposed price and wage controls because they "give no encouragement to producers or consumers, but only to bureaucracy."

The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives said experience with controls during World War II showed they "restrict production, lead to black markets and result in an actual loss of the very commodities we want."

The National Farmers Union, on the other hand, said it favors price controls on farm products, but not under a system which "allows the already high industrial and business profits to grow even larger."

All the farm groups said they were opposed to an administration proposal to allow price ceiling to be set on farm products at their parity prices at the beginning of their respective marketing years. Under the present law, if ceilings are in effect at all, they must be increased every time the parity price advances, which could mean a change once a month.

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices. It is declared by law to be equally fair to farmers and those who buy their products.

Denounces Embargo

Tokyo, May 22 (AP)—Peiping radio tonight broadcast its first denunciation of the United Nations decision declaring an arms embargo on Red China. The broadcast, in Chinese, was heard by The Associated Press in Tokyo. The blockade decision, the Red station said, "had been anticipated. The Americans now are forced to the last measure, and that indicates their catastrophe in Korea is quickly approaching."

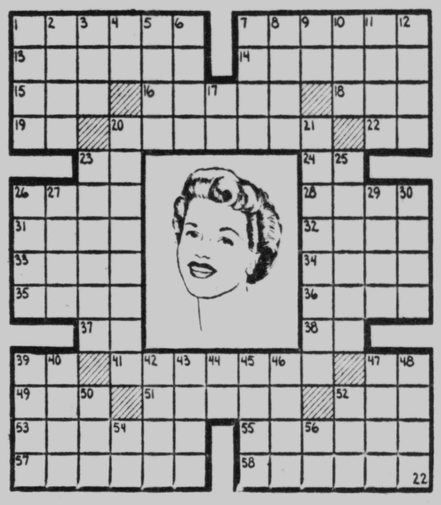
Answer to Previous Puzzle



Bradley Says . . .

Communists' spring offensive was met and broken.

Bradley told senators that as early as February this possibility was discussed by the military joint chiefs of staff.

He related:

"At that time we were reasonably sure a new attack would come sometime in the spring, and if you can bump that off, as it were, you are in a much better position to negotiate than you would be if you couldn't contain it."

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, was testifying at hearings by the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Far Eastern commander.

The expected spring offensive has been launched by the Communists and U.N. troops thus far have succeeded in preventing any major breakthrough, while punishing the attackers severely.

Wanted Guidance

Bradley said that in February the military leaders wanted some "political guidance" but understood that "until the situation is a little better known as to whether or not we can contain it, that the United Nations would have some trouble formulating policy."

His statements suggested the possibility that if the present great Communist effort in Korea is "bumped off" definitely, then the United Nations may take some steps for a negotiated peace.

It was the 15th day of the hearings on Far Eastern policy by the joint Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees.

For the first time, the hearings were shifted to the regular Armed Services Committee room in the Senate building. They have been held in the larger caucus room.

The change was made, senators explained, because of poor acoustics in the caucus room and because the number of outside senators attending sessions had dropped to two or three.

Before today's session, Senator H. Alexander Smith (R.-N. J.) told reporters he wanted to pursue with Bradley the question of whether military or diplomatic factors have carried most weight in the administration's Far Eastern policies.

He said he was interested particularly in whether Secretary of State Acheson had more influence than the Pentagon on President Truman's decision in 1950 to turn down military aid to the Chinese Nationalists.

Birth rates of more than 40 per thousand people a year are rare.

Two Settlements Are Announced

Two additional settlements were announced in Supreme court this morning when Justice Bookstein called the day calendar.

A negligence action brought by Jessie Campbell against Harry Snyder was settled during the over-night recess. Philip Korn with Cashin & Ewig of counsel appeared for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

A negligence action brought by Simon Hornbeck against John J. Mahoney was also settled. N. Le-Van Haver for plaintiff and Roy L. Featherstone for defendant.

Grain Debate Begins

Washington, May 22 (AP)—After weeks of indecision the House gets down to debate today on the hotly-disputed issue of whether to send American grain to combat famine in India. In advance of what promises to be several days of debate, House leaders expected the final vote would make 2,000,000 tons of grain available to India, as the administration has urged. But on what terms, they weren't prepared to predict.

Denies Red Ties

Washington, May 22 (AP)—Academy Award winner Jose Ferrer told the House Un-American Activities Committee today he was no Communist and no sympathizer with Communist causes. Any part he took in Communist front activity, he said, was in the role of an innocent victim of Communist big name hunters. Ferrer's testimony to the committee made the same points he had volunteered in a statement before his appearance. The Puerto Rican-born actor, whose starring role in "Cyrano De Bergerac" won him this year's movie Oscar for the best male performance, was an agreeable witness in the committee's investigation of Communist infiltration of Hollywood.

Natives Are in Panic

Mombasa, Kenya Colony, May 22 (AP)—Many of Mombasa's 80,000 native population are in panic. The reason for the panic is a rumor—British authorities are at a loss to know how it started. The rumor: Heavy rains of this month will overrun the island on which the town stands, and everybody will be drowned.

Police Murderer Dies

Auburn, N. Y., May 22 (AP)—Death today ended the life sentence of Cornelius Short, 56, Auburn prison inmate convicted of murder in the killing of a Monticello policeman in 1923. Short was sentenced to death in the electric chair, but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by the late Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

again against even greater numbers. He said:

"The boys have stopped them cold. The Red units in front of us now are no longer capable of launching a potent attack."

Other officers reported Reds were building up in front of the Second Division and pouring down its eastern flank to hit South Koreans around Soksa.

Reds Push Southwest

The Reds had already pushed southwest of Soksa. A new report Tuesday said they had also penetrated east of the city. One hill changed hands four times in bitter hand to hand fighting.

The Eighth Army said there was heavy fighting all day in the area. "Many Chinese and North Koreans" were reported pressing southward.

Barnard reported other Red columns were streaming down toward the central front.

He quoted a spokesman on the east central front as saying the Reds may be preparing for an attack as big or bigger than the one launched last Wednesday.

Warplanes were at it again Tuesday despite unfavorable weather. During the night B-29s dropped 840 bombs on the Red front lines. Far East air forces said they were pin pointed by radar "with accuracy almost as effective as visual daylight assaults."

Results of "precision bombing carried out within 400 yards of the front line were amazing," Ruffner radioed Lt. Gen. Earle E. Partridge, acting commander of the Far East air forces.

Partridge, commander of the Fifth Air Force, is filling in for Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer. The FEAF said Stratemeyer would be hospitalized "for a considerable time" from a heart attack.

FEAF said its daytime raiders inflicted 750 Red casualties. The navy reported its carrier based planes accounted for 650 more.

World populations began to grow rapidly about 1650 after the end of the 30 Years' war.

Man Hurt Slightly

Fred Baumgarten, R.D., Stone Ridge, suffered lacerations of the mouth when his sedan collided with a parked truck near 65 Hurley avenue early today. The police report at 1:33 a. m., said that Officer Walter Van Steenburgh and Special Officer Meyer Levy, who investigated, reported the Baumgarten car "struck a truck owned by Francis Stauble, 65 Hurley avenue, which was parked to the curb facing west in front of 65 Hurley avenue." The left rear and frame of the truck were damaged, and the sedan was damaged on the front end, police said.

Wagner Assails Dewey

Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., May 22 (AP) — Manhattan Borough President Robert F. Wagner, Jr., says Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has permitted "unbridled" gambling in Saratoga county. Wagner made the statement last night in addressing the annual dinner of the Sullivan County Democratic Committee. Dewey ordered a grand jury investigation of Saratoga gambling conditions after they were spotlighted at the U. S. Senate Crime Probe Committee hearings in New York city. Wagner said the Democratic party had led in exposing "the full sweep of moral dereliction" in the nation. He said the party "neither needs nor wants any part of the gangsters, their henchmen or their political lieutenants."

Urzetta Wins Match

Porthcawl, Wales, May 22 (AP)—Smiling Sammy Urzetta, the 25-year-old "baby" of the U. S. Walker Cup team, made his debut in the British Amateur golf championship a victorious one today as he defeated Steve Tredinnick of England, 3 and 2, in a second round match played in a driving rainstorm. The youthful American champion from Rochester, N. Y., was wild at times from the tee and his putting was erratic, but he never was in danger after he won three of the first six holes. He was out in 39 shots, three over par.

Mass Rallies . . .

United States over the past few days.

Will Not Use Force

London, May 22 (AP)—An informed source said today Britain has told Washington she will not use force under any circumstances in the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company dispute with Iran, unless there has been consultation first with the United States.

Another qualified source said Britain would not use force in any case except as a last resort, and then only if British subjects and British property in Iran were attacked first. Controlling interest in the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which Iran is nationalizing, is owned by the British government.

The promise to consult the U. S. was made in the course of talks between Americans and British in Washington and London, the informant said.

A week ago Britain alerted her Brigade group at Aldershot, but gave no reason. A British Foreign Office spokesman insisted today that the alert order had nothing to do with the Iranian crisis, although it was interpreted that way in Iran. Russia has a treaty with Iran under which she can send forces to fight off foreign intervention.

The U. S. asked both Iran and Britain to show moderation and seek a settlement of the dispute over the oilfields, whose nationalization the British claim is illegal.

World populations began to grow rapidly about 1650 after the end of the 30 Years' war.

Man Hurt Slightly

Fred Baumgarten, R.D., Stone Ridge, suffered lacerations of the mouth when his sedan collided with a parked truck near 65 Hurley avenue early today. The police report at 1:33 a. m., said that Officer Walter Van Steenburgh and Special Officer Meyer Levy, who investigated, reported the Baumgarten car "struck a truck owned by Francis Stauble, 65 Hurley avenue, which was parked to the curb facing west in front of 65 Hurley avenue." The left rear and frame of the truck were damaged, and the sedan was damaged on the front end, police said.

Wagner Assails Dewey

Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., May 22 (AP) — Manhattan Borough President Robert F. Wagner, Jr., says Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has permitted "unbridled" gambling in Saratoga county. Wagner made the statement last night in addressing the annual dinner of the Sullivan County Democratic Committee. Dewey ordered a grand jury investigation of Saratoga gambling conditions after they were spotlighted at the U. S. Senate Crime Probe Committee hearings in New York city. Wagner said the Democratic party had led in exposing "the full sweep of moral dereliction" in the nation. He said the party "neither needs nor wants any part of the gangsters, their henchmen or their political lieutenants."

Urzetta Wins Match

Porthcawl, Wales, May 22 (AP)—Smiling Sammy Urzetta, the 25-year-old "baby" of the U. S. Walker Cup team, made his debut in the British Amateur golf championship a victorious one today as he defeated Steve Tredinnick of England, 3 and 2, in a second round match played in a driving rainstorm. The youthful American champion from Rochester, N. Y., was wild at times from the tee and his putting was erratic, but he never was in danger after he won three of the first six holes. He was out in 39 shots, three over par.

Will Not Use Force

London, May 22 (AP)—An informed source said today Britain has told Washington she will not use force under any circumstances in the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company dispute with Iran, unless there has been consultation first with the United States.

Another qualified source said Britain would not use force in any case except as a last resort, and then only if British subjects and British property in Iran were attacked first. Controlling interest in the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, which Iran is nationalizing, is owned by the British government.

The promise to consult the U. S. was made in the course of talks between Americans and British in Washington and London, the informant said.

A week ago Britain alerted her Brigade group at Aldershot, but gave no reason. A British Foreign Office spokesman insisted today that the alert order had nothing to do with the Iranian crisis, although it was interpreted that way in Iran. Russia has a treaty with Iran under which she can send forces to fight off foreign intervention.

The U. S. asked both Iran and Britain to show moderation and seek a settlement of the dispute over the oilfields, whose nationalization the British claim is illegal.

Sun rises at 4:16 a. m.; sun sets at 7:06 p. m., E.S.T.

Weather, cloudy.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 62 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 80 degrees.

Weather Forecast

New York city and vicinity—Some cloudiness this morning becoming fair and warmer this afternoon. Mostly fair and warm tonight with some fog developing again during early morning hours. Wednesday fair and continued warm with scattered showers likely in late afternoon or evening. High this afternoon around 80 in city, mid-80's in interior sections. Low tonight 60-65. High Wednesday 80-85.

Eastern New York — Rather cloudy with scattered showers, high temperature 75-80 today. Cooler in north portion tonight, low 50-55 in north and 55-60 in south portion. Wednesday rather cloudy and cooler in central and north portions again against even greater numbers. He said:

"The boys have stopped them cold. The Red units in front of us now are no longer capable of launching a potent attack."

Other officers reported Reds were building up in front of the Second Division and pouring down its eastern flank to hit South Koreans around Soksa.

Reds Push Southwest

The Reds had already pushed southwest of Soksa. A new report Tuesday said they had also penetrated east of the city. One hill changed hands four times in bitter hand to hand fighting.

The Eighth Army said there was heavy fighting all day in the area. "Many Chinese and North Koreans" were reported pressing southward.

Barnard reported other Red columns were streaming down toward the central front.

He quoted a spokesman on the east central front as saying the Reds may be preparing for an attack as big or bigger than the one launched last Wednesday.

Warplanes were at it again Tuesday despite unfavorable weather. During the night B-29s dropped 840 bombs on the Red front lines. Far East air forces said they were pin pointed by radar "with accuracy almost as effective as visual daylight assaults."

Results of "precision bombing carried out within 400 yards of the front line were amazing," Ruffner radioed Lt. Gen. Earle E. Partridge, acting commander of the Far East air forces.

Partridge, commander of the Fifth Air Force, is filling in for Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer. The FEAF said Stratemeyer would be hospitalized "for a considerable time" from a heart attack.

FEAF said its daytime raiders inflicted 750 Red casualties. The navy reported its carrier based planes accounted for 650 more.
